Why the Lion Died.
Mussolini's Optimism.
Solved—The Stovepipe Hat.
Fighting at 40 Below.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE ZOOLOGICAL garden at Jacksonville, Fla., sends a new story, about a lion, and a death caused by fear.

It was not the lion that frightened somebody to death. The lion was so badly frightened by airplanes roaring over and near him that he plunged into the bars of his cage and broke his neck. Perhaps he thought the airplane roaring came from super-lions, winged.

Some, responsible for the defense of the United States, lack the intelligence of that lion. At least he recognized danger.

MUSSOLINI BLESSES the thirty-hour week, and would combine it with a "back to the land" movement. He says, which will cheer you, Mussolini being intelligent and practical, that recovery will come next July, and that we are at the bottom of the depression now. Says he:

"I think the second half of 1933 will surprise you pleasantly."

The same thing was said a year ago by W. R. Hearst, who has direct contacts with many important organizations and business enterprises.

GERMAN INDUSTRY shows a gain of 13 per cent, encouraging for all industrialists and workers.

American industry would also show substantial gains quite promptly and American employment would show gains, if this country would buy only goods made in America by American workmen and paid for with American money.

It is pleasant to hear that friends across the ocean are doing better. It would be more pleasant to hear that ten or twelve millions of idle here were going back to work.

BUY AMERICAN GOODS MADE BY AMERICAN LABOR.

ONE BIG problem is settled. Gov. Roosevelt has selected definitely, positively and finally the stovepipe hat that he will wear on March 4.

A friend, Thomas M. Lynch, president of New York state tax commission, gave it to him. Hat manufacturers have sent silk "stovepipe" hats to Gov. Roosevelt, who now has ten of them.

He wears stovepipe hats only to funerals and formal weddings, which means two or three times a year, and wishes he could wear a "gray fedora" or even a "ten gallon" hat on March 4. The dignity of the United States would not permit it.

IF SOMEBODY told you a terrific war had broken out on one of the big stars, Aldebaran or Betelugese, you might say:

"Let them fight; we have enough to worry us."

Similarly, war in far off China and Japan interests us only theoretically. Today you hear that Tokio reports "peace parleys with China." But you know that Japan has more people than she can feed, and they must go somewhere. There is room in Manchuria and other parts of China, and you attach little importance to peace parleys.

Further on you read that Japanese planes are sighted over the capital of Chinese Jehol, and your doubts on peace are confirmed.

Fighting conditions in that part of China would make life in the big war trenches pleasant by comparison. Imagine facing bayonets with the temperature forty degrees below zero.

PROF. PICCARD, a courageous scientist, who has gone up to the stratosphere, higher than any man ever went above the earth's surface, arrives and is asked:

"What about the story that you once had a dog's teeth pulled out, to make sure it would not bite you?"

Prof. Piccard replied, although he need not have done so.

The fact is that the kind-hearted scientist, giving roses to children, took off the thorns, that the children's hands might not be scratched. Imagination substituted dog teeth for rose thorns.

THE GOVERNMENT discovers that milk kept in grass green bottles preserves its quality, does not grow rancid. If you haven't green bottles, black will do as well.

Years ago Joseph E. Uihlein, of Milwaukee, discovered that dark brown bottles preserve beer from damaging effects of sunlight and, advertising the fact ably added several millions barrels to his annual output of beer.

ABBE GORGES LEMAITRE, a Jesuit priest and a professor at the University of Louvain, describes the "cosmic rays" connected in America with the name of Dr. Millikan, as "a glance at the primordial fireworks that marked the beginning of the universe ten billion years or so ago."

The Abbe LeMaitre sees the universe as starting from one "primordial atom" and expanding into the present universe in the course of 10,000,000,000 years.

It takes imagination to see an object hundreds of millions of times smaller than the head of a pin expanding into hundreds of millions of stars, many among them ONE MILLION MILLION times as big as this earth.

But in a universe such as this, one thing seems to be as probable as another.

Murder Plotted?

MRS. GERALD ALLEN CRAIG

WIFE TURNS ON GRID STAR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—(Universal.)—With the amazing charge that blackmail and a pretty woman were the true motives behind her husband's asserted murder plot, Mrs. Ethel Craig today demanded that police "go to the bottom of the case and find the other woman in Jerry's life."

The comely, dark-haired wife of Gerald A. Craig, former University of Southern California football star and World War hero, declared she felt "certain" another woman had played a prominent part in Craig's life during the past year and cited his mounting expenses as proof for her theory. She said:

"If he is capable of planning this despicable crime—to hire a man to murder me—then he is capable of pawning his $2,000 diamond ring for money. He told me six weeks ago he 'lost' it. Now I do not believe him."

Mrs. Craig alleged her husband, in the city jail on a complaint charging suspicion of attempted murder, had himself burglarized their large house three times "for money and for this other woman."

Woman Badly Hurt In Kitchen Blast

An explosion that occurred as Mrs. Helen McGregor, 33, of 1405 Laurel street, North Side, tried to light the gas in her kitchen stove blew the woman across the kitchen, burning her seriously today. Neighbors heard her screams and called police who rushed her to St. John's Hospital.

Two Magistrates Get 'Non-Fix' Tags, 1 Pays

Two police magistrates had their day in Traffic Court today when they pleaded guilty to traffic violations called to their attention by new "non-fixable" tags.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, of Central Station, told Traffic Court Magistrate J. Scott Morgan he didn't know he was violating the parking ordinance when he left his car in Fifth avenue, between Penn and Liberty. On his plea of a perfect record for 1932, he was discharged without the $1 fine, but warned to "be more careful."

Magistrate Ray Snyder, of North Side, sent his dollar through the mail, together with his "non-fixable" tag.

House Bill Rewritten To Balk Attacks On Legality

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—After rewriting the Collier bill, as it passed the House, a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee today favorably reported a new measure, legalizing 3.05 beer by weight and also win containing up to 3.05 per cent alcohol.

This represented a reduction of the alcoholic content of the beer to be legalized as the House proposed to authorize 3.2 beer by weight.

The slash in alcoholic content was made to conform with recent findings of a British royal commission which made a lengthy scientific investigation into the intoxicating effects of beer. This commission found that 3.05 by weight was the highest alcoholic content in non-intoxicating beer.

STATES GIVEN RULE

Another new provision would prohibit sale either of beer or wine in any state having greater alcoholic content "than permitted by the law of the state." This would impose the state rights doctrine on legalized beer, so that dry states could forbid its sale or importation. The legalizing provision was carefully drawn in order to avoid constitutional attacks. It merely removed the penalties for manufacturing, selling or transporting beer with not more than 3.05 per cent of alcoholic content.

The 3.05 per centum by weight would replace the 3.2 per centum authorized by the House. Taken by volume, the new Senate rate would equal 3.8 per centum, while the House figure would equal 4 per centum.

The House federal license tax for selling the legalized beer or wine—of $1,000 a year—was retained.

The House federal tax of $5 a barrel of 31 gallons was retained. Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wis-

Beer Blast Exposes Bootlegging Pupil

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—An 8-year-old boy's bootlegging activities ended abruptly in his school class room here when the cap blew off a lone bottle of home brew beer he was carrying in his pocket.

When questioned by police, the lad admitted he had taken the beer from his dad's supply and brought it to school to offer as a peace offering to an older classmate who had been bullying him.

Mystery Child Identified; Now Seek Mother

Four-year-old Anne Michaels today was identified by relatives and playmates as Anne Mijko, of Ralph, Fayette County. Relatives said Mrs. Anne Mijko, 19-year-old mother of the child, whose plight has aroused considerable interest here, left Ralph a few days before Christmas. Anne was found wandering in Penn avenue on December 29 and sent to the Juvenile Detention Home while police sought her parents.

Anne told authorities she lived under a bridge. Near the home of her relatives in Ralph, investigators said there is a bridge.

A Fayette County worker was en route to Pittsburgh today to complete the identification of the child. She will be assisted here by Catholic Charities and Edwin M. Smith, of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society.

Considerable mystery now surrounds the disappearance of the girl's mother. She has not been seen in Ralph for the past three weeks. Police here are expected to renew their search for the missing woman.

HOUSE DEFEATS FILIPINO VETO

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The Philippine independence bill was passed by the House over President Hoover's veto today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A flat veto of the Philippine independence bill was placed by President Hoover today before a House of Representatives primed for an attempt to override it.

Asserting the measure invited "grave dangers of foreign invasion and war," the President contended in a lengthy message that its terms would lead to the economic downfall of the islands. The United States, he said, would be given the responsibility without authority for maintaining order "in a degenerating social and economic situation."

The vetoed measure provided for the creation of an intermediate government after about two years, if approved by the Filipino people. A 10-year period of economic and political weaning would follow, during which American authority would be curtailed. Complete independence would be established in the eleventh year.

Dollar Family Gets New Bombing Threat

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The Chronicle says a second extortion letter, similar to one which had threatened dynamiting of the home of the late Capt. Robert Dollar at San Rafael and the Dollar Building here, has been received by members of the Dollar family.

LIBBY WOULD RELINQUISH FORTUNE

Ready to Drop Hers, Child's Rights, Father Says

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Libby Holman Reynolds' father today announced that his daughter has offered to relinquish, except for a "modest sum," her right and that of her child to a share in the estate of Smith Reynolds.

Alfred Holman, the father, Cincinnati lawyer, gave out a written statement in which he revealed this action, with the hope, he said, that the remainder of the inheritance may be devoted to public uses through endowments in memory of Smith Reynolds and his father. He said:

"It is believed that the others interested will subscribe to such a program."

STATEMENT SENT

Mr. Holman, who is staying at the temporary home near Wilmington of his daughter, widow of Smith Reynolds, found fatally shot in his Winston-Salem home last July, sent his typewritten statement to newspapers addressed "to the press of the country."

Mr. Holman referred to the amount of the estate as "said to be" $20,000,000.

Mrs. Reynolds' child was born in a Philadelphia hospital Tuesday night. Mr. Holman visited his daughter yesterday after it had been announced in New York that she would fight for a share of the Reynolds fortune for her child and herself.

CHILD MOVED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The 3-day-old son of Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds was removed to another room today where he "can't be reached except with an acetylene torch."

John N. Hatfield, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Hospital, where the baby was born, said this precaution was taken because "we can't have people trying to see him all the time."

Since birth the baby had been kept on the seventh-floor nursery of the maternity department. It is still in its "hot-bed," the modified incubator. The length of time it will be kept in this cannot be stated, the superintendent said.

Mrs. Reynolds has not yet seen her son.

HOSPITAL AIDE FOUND GUILTY

Edward Hennigen, 42, attendant in the psychopathic ward of St. Francis Hospital, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter today in connection with the death of David M. Linton, 53, of Bethel Township, a patient, who died September 7 from injuries suffered in the hospital.

The jury deliberated eight hours and returned a sealed verdict reached last night. Hennigen's attorney, Edward G. Coll, notified the court he would move for a new trial, and the defendant's bail was renewed.

It was testified Linton had become violent in the ward and had been strapped in leg irons. He was found suffering from three fractured ribs and internal injuries and accused Hennigen of attacking him, which the attendant denied.

Radio Performer Loses Alimony Plea

Margaret C. Leyda, who features "Behind the Kitchen Door" on the radio, today lost her plea for alimony. Judge Elder W. Marshall, who heard her plea for counsel fees and alimony, in the divorce action of Edgar J. Leyda, awarded her $50 for counsel fees and ordered payment of $3 a week for the support of her son, Richard. Mrs. Leyda also has a divorce action pending.

JEWEL BANDITS GET $50,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Police headquarters received a report today that Isaac Keller was robbed of $50,000 in jewelry by two men in his penthouse apartment at 40 West Seventy-second street last night.

Keller's wife is the mother of Harry Glemby, wealthy hairgoods manufacturer, whose apartment was robbed of more than $300,000 in jewels a year ago.

The report said the robbers operated in much the same manner as those who robbed the Glemby apartment by posing as bootleggers.

The men, both well dressed, told employes of the building that they had a small parcel to deliver to Keller. They were taken to the roof and then apparently entered the penthouse with a key.

The robbers surprised Keller in the reception room of the apartment, produced revolvers, confined him in a small room and took eight pieces of jewelry which recently had been taken from a safe deposit vault to be cleaned.

Commissioners Aim to Charge Officials For Rent

BULLETIN.

Controller Robert G. Woodside went before the County Commissioners' afternoon budget session and offered to return to the 1909 salary rate if the Commissioners would do the same. Woodside offered to have his office force take salary cuts all down the line.

All county fee officers received a financial blow at the hands of the County Commissioners at today's budget session, when Chairman C. C. McGovern announced the commissioners will divide all operating costs among persons elected to fee positions. Hitherto, the county has provided office rent free and has stood all expenses.

McGovern pointed out that last year's telephone bill for the main county trunk line (AT 4900) was $27,000, and that he intended to divide this year's bill among the county officers.

Cutting a total of $1,060 from the $57,530 requested by Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley at the afternoon session of the budget hearing, excluding salaries, which are to be considered later, McGovern launched an attack on the "high cost" of operating Quarter Sessions Court.

HITS STENOGRAPHERS

He took direct aim at court stenographers who receive salaries of $3,600 to $4,000 and in addition charge the court 40 cents a page for transcribing testimony in trials, according to McGovern. He declared:

"This 40 cents a page is just two steps from burglary. I I think we'll have to put them on the rent list and make them pay rent for their quarters."

The Commissioners decided to call the judges into a conference in their effort to curtail court expenditures which are directly under Topley's supervision.

McGovern, and members of her family checked a fire in their home, at 9 Uvilla street, West End, this morning before firemen arrived. Friday 13th Jinx Here To Worry Superstitious

If you broke your mirror while shaving this morning, walked under a ladder on your way to the car, saw a black cat waltz across the street ahead of you, don't worry—it's only Friday the thirteenth.

Lots of things like these happen when Friday and the thirteenth day of the month come around together, just the same as on other days. But don't worry.

Keep away from ladders and they won't fall upon you, avoid black cats and they won't scratch you, don't break your mirror, and you won't have to buy another.

If you think it unlucky to invite 12 friends to lunch, make it 11, and you'll save money on that, too. And tonight when you look over your left shoulder and don't see the moon, don't get scared, it may be shining over the other shoulder—most people having two shoulders.

If you do any of the many things superstitious people believe will end disastrously for you, and you don't get killed today, don't lose hope.

Friday the thirteenth comes again in October.

Of course, magicians are not superstitious. Ring 13 is the name of the Pittsburgh chapter of their international organization, which started 13 years ago with a membership of 13. It holds its annual election tonight—Friday the 13th—at the Hotel Henry.

Coyne Admits Speaking In 'Wet' Club

Senator James J. Coyne made a speech last night in the Monaca Club, a Fourth Ward resort whose booze has been described as good by no less a person than Judge Frank P. Patterson.

The Senator made no bones about it today. He said that last night some business men called him up and asked him to "come out" there and make a speech. So he went out and made the speech.

He said it was a very short speech and that he simply announced he was in favor of election reforms.

These business men were bakers interested in relief.

The Senator answered another query:

"No, I didn't take a drink. But if I wanted a drink I'd go and buy a drink—a good drink."

It is understood last Friday night there also was a meeting at the Monaca Club, a meeting attended by many prominent politicians.

CHESTER SILENT ON COUNTY ASPHALT 'CHEAT' CHARGES

POLITICAL GRAB REPORT UNDER LEGAL PROBE

Official Who Resigned Under Fire Mum on $25,000 Payments

Frank J. Chester, resigned county highway director, had nothing to say today as the county legal heads studied Main & Co.'s report on the county's asphalt dealings.

Chester refused comment on his resignation and the report's contention that two asphalt companies' commissions were paid for political purposes.

The County Commissioners' attack on the Department of Highways, Tunnels and Roads brought Chester's resignation. It was rumored previously that the Commissioners were preparing to oust him.

HASLEY NAMED

Accepting Chester's resignation, the Commissioners appointed Thomas O. Hasley to succeed him.

Before Chester took the job, in January, 1932, he had been representative of the Barber Asphalt Company and the Lake Asphalt and Petroleum Company, of Harrisburg.

Both firms manufactured an imported grade of "lake" asphalt which was specified in bids by the county. The cost of this type of asphalt is about twice that of "petroleum" asphalt, which is believed superior for paving.

According to the auditors' report, more than $25,000 in commissions was paid to an A. B. Davenport, ostensibly for "lake" asphalt sold to the county.

POLITICS LINKED

Davenport, who lives on Bayard street, was questioned. He said the money was distributed at Chester's direction for what he believed were political purposes, the report said.

Three of the commission checks bore Chester's indorsement, but Chester, when questioned by the auditors, said he didn't remember under what circumstances the indorsements were made, the report stated.

A letter from Controller Robert G. Woodside, protesting the purchase of "lake" asphalt, was included in the auditors' report. Had the county ceased using the imported asphalt from the time of Woodside's letter (July, 1931) until the end of the year, $80,000 would have been saved, the report indicated.

Figures from the United States Department of Commerce, showing that the amount of petroleum asphalt used in the United States was 14 times greater than the amount of "lake" asphalt, were included in the report.

SAVINGS PLAN IGNORED

However, nothing was done about Controller Woodside's protest, and the auditors said they found no further correspondence pertaining to it.

The report cited that in 1930 the County Commissioners had split a bid between the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania and the Mexican Petroleum Company for the purchase of petroleum asphalt. By splitting the business between the two companies, the county paid $653.99 more than it would have paid had it purchased the entire quantity from the lowest bidder, the Mexican company.

By comparison, the auditors said $191,751.26 would have been saved by the county for the four years ending December, 1931, had petroleum asphalt been purchased exclusively.

The report had been only partially read when the Commissioners decided to turn it over to the County Solicitor, who was instructed to in turn pass it on to the District Attorney, if the facts warranted.

increase over last year's budget request, brought from McGovern:

"Did the Kline case have anything to do with making this increase?"

He was told that it probably had some effect.

CLASH ON TELEPHONES

The Commissioners then returned to the subject of telephones. McGovern asked Topley if he had a private telephone. Topley admitted he did have, but paid for it out of his salary. When McGovern said he didn't think any county official needed a private telephone, Commissioner W. D. Mansfield asked:

"Well, we've still got ours, haven't we?"

McGovern told him:

"We'll the only reason is that they haven't got around to take them out."

Yesterday the Commissioners slashed a total of $24,600 from the 1933 budget estimates, scanning the requests of the Board of Viewers, the law library, the jail, Memorial Hall and the jury commissioners.

The Commissioners will make no attempt to shave the salaries and personnel of the offices of elective officials until an answer is received to the appeal to make a peaceful retrenchment, voiced by the Commissioners yesterday. Chairman C. C. McGovern let it be known that elected officials would prune their salary lists or the Commissioners would do it for them.

FARM MEASURE FACES FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The emergency price-fixing plan voted by the House in the hope of adding millions to the 1933 national farm income today faced two new obstacles—the Senate and President Hoover.

Senators for the most part reserved opinions pending a closer study of the intricate allotment bill's provisions. But in some quarters there was strong opposition as hopeful sponsors began a drive for the needed majority.

Even should this be optained, Democratic leaders have said they believe Mr. Hoover will veto the one-year plan.

By a vote of 203 to 151, the measure was passed by the House late yesterday—the rumored friendliness of President-elect Roosevelt being a big factor in mustering this strength.

consin, subcommittee chairman, announced the favorable report would be submitted to the full Judiciary Committee Monday.

'PALTABLE AND HEALTHY'

Blaine declared the 3.05 beer would be palatable and healthy. He pointed out that four pre-prohibition beers contained a less per centum of alcohol. He named these as Pabpst Blue Ribbon, 2.93 per centum; Pabst Red, White and Blue, 2.75 per centum; Young's Pilsener, 2.86 per centum, and Weiss beers, 2.84 per centum.

Some of the old-fashioned beers will have to be made with reduced alcoholic content under the proposed new law. This would be true of the famous Budweiser beer, which was 3.84 per centum alcohol before prohibition. Old-style Lager, which was 3.46 per centum and Weiner beer, which was 3.77 per centum, would have to be toned down, too.

Blaine declared:

"Once legalized, this beer will be thoroughly acceptable to those who like good beer."

Senator Dill (Dem.), of Washington, wrote the revised draft. Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, the dry leader, who also was a member, did not participate, as he announced he would oppose passage of the bill.

CASH INFLATION URGED AS AID TO FARMERS

Oklahoma's Senator Resumes Filibuster For 'Kingfish'

By WILLIAM SPEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Democratic insurgent filibuster against the Glass banking reform bill was resumed this afternoon with Senator Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma, demanding inflation of the currency as a measure of relief for America's farmers.

Senator Huey P. Long (Dem.), the Louisiana "kingfish" who started the filibuster last Monday, roamed through the chamber and cloakrooms seeking converts to his cause. He announced he would not compromise the fight and planned to defeat the bill in its entirety.

KEEPS UP BATTLE

Long was a little hoarse from all the hours of talking he has engaged in during the past three days, but he otherwise was his own chipper and pugnacious self. He proclaimed his intention and ability to go on the oratorical firing line any time his fellow-filibusters got tired.

Meanwhile a currency expansion plan which provides for issuance of $3,000,000,000 of bonds to pay the running expenses of the government and avoid new taxes, was launched in the House today.

INFLATION URGED

The plan was evolved by a subcommittee of 30 members of the independent "open forum" group and is expected to be the rallying cry of increasing numbers of members of Congress who have banded together to force currency expansion, or inflation, either in the present "lame duck" session or the next Congress.

The new scheme provides:

Issuance of $1,000,000,000 of 1 per cent bonds in 30 days, to be taken by Federal Reserve banks which, in turn, will deliver $1,000,000,000 of currency to the Treasury.

The money shall be used to pay the running expenses of the government.

A second $1,000,000,000 shall be issued 30 days after the first issue.

PRICE RAISE AIM

If within 150 days after enactment of the law commodity prices have not risen to 80 per cent of the average from 1921 to 1929, a third $1,000,000,000 of bonds shall be issued to be converted into money.

The bonds shall be for 10 years with the sinking fund available to retire them.

Federal Reserve banks are required to maintain 20 per cent in gold against the new money to be printed as against the present 40 per cent requirement.

The plan was approved by the "open forum" committee directed to study inflation after consideration of the soldiers' bonus and other plans.

The bonus payment was eliminated from the scheme.

UTILITY REFORM REPORT MADE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—A supplementary report of the Senate's utility investigating committee today carried 11 recommendations designed to correct evils in the power industry.

This report, to be introduced Monday night, sets forth that a large number of power and light companies operating in Pennsylvania are subsidiaries of holding corporations and at least a half dozen were units of the Insull "empire," now broken.

Remedial legislation for the evils will be introduced.

Original members of the senatorial committee and counsel collaborated in the report, as they did in the preliminary review of their findings presented to the Upper House January 3.

To fill committee vacancies which developed since the elections, three appointments were made. Senator Thaddeus Krause, Philadelphia, one of the recent appointees, is slated for the chairmanship when the committee meets Monday. At that time Senator Samuel Salus, Philadelphia, another member, will resign, he has indicated.

ond, that seemed, to everybody, wonderful. It seemed too wonderful to many voters who refused to re-elect Congressmen that had been "fools enough to appropriate money in the belief that you could send a message over a wire."

The Radio Corporation of America says the Morse system is now on its way to join the dodo and great auk in the realms of things outgrown. The new telegraph message, sent through the air without wires on "high frequencies" of 30,000 kilocycles and higher, will send your message as written through the air and hand it to your friend in exact fac-simile. He will receive your radio-telegram written out in your own handwriting.

PARLEYS BRING JOB CRISIS TO ROOSEVELT

Curley Demands Work In Fight on 'Dole In America'

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A whirl of conferences today brought the unemployment relief problem and other domestic and international issues before President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mayor James Curley, of Boston, always a staunch Roosevelt supporter and mentioned as a possible cabinet member, called up the unemployment question in an attack on the "Dole System in America."

Curley demanded a reduction in public welfare expenditures and jobs instead of "doles" for the unemployed.

Mayor Curley said that "Mr. Roosevelt recognizes that we have got to move pretty quickly," but he said no commitment was made by him. He added:

"We discussed ways of ending the dole system in America and the whole unemployment problem in general. Our expenditures in Boston in 1932 for public welfare and social relief amounted to $12,500,000 with a population of 780,000. On the same ratio it is estimated that the total expenditures in the United States were about $2,000,000 for the unemployed. The largest sum ever spent by Great Britain in one year for the dole was never in excess of $200,000,000.

"We have got to get back to sound economic principles—jobs and wages. I think we could well study the cantoment system for study the cantonment system for mation work."

Mr. Roosevelt also called in today Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee in New York, for a brief conference.

SLAIN GIRL'S ESCORT SINKS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Dennis Boyle's first inkling that 19-year-old Rose McCloskey had been slain the night she kept a tryst with him in Fairmount Park today jeopardized the chances of his aiding police to trace the girl's slayer.

With his skull fractured in two places, presumably by the samemen who beat his girl companion to death a week ago, Boyle talked lucidly with Acting Superintendent of Police Joseph Lestrange last night for the first time, but in the midst of the interview, he suffered a relapse. He had asked:

"Is Rose dead?"

Lestrange replied:

"We'll talk about that later."

Perspiration broke out on Boyle's face. He muttered:

"If they harmed Rose I'll do everything in my power to aid police catch them. I'll tell everything I know."

His excited condition, however, prompted physicians to halt the interview.

THOMAS OFFERS BUNK TO KING

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(Universal.)—If worst comes to worst, J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions and former rail workers' leader, is willing to share a room with King George.

This was revealed today in "The Life Story of J. H. Thomas," by Basil Fuller, just published.

The book details an intimate and interesting conversation which took place at Buckingham Palace between the King and Thomas during the general strike of 1926.

King George, with a sweep of his hand to indicate the palace, remarked:

"Oh, well, Thomas, if the worst happens, I suppose all this will vanish?"

Thomas smiled, and replied:

"Oh, if it comes to that, sir, you and me will bunk together."

Wife's 'Night Out' Wins Approval of Judge

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A wife's right to one night out a week for a friendly little game of bridge has been upheld today by Judge Vivian Frank Gable in Domestic Relations Court.

Mrs. Mary Ciampitti, 44, mother of nine children, some of them grown daughters who, with her, are members of a neighborhood bridge club, sought support from her estranged husband, Ralf, 45. The husband said:

"Everything went well at home until my wife joined this women's club. She went out every Thursday night, and sometimes didn't get home until 3 a. m."

Here the court took a hand.

"A married woman has a right to some recreation, provided it is of the proper sort. I see nothing wrong with a bridge club one night a week."

No order was imposed, since the court said he would attempt to have the couple patch up their differences, and resume their regular domestic life.

BIRTH OF PRINCESS WILDLY ACCLAIMED IN BULGARIA

NATION WAITS DECISION ON RELIGION

King Boris' Marriage Delayed Years for Pope's Approval

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—All Bulgaria was celebrating the birth of a princess this morning—the first child of King Boris III and Queen Joanna. The mother and baby girl were both reported in excellent health.

Although Bulgaria's constitution prescribes succession by the male line, the princess was welcomed with a warmth of affection reminiscent of the reception accorded Queen Joanna when her royal husband brought her home from Italy two years ago.

RELIGION IN DOUBT

The event naturally renewed speculation as to the religion in which any children of Boris and Joanna will be brought up. The law required that the ruler of Bulgaria must be an Orthodox Catholic and special permission of the Pope was necessary before Boris married the Italian princess.

In official circles, it was pointed out, Boris made no promises in connection with the upbringing of his children.

The Princess' birthday falls just 17 days before her father's anniversary. The King will be 39 years old January 30.

Queen Joanna, who is 24 years old, returned to the capital only yesterday from Varna Palace, where she had been staying since early in December. She spent much of her time knitting garments and frequently chatted with her parents in Rome, particularly the queen mother, by telephone.

APPEALING ROMANCE

One of the most appealing romances of Europe was climaxed by the marriage of Joanna and Boris. There were almost insurmountable religious bars to the union. After years of negotiation, the Pope, by special dispensation, ruled the marriage possible.

How soon the little princess would be seen by her maternal grandparents, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena of Italy, was in doubt. They were to spend two months this winter in Naples and Sorrento, in Southern Italy.

The little girl's paternal grandfather, ex-King Ferdinand, left Germany just a week ago today for a vacation in Africa.

U. S. MISSION IN CHINA PERILED

Mothers and Children Flee Quarters At Changli

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, Jan. 13.—Mothers and children evacuated the American Methodist mission at Changli today when fighting there between Chinese and Japanese forces appeared a grave possibility.

Control of Changli by the Japanese would give them still another strategic position for their campaign to combine Jehol province with the territory controlled by the Manchukuo government.

SENT TO PEIPING

The children and their mothers were sent to Peiping.

Meanwhile, the Chinese government prepared to make peace overtures to Japan regarding the Shanhaikwan incident in the apparent hope of forestalling sanguinary mid-winter hostilities threatening in the province of Jehol.

Liu Chuang-Chi, vice minister of foreign affairs in the Nationalist government, reached here from Nanking and immediately went into conference with Chang Hsueh-Liang at the latter's palace. He is scheduled to proceed to Chingwangtao, near Shanhaikwan, tomorrow.

TERMS SOUGHT

Liu described his trip as designed solely to review the battlefront, but it was generally believed he would leave for Shingwangtao carrying former President Chiang Kai-Shek's personal instructions to consult with the Japanese in an effort to reach agreeable terms without delay.

Liu's chances of success were regarded as problematical. Japanese news agency dispatches from Chingwangtao quoted the Japanese commander there as stating that China must come "on bended knee" and apologize for the incidents leading to the Shanhaikwan fighting before settlement can be hoped for.

Despite the apparent peace maneuvers on the part of the Nationalist government, active military preparations went forward in Jehol to stem the Japanese attempt to annex the province of Manchukuo.

In the expectation that a major Japanese offensive would be ordered shortly, Tang Yu-Lin, governor of Jehol, hurriedly concentrated his "big sword" volunteers in the Kailu-Tungliao sector, with the plan of forestalling the enemy by a swift dash across the province, cutting the Tungliao-Taonan and Tungliao-Ssupingkai railways, over which the Japanese reinforcements are pouring into Jehol.

PAJAMA GIRL, MAN SURVIVE DEATH RIDE

Victim Decoyed to Singer's Home Feigns Fatal Injury

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—When the pistoling began, Edward Morrissey, 36, rolled over and played dead. So's he's alive today.

Meanwhile police sough to cut through the tangle of contradictions in the stories told by Morrissey from his hospital bed and by Jean O'Hara, 23, redheaded cabaret singer.

Both were found early today on the Waukegan road near Deerfield, Morrissey with a bullet in his back, the girl in pajamas.

They said they had been pounced on by three gunmen at the girl's North Side apartment, that Morrissey had been shot and she had fainted. Morrissey said he pretended to be dead and ascribed his return alive from his "ride" to that fact. Both were then taken by automobile to the spot where they were found and thrown into the ditch.

Morrissey, who runs a soft drink parlor, said he had received a decoy phone call to go to the girl's apartment. He said the attack occurred in the hall. The girl said she had gone out for a paper and had met him in the street. She is a former show girl, but police found 50 pistol shells in one of the two apartments she admitted occupying.

'DISH' SLAYER HELD SANE

MARSHALL, Ill., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The state today sought to refute evidence that Hubert C. Moor, on trial for the murder of his wife, is insane.

Dr. Frank S. Hutchins, of the Indiana Medical School, Indianapolis, testified that he had examined the school teacher-defendant and found he was not suffering from dementia praecox, did not have delusions, and was sane now and at the time of the slaying.

Testifying in his own behalf yesterday, Moor sobbed as he told of frequent quarrels "because the sink was always full of dirty dishes" and because his wife was such an untidy housekeeper he was "ashamed to invite friends to his home."

PROBE BURNING OF ARMORY

BALTIMORE, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—While the ruins of the Fifth Regiment Armory still smouldered, a four-way investigation of the $1,000,000 blaze was begun here today. The fire, which destroyed the building and its contents, is the second in five months.

The building was a show place of the city, having been the scene of the historic first nomination of Woodrow Wilson.

Today's fire was discovered about 2 a. m. The entire interior of the building was in flames.

Because of stored ammunition, police and firemen immediately vacated about 40 residences about the building and succeeded in removing a portion of the explosives from the storeroom.

Col. Washington Bowie, Jr., commander of the Fifth Maryland Regiment, said the damage might mount to $1,500,000.

Almost all the other members of the family were severely burned before being rescued.

Detectives today were told that the kidnapers demanded $100,000 ransom, but when negotiations failed to produce results they released their prisoner.

The patrolmen under arrest are John Nevins and Arthur B. Graeff, who have been in the police department 5 and 11 years respectively.

HELD FOR QUIZ IN VOLPE CASE

Gennario Coporose, 53, of Portland, Me., was held for further investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today in connection with the killing of the three Volpe brothers after Detective Lieut. Frank Ferris testified Portland police informed him Coporose had boasted to friends he knew something about a murder in Pittsburgh.

Coporose was identified as a friend of the Volpes. Ferris said he disappeared several days after Johnny, Jimmy and Arthur Volpe were killed late last July in a Wylie avenue coffee shop, and had been "loafing" there prior to the killings.

Ferris said he received a letter August 22 from Police Chief Herman A. Haskell, of Portland, saying two Italians whose movements were mysterious were there. He obtained the license number of Coporose's automobile and learned it was issued to the latter's wife in Pittsburgh, he said. Ferris said Coporose subsequently disappeared and was arrested here. Coporose told detectives he was a friend of the Volpes, but denied knowledge of the killings.

"I hope to be left alone and allowed to spend the rest of my life quietly."

DOROTHY HALE TO HONOR MATE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Dorothy Hale, who recently was described as a great "movie find" by a Hollywood producer, has been scouring the world for months for trace of paintings done by her deceased husband.

Today, with 30 of them located, she began arranging a memorial exhibit.

Gardner Hale, a native of Chicago and a descendant of Swinburne, the poet, was killed a year ago last December when his automobile went over a 500-foot cliff in California.

Although only 37, he had won international fame as a mural painter. He was generally credited with having done more than anyone else to restore the art of fresco painting to favor in America.

In her desire to obtain a representative collection of his works, Mrs. Hale, once a Pittsburgh society girl, had to trace his canvases into many a remote country.

Mrs. Hale is a daughter of James P. Donovan, downtown real estate broker. The Donovans live in Dunmoyle place.

CHARGE INSULL RECEIVERSHIP 'FRAMEUP'

By WEST PETERSON
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. — The pitiful hopes of hundreds of once-trusting investors hung today on the outcome of sensational charges that Samuel Insull and Chicago and New York bankers "framed" the receiverships of Insull's numerous defunct utility companies.

Their life savings gone and their faith in the "magic" financial wand of the fugitive utility empire king blasted, some 200 creditors of Insull Utility Investments, Ind., carried their fight before Bankruptcy Referee Garfield Charles to have the appointment of Calvin Fentress as trustee and receiver of the holding company set aside.

INVESTORS 'SUCKERS'

Bluntly the wan-eyed investors were told they had been "suckers."

Their spokesman and champion is Attorney Samuel Ettelson, once a close friend and colleague of Insull. Fentress' appointment was withheld pending investigation.

Ettelson charged that there had been collusion in the receivership appointments. He charged that at a meeting with bankers in New York, Insull decreed that Edward N. Hurley, Charles A. McCulloch and himself (Insull) should be co-receivers for the huge Middle West Utilities Company. He also charged that in a similar manner Insull chose the receivers for the other companies of his shattered utility structure and "imposed" on Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley to obtain their appointment.

ATTACK CHEERED

Substantial-looking men in faded suits; women in dollar dresses and the school teachers who had lost their life savings cheered as Ettelson continued:

"I want you—we want you—to name someone as trustee of this estate who is not under the malign influence of Insull and his underlings."

Senate Probers Study Securities Sale Curb

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Protection for the American investing public from such financial debacles as the Kreuger & Toll collapse was considered today by the Senate Banking Committee.

Completing its inquiry into the affairs of Ivar Kreuger, international financier who committed suicide in Paris, the committee turned to a suggestion that legislation be enacted to require all companies offering securities for public sale to submit their books to outside auditors.

The suggestion came from Frank Altschul, chairman of the stock list committee of the New York Stock Exchange, and was well received by the group of senators.

The committee also gave attention today to its next subject—failure of the gigantic Insull public utility group. Investigators have been working for months on the Insull case, but it is not quite ready for presentation.

'SLAIN' MATE FOUND ALIVE

ASHBURN, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The supposed victim of a murder has been found alive, Sheriff Alex Story said today, and charges of murder against Mrs. Walter Coker, wife of the man believed slain, and Louis White, have been dropped.

The Sheriff and undertaker now face the task of identifying a skeleton, first identified by Coker's mother to be that of her son. The skeleton was found last September on a creek bank four miles from here.

Mrs. Coker, who has been in jail here in connection with the supposed slaying, was released yesterday. She said:

"I can't believe it. I still believe he's dead, but I'm glad to be free."

Coker was found living in a camp on Homer road, in Bank County, and admitted his identity immediately. Lee asked him if he knew his wife was in jail charged with his murder. He said he had heard she was, but that he "just hadn't done anything about it."

Sacred Scroll Saved In Synagogue Fire

Members of the Shaare Tefillah Congregation at 23-25 Miller street, groped through the auditorium of the synagogue, rapidly filling with smoke, early today to carry out the sacred scroll.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was confined to the basement, but did damage estimated at $1,500, according to Battalion Chief Daniel Jones.

Wife Gets Term, Man Paroled In Rum Case

A woman was sentenced to serve one month in jail today while her husband was placed on probation for two years, following their conviction in Federal Court on charges of sale and possession of liquor.

The defendants were Mr. and Mrs. John Reams, who operate a lodging house at 607 Madison avenue. Judge Nelson McVicar placed Reams, a prior offender, on probation after a physician averred he is ill and imprisonment would be detrimental to his health. They were convicted December 8 after claiming liquor seized by prohibition agents November 5 belonged to a lodger.

SQUIRE ADAMS' CHARGES FAIL

Patrick W. Adams, former alderman of the Fifteenth Ward, and two attendants of a gasoline station were discharged in South Side Police Court today after being arrested in connection with the disappearance of Adams' diamond stickpin.

Adams complained that, while his car was being serviced at Saw Mill Run boulevard and Nobles Lane, he dozed, awakening to find the pin missing.

But the case was dismissed when the two men, Albert O'Brien, 32, and Roland Miller, 32, of Evans avenue, Ingram, testified Adams had been drunk.

BANDMAN DEATH CLUE SOUGHT

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—In the suit of clothes Edwin O. Schildhauer wore when he was murdered police today sought some evidence of the exact manner in which the young bandmaster met death.

After finding a bloodstain on the porch stairway at the Schildhauer home a coroner's chemist began an examination of the suit of clothes to determine, if possible, whether the body had been dragged from his home.

His comely widow, who has admitted participation in an illicit love affair, maintains that Schildhauer was abducted from in front of their home and taken on a "ride" in gangland fashion which ended when the body was dumped from an automobile in suburban Cicero.

Retailers Oppose Keeping Sales Tax

Members of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, including retail grocers, hardware dealers, druggists and confectioners, today were reported to be perfecting organization to oppose the reenactment of a state emergency sales tax. William H. Hager, of Lancaster, is president, and Harry D. Adamy, of Wilkes-Barre, is regional vice president.

$10,000 Bail Set In 85-Cent Theft

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—For an 85-cent robbery, William J. Carter was held to the grand jury in $10,000 bond yesterday. He was accused of filching the coins from a collection box at a Baptist church.

JAILED AS MAN WHO SHOT 5

A nation-wide search for the Negro who shot down five men, including a county detective, June 2, 1930, ended today with the arrest of James E. Nixon, of Horning, in Scranton, Pa.

Nixon, according to detective records, opened fire on County Detectives Michael Stabile and David Carlin, Justice of the Peace William Nugent, of Baldwin Township, two deputy constables, Felix Becoski and Benjamin Kalinowski, and John Klenia, a bystander, when the officers attempted to arrest him on complaint of Elmer Mann, Negro. All except Detective Carlin, received bullet wounds, and Nixon escaped.

Mann had complained to Squire Nugent that Nixon threatened him.

County Detective Charles Stewart left today to return Nixon to Pittsburgh.

FAKE WAR HERO SENTENCED

FRIEBURG, Germany, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A remarkable case of mass suggestion, nearly causing diplomatic friction between Germany and France, was closed here today when before a crowded courtroom Mark Ignaz Hummel, a tailor, was sentenced to 30 months' imprisonment and the loss of civic rights for five years on a charge of swindling.

Hummel, who posed as a dead World War soldier named Oskar Daubmann, succeeded in duping Daubmann's parents and was feted as a hero when he returned to the home town of Daubmann from Italy. He had applied to the German Consul in Italy, saying he had been sent to Africa by the French during the war when he tried to escape from a French prison camp.

TAX ON BANK FUNDS SCORED

Condemning taxes on bank accounts and mortgages, Attorney William N. McNair today attacked existing policies before the Henry George Club luncheon in the Y. W. C. A.

Mr. Maguire

The club honored Francis W. Maguire, assistant secretary, who was observing his eighty-first birthday today. Mr. Maguire is credited with being the pioneer and oldest single-tax advocate in the city.

Citing the county taxing of bank accounts, Attorney McNair said:

"Unlike other countries, we are now requiring returns from everybody as to their bank deposits. Wherever this has been done, people have drawn their money out of banks to escape taxation.

"The notary fees alone will run into thousands on cases where no tax is due. Money on mortgages is hard to get because of this drive. The holders of mortgages are required to pay the tax, but if no mortgage is on record they escape. Industry is being checked in our community by wrong policies."

He charged unfairness in the policy of the city assessing land at its full value, while county assessors value large vacant areas throughout the county at 10 per cent of its value. The tax burden is then thrown on the small home owner, McNair said.

Monessen Driver Cleared in Death

Steve Kowal, 23, of Monessen, was found not guilty of involuntary manslaughter, by a jury in Criminal Court today. Kowal was tried in connection with the death of Mrs. Mattie Cooper, Negro, 25, of Sunnyside, found beside the highway near Gallatin last August 20, apparently having been hit by a machine.

'BUY AMERICAN' CALL SOUNDED BY M'GOVERN

Chairman Charles C. McGovern, of the County Commissioners, yesterday in a budget session of the County Commissioners, urged the county and its citizens to "Buy American."

Ross C. Purdy, general secretary of the American Ceramic Society, a group of 2,500 makers of china, glass, pottery, brick and tile manufacturers, spoke over station WCAE, uring the people to buy American-made goods to save his industry from being wiped out. He emphasized that "Buy American," to be successful, must be national in scope.

Commissioner McGovern publicly indorsed the plan, as sponsored by the Hearst papers, in connection with the readvertising for bids for two water coolers, for Memorial Hall and the county airport. He said:

"I am absolutely opposed to buying anything not made in this country that can be made here. And we should but what's made in the county if possible. I believe we ought to adopt that slogan."

Two hundred taxpayers, attending the Sharpsburg Council meeting, applauded the members of Council when they unanimously passed a resolution favoring "Buy American." It was presented by President Alfred Pontello.

Mr. Purdy was interviewed by Louis L. Kaufman, Sun-Telegraph Globe-Trotter, during the noon broadcast. The ceramic leader explained also that during the annual meeting of the society, to be held in the William Penn Hotel the week of February 12, department stores will present an exhibit of American-made goods, and Thursday forenoon will be exclusively devoted to addresses and discussions on ways and means to employ "Buy American" to aid the ceramic industry. Calling upon fellow ceramic leaders to aid, Mr. Purdy said:

"We must help make America support our industries and stop the death-dealing importation of ceramic ware which is made at wage scales far below American standards."

Also indorsing the campaign is the Bellevue Theater, which, in its paper, "Talkie Topics," Harry Brawarsky, owner, and Howard Lichey, editor, praises the Hearst newspapers for sponsoring the plan.

The town opposed construction of the sanitorium, but lost its case in the Court of Appeals.

COMMISSARIES OPPOSED IN FOOD RELIEF

Representatives of wholesale and retail food dealers today protested against the commissary system which the State Emergency Relief Board has announced it will institute in cities and large towns of Pennsylvania. Thus, the dealers joined with social service and relief workers who have long stood against commissaries as contributing to a general breakdown in morale of the needy.

The adverse report was issued today by George E. Rom, chairman of the Jobbers' Food Relief Committee; James Loughran, secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association, and O. E. Sutter, representing a manufacturers' group.

OBJECTIONS TOLD

Pointing to existing commissaries, the group claims, in many cases, unfit food has been purchased and issued; prices are not lower than those of retail grocers; privileged parties have obtained contracts to supply the commissaries; interest, overhead—rent, fuel, administration, insurance—more than offset savings.

Thousands of small retailers are existing today only through the food orders brought them by the needy, the grocers point out, and these retailers, thrown into bankruptcy by withdrawal of the small profit they realize on these orders, would add to the relief load.

They advocate continuation of the present food order policy, with prices regulated, as they have been, by a fair price board, composed of wholesale and retail grocers and relief workers, to give the food merchant a small profit.

ADDED BURDEN SEEN

Social workers have long said that establishing commissaries quickly brings an added relief load and causes grocers who have carried families on credit in the hope of better times, send them to the commissaries where they form an added burden on the public.

Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund, and S. E. Claney, director of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board and of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, today said they oppose the commissary system.

LUTHERANS NOT TO QUIT GROUP

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The executive committee of the United Lutheran Church at a meeting here rejected the petitions to have the body withdraw from its consultative membership in the Federal Council of Churches in America.

Twelve of the committee's 15 members disapproved of the proposals to sever relationship and at the same time advised that the full membership of the body join the council.

The executive committee was importuned to act on the petition for severance by the Pennsylvania and New York ministeriums, representing about 1,000 of the church's 3,500 parishes.

Objections to the church's relationship with the Federal Council was raised when the latter body adopted a liberal code for birth control at its quadrennial assembly in Indianapolis.

WOMAN TO HANG FOR KILLING 2

SZEGEDIN, Hungary, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Victoria Rieger, a 50-year-old peasant woman who was charged by the state with killing two men, was convicted of murder today and was sentenced to be hanged. The state charged she was retained by two women to murder their husbands, and that she hanged them to rafters in their own barns, and then assisted in making it appear that the deaths were suicides.

The two other women, listed as co-defendants in the case, were found guilty and sentenced to terms ranging from six years to life.

The state charged that in one case the peasant woman's fee was a year's room and board and tobacco at the home of the widow.

East Liberty 'Y' Plans Lecture Series

A series of lectures on topics of general interest is being planned by the Study Club of the East Liberty Y. M. C. A., Whitfield street. University lecture courses will be used as models. VATICAN CITY, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Enrico Galeazzi, of Rome, a representative of the American Knights of Columbus, will be named a member of the executive committee preparing for the holy year. The Knights of Malta and the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre also will be represented.

Aged Man Falls Dead On Visit to Friend

While visiting a friend at the Fried & Reineman Packing Company, East Ohio street, today, Mike Breininger, 71, 1316 Lowrie street, Troy Hill, fell dead. Death was caused by heart failure, according to Deputy Coroner W. R. Sellers.

DID ANY OF THESE SWINDLE YOU?

The three New Yorkers jailed—two in Philadelphia and one in New York—as suspects in a confidence game that involves stock "sales and trades," according to police. Detective Inspector Frank Boyd reports that two in this district have identified two of them, hopes to find others.

HUNGRY PUPILS MUST BE FED, SAYS GRAHAM

That the problem of feeding the children must be met if they are to be kept in school is the declaration of Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, who yesterday addressed the Community Welfare Executives Round Table on the necessity for feeding in the schools.

Dr. Graham repeated the statement made recently in City Council that 25 per cent of the school children of Pittsburgh are undernourished. Milk was being distributed at the end of December to 10,000 school children daily, he said.

THOUSANDS FED

The average number of students receiving free lunch in high schools daily in December was 2,040 and the average in the elementary schools, 1,614.

The Board of Education has appealed to City Council for funds, and, according to Graham, had received the promise of a $100,000 appropriation from a committee of Council.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association later objected on the grounds that the feeding should be done in the homes and not in the schools, Dr. Graham said. He explained methods used in school cafeterias, giving reasons why the work can be done efficiently in the schools.

AND THOSE UNDER WEIGHT

Any child who is under weight is recommended under the present system for school feeding, Dr. Graham explained. This plan is followed without reference to whether the child's family is in need of relief, Dr. Graham said.

The school board recently decided to stop the free feeding in the high schools on February 1 unless the money can be obtained from an outside source, since it is believed the board has no legal authority to spend money for the purpose.

URGE PURE AIR STUDY COURSE

A plan to add studies in air purification to science courses in high schools was adopted at a meeting of the General Science Club in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. late yesterday. Atmospheric cleanliness can be accomplished only through education and cooperation, H. B. Mellor, of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, and chief of the city smoke regulation, declared.

The plan will be presented to school officials in the near future, it was said.

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—More than 2,000 men were thrown out of part time employment on Altoona streets today when City Council voted to discontinue road work furnishing jobs for the unemployed.

Interference of taxpayers was given as the reason for the action.

Maddened Bull Kills Chester Politician

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—William P. Miller, 50, member of the Chester County Republican Committee, was killed by a bull on his farm near Landenburg yesterday. His sister, Annie, found his body after he had failed to return to the house for dinner.

CRAWFORD SUES OVER U. S. TAX

E. R. Crawford, president of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, filed a suit in Federal Court against D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue, seeking to recover $32,656.25, with interest, which he said was erroneously collected as income tax.

Crawford declared it was deducted in 1931 as a tax due for the year 1916, from a certified overpayment of $48,234.25 for the year 1928, the commissioner of internal revenue refunding $15,578, the difference.

It Pays to Read Advertisements

It Will Pay You to Read This One

THE other day a friend gave my wife a recipe for a new Frozen Orange Pudding. We had it last night for dessert.

"This is something new," I said. "Where did you get it?"

"Mae gave me the recipe yesterday. She clipped it from an advertisement."

My wife didn't read that advertisement. If her friend hadn't read it, what a treat we would have missed.

Do you read the advertisements? It will pay you many times over to do so. From them you may learn about all sorts of new things. New foods, new ways to use them, new recipes that will add variety to the daily menu.

Right in the advertisements in this paper there are countless things to interest you, to save you money, to bring you the most value for what you spend. And now, as a reward for reading this advertisement, here is the recipe that inspired it.

Recipe for Frozen Orange Pudding

Ingredients: 2 egg yolks (beaten); 1 cup orange juice; 1 cup cream (light cream or top milk will do); 4 teaspoonfuls flour; ⅛ teaspoonful salt; ⅓ cup sugar; 1 teaspoonful grated orange rind.

Blend thoroughly egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt, and add orange juice and cream. Put in double boiler until thick. Add orange rind, cool and pour into freezing tray of refrigerator—or three or four hours on ice. When ready to serve, top each dish with meringue made by beating two egg whites stiff and adding ¼ cup sugar. Garnish with orange segments.

It pays to read all the advertisements in this paper.

LOVED COUNTRY, ARNOLD SAYS IN LETTER

FREEHOLD, N. J., Jan. 12. (AP.)—Benedict Arnold "ever acted from a principle of love to my country," he wrote George Washington three days after his attempt to turn West Point over to the British, in a letter presented to the Monmouth County Historical Association Museum.

The letter, written by Arnold while aboard ship on his way to England, was dated September 25, 1780. As Arnold's pass to the ill-fated Maj. Andre was written September 22, the letter is considered by local historians to have probably been Arnold's first communication written after his flight. It was presented to the association by James L. Wikoff and his daughter, Mary B. Wikoff.

ASKS PROTECTION

The letter asks protection for Mrs. Arnold and requests his baggage be forwarded him. A postscript clears members of Arnold's family and a Joshua Smith from implication in Arnold's tratorous conduct.

The letter follows:

"On Board the Vulture,
"Sept. 25th, 1780.

"Sir—

"The heart which is conscious of its own rectitude cannot attempt to palliate, a step which the world may (e)nsure as wrong; I have ever acted from a principle of love to my country, since the commencement of the present unhappy contest, between Great Britain and the colonies. The same principle of love to my country actuates my present conduct . . . However, it may appear inconsistent to the world, who very seldom judge right of any man's actions.

"I have no favor to ask for myself, I have too often experienced the ingratitude of my country to attempt it, but from the known humanity of your excellency I am induced to ask your protection for Mrs. Arnold from every insult and injury that the mistaken vengeance of my country may expose her to. It ought to fall only on me, she is good and is . . . as an angel and is incapable of doing wrong. I beg she may be permitted to return to her friends in Philadelphia, or to come to me as she may choose, from your excellency."

"MISTAKEN FURY"

"I have no fears on her acct, but she may suffer from the mistaken fury of the country. I have to request that the enclosed letter may be delivered to Mrs. Arnold and she permitted to write to me. I have also to ask that my cloaths and baggage, which are of little consequence, may be sent to me. If required their value shall be paid in money. I have the honor to be, with great regard and esteem. Your excellency's most obedt. hume. servt., signed
"B. Arnold.

"His Excelly Gen. Washington:

"N. B.—In justice to the gentlemen of my family, Coll, Varick and Major Franks, I think myself in honor bound to declare that they, as well as Joshua Smith, Esqr., who I know is suspected, are totally ignorant of any transactions of mine that they had reason to believe were injurious to the publick."

KIDNAP-BANDIT PAIR HUNTED

The kidnaping and robbing of the chauffeur of Vincent Tolina, said to be a collector for Sam Rost, numbers baron of Turtle Creek Valley, was being investigated today by county detectives and Edgewood police.

Tolina telephoned yesterday to Edgewood police and later to the county detectives that his chauffeur had been kidnaped in Edgewood by two men who robbed him of the day's receipts. The driver, he said, was kidnaped as he awaited Tolina in Braddock avenue, Swissvale.

The chauffeur, who Tolina identified as "Steve" to Edgewood police and as "Pete" to the detectives, was ordered to move away from the steering wheel by the pair, according to Police Chief Dyer, of Edgewood. The pair drove to Wilkinsburg and ordered the chauffeur out and then sped away, taking with them the bag containing the cash.

Edgewood police and the detectives advised Tolina to go to the police station to make his report in person, but Tolina declined, they said. They would have locked him up if he had, they said.

How long is it going to take you? It's a hard one. Watch for a tip tomorrow.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Cipher No. 41 is another original one. It was contributed by Charles G. Walters, of 2132 Fifth avenue. He writes:

"I am a constant follower of the Sun - Telegraph ciphers. Here's hoping this will keep your fans in doubt."

If you solve this the first day, you have really accomplished something. It's one of the hardest that has been published to date. The time "Bogie" sets is six hours. If you do it in less, pat yourself on the back.

Now for cipher No. 40. Did you get it? It was rather complicated, wasn't it? The table published today should clear up all difficulties.

Original ciphers received in the late mails come from the following: Miss Henrietta Bradwell, of Carnegie; Mack A. Roney, of McDonald, Pa., and Malcolm Nevins, of New Kensington.

Mack A. Roney states:

"Your ciphers are sure the ticket for these cold winter evenings. They keep you in suspense all the time. Let's hope the fans will have as hard a time with my cipher as I have had with the others."

ARTISTS FIGHT 'BRUSH BATTLE'

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A "battle of the century" between two noted Cincinnati artists using brushes and palettes instead of fists, remained today without decision. The only "knockout" was the young woman who posed.

It was a battle of modernist versus romanticist. John Weis, firm in the artistic faith of Michael Ang lo, took one corner. Reginald Grooms, a devotee of the moderns, took the other.

The idea of the Cincinnati Art Club in staging the "bout" at a ball was to try to settle this modernist-romanticist dispute. Both artists were to paint from one model. He who took the spectators' fancy was to be deemed the winner, and his cause the most righteous.

But when the pictures were finished even the beauteous model failed to decide which was better.

BRIDGE MEET HEADS NAMED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Committees to conduct the annual tri-state bridge tournament in Uniontown January 19, 20 and 21 were made public today.

Trophies are offered in the contests, which have been conducted for several years. R. E. Needham, of Greenville, is manager, and the tournament committee is composed of Dr. H. E. Potts, chairman; E. E. Keller, Dr. Fred C. Robinson and George B. Smith. Clark Lessig is to be the official scorer.

The Pennsylvania members of the tri-state advisory committee are Mrs. A. Arthur Burkhart, New Brighton; Mrs. R. C. Craig, Pittsburgh; P. G. Cramp, Crafton; R. J. Henderson, Pittsburgh; the Rev. Gilbert Straub, Greensburg, and Harold Van Kennen, Brookville.

FALSE ARREST VERDICT WON

Mrs. Catherine Gorman, 326 Main street, was awarded a verdict of $3,000 and her husband, Timothy, $500, by a county court jury yesterday that heard their suit for $1,500 for false arrest against the Palace Credit Clothing Company. Because the county court has jurisdiction only in cases involving a maximum of $1,500 the verdict must be reduced by consent to $1,500 or the case retried. Defense counsel announced a new trial would be sought.

The Gormans testified that an employe of the clothing company and a constable from the office of Justice of the Peace John G. Metz, of Kennedy Township, arrested Mrs. Gorman in July, 1931, at 10 a. m. and kept her in their custody until 4:30 p. m. During that time she alleges they "constantly abused and threatened her." The arrest was made, she claimed because she would not reveal the name of a person who obtained merchandise at the Palace store by using her name as reference. Mrs. Gorman said she did not know the identity of the person involved.

CHURCH SCORES 'TRICK' BY DRYS

In a letter yesterday to Capt. W. H. Stayton, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Washington, Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, declared the Senate Judiciary Committee's resolution modifying the dry law "is clearly a subterfuge inspired by the Anti-Saloon League, W. C. T. U. and other ecclesiastical politicians to preserve prohibition at its worst." His letter said in part:

"If Congress is given the right to control the place of sale, shall we not find our country still the prey to snoopers, bootleggers, racketeers and grafters? Under this provision all those magnificent hotels in New York, for example, would be declared to be saloons, and we would have all the padlock scandals over again."

HEART OF MAN ON WRONG SIDE

Richard O'Neil, 72, of 128 West Thirteenth avenue, Homestead, for years was one of the strong men in the Homestead Steel Works, prior to his retirement six years ago. He never had any serious physical ailments and seldom consulted a physician. O'Neill thought he was normal in every way.

But he found out differently yesterday when he visited a physician, for treatment for a slight cold. Then he learned his heart was not in the place where most persons have their heart. In fact, it was on the wrong side of his chest.

A physician who made the discovery said he found the heart exceptionally strong for a man of O'Neil's years.

The opening of the Pittsburgh Morning Lecture series yesterday in the William Penn's Urban Room looked like a convention of our social registerites.

And petite, brunette Nancy Brown and others were ushering. The speaker, Dr. Emil Lengyell, gave a detailed impression of Hitler.

Two of the debutantes I noticed in the audience, tall, good-looking and blonde Collie Jennings and Dorothy Blaxter.

Collie looked smart in a beaver coat having a scarf, tied in Ascot fashion, of the same fur. She wore a tilted brown felt hat. Dorothy was with her mother, Mrs. H. V. Blaxter.

There was an amazing collection of mink coats. Dorothy wore one, so did Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, over an orange crepe frock and Mrs. C. A. Boratraeger.

Mink Popular

Mrs. George Love wore a lovely mink coat over a dark red wool dress, having a high, white crushed scarf collar.

I had a glimpse of Mrs. R. B. Mellon with he daughter, Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, who wore an orange turban and a mink coat.

Mrs. H. H. McClintic arrived with her daughter, Mrs. Love. Mrs. Clark Miller in a taupe coat having a deep collar of krimmer, a grey felt hat and grey crepe dress, was there, as were Mrs. Herbert A. May, Mrs. Harvey Childs III, and Mrs. Jack Bissell in black caracul.

Seen at lecture

Nancy Brown, whom I mentioned a long time ago, wore a leopard coat over a deep rust wool dress. Mrs. Blair Childs I noticed, Mrs. George A. Kelly III and her sister, Mrs. John McKelvy in a leopard coat. Mrs. Gordan King and Mrs. William F. Hill in a smart dark royal blue wool suit with a krimmer collar.

Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, their daughter, Madelaine, and their sons, Maitland, Jr., Charles B., III, and Alexander Laughlin Alexander will be off next week for Palm Beach, where they have a winter home.

Going to Florida

* * *

And leaving tonight for the southwest are Mrs. J. Frederic Byers and her blonde debutante daughter, Nancy. They'll pay a visit to Arizona, and then will be off again for a week at Santa Barbara, Cal.

* * *

Genevieve Bell is expected back tomorrow from Baltimore, did you know? She's been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Walter Lord.

Returns Tomorrow

Stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, have been the George A. Benneys, Mrs. Mary B. Seaver and J. M. Gilespie and Charles R. Miller.

Miami Busy Preparing For Bridge Tournament

MIAMI, Fla.—After concentrating their attention this week on the Miami Biltmore Kennel Club's national dog show, members of the winter colony Saturday will prepare for a new event, the first annual winter championship bridge tournament, January 16, 17 and 18.

To be played at the Miami Biltmore Hotel, the contract tournament will bring experts from 10 metropolitan cities for the winter finals, January 16, for the Miami Biltmore trophy, to be presented by Henry L. Doherty, president of the Florida Year-Round Clubs. Other cities will be represented in additional championship play, January 17 and 18, for the Miami open pair trophy, the individual winter honors and the team-of-four winter trophies.

Cities sending their best experts to the tournament will include New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, Buffalo, Wheeling, W. Va.; Youngstown, O.; Uniontown, Pa.; Sedalia, Mo., and Centralia, Ill. During their stay the visiting bridge players will be guests of the Florida Year-Round Clubs at the Miami-Biltmore Hotel.

Meantime, left-handed players from throughout the country will congregate on the links of the Miami-Biltmore Country Club Monday for the first national tournament of the Left-Handed Golfers of America.

Featured by Cuban entertainment and decorations, the first of a series of large affairs at the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club Wednesday night will be one of the high-lights of the week. Many Florida Year-Round Clubs members will entertain with large parties for the event, which is known as "Rumba Night in Cuba."

More than 200 members of the Second Annual Winter Cruise to Florida of the U. S. Amateur Air Pilots Association, were guests over the week-end at the Miami Biltmore Hotel. A feature of the cruise, which was begun at the Aviation Country Club at Hicksville, L. I., was the Florida Year-Round Clubs Handicap air race from Daytona Beach to the Miami Biltmore tower, for the Henry L. Doherty trophy and $2,500 in cash prizes. Included in the party were William Randolph Hearst, Jr., New York; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Silleck, New York; Mr. and Mrs. George Haldeman, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, Pittsburgh; William L. Cleveland, New York; Byron D. Sheedy, New York, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Zelcer, New York, and John S. Reaves of New York, president of the air pilots' association.

Feminine thoughts turned to fashions this week with the first of the season's fashion shows at the Miami Biltmore Hotel. Trend of the New Year fashions was toward a growing mood of romanticism and afternoon and evening gowns were notable for flowing lines, capes and summer fur.

Returning to the resort after a 20-year absence, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York and Paris, who are guests at the Roney Plaza Hotel have been honored with a variety of parties.

With a typical Florida moon riding the sky this week, the night boots and saddles parties for Miami Biltmore Riding Club members, with barbecue suppers at the end of the trail, have been exceedingly popular. Among those taking part have been Mrs. John Livingston, Mrs. Carl Byoir, Mrs. George Rector and Miss Madeleine Richard, all of New York; Miss Janice Gleason, South Orange, N. J., Carl Preim and Marshall Dancy, also of New York.

Opening of a cabana bridge studio at the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club under direction of Mrs. Austin D. Mattingly, of Baltimore, has given the winter colony another diversion this week and bridge luncheons on the beach have dotted the calendar. Among those entertained in the cabana studios have been Mrs. E. P. Riggs, of Peoria; Mrs. C. W. Farrar, of Buffalo; Mrs. C. M. Dowell, of Washington; Miss Kay Hagaman, of New York; Miss Viola Root Cameron, of New York, and many others.

TREND IN EVENING ATTIRE IS TOWARD THE SOPHISTICATED

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—The upturn in evening fashions—at least in Paris—is toward more sophisticated clothes. Evening colors are more extreme; necklines are either definitely very high toward the neck or very low toward the waist; evening jewels grow larger and larger and evening skirts grow longer and longer—some even trail.

* * *

THERE IS much evidence of the return of the slinky gown—the dress of heavy, highly glossed satin, which hugs the figure and brings into sharp outline every curve. Some of the smartest evening dresses worn at recent theater openings in Paris were of this type. Usually they are of black satin, undecorated with any but the smallest touches of color.

* * *

AN EVEN more sophisticated type is the dress of satin which is not realy black but such a dark blue that it gives the general effect of a black gown while avoiding any harshness of line which black might give. One of these is the Augusta-bernard gown pictured—of midnight blue, in a quality so heavy that it has the feel of the thick weave of satin used for making evening slippers. The widened shoulder-straps are pulled into flat gathers at the top; otherwise there is no indication of fullness anywhere. A strip of bright red velvet appears at the top of the girdle and in the small bow at the back.

* * *

PANTHER-PATTERNED velvet is used by Molyneux to make the three-quarter-length evening wrap, also in today's sketch. It is collared in black fox.

Older Married Couples Lead Way in Divorce

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Married persons with years of experience in matrimony behind them—not the newlyweds—are leading the way into the American divorce courts.

At least that was true in 1931, and statistics for that year are the latest the Commerce Department has on the subject.

In that 12-month period there were 1,060,554 marriages and 182,203 divorces. In those totals interesting facts are that the number of marriages was 106,000 less than in 1929—the record year—and the number of divorces was the smallest since 1926.

The figures the department made public today showed that the largest number of divorces was granted to those wed 10 to 14 years. In that group there were 29,246, and the next largest totals were found among those who walked down the aisle 20 or more years ago.

The newlyweds, those married less than a year, ranked at the bottom, with only 7,452 of that class ending their relationship in court. But in the one-year group there were 13,405 divorces, and even more—14,862—among those married two years. Evidence that the first few years may be the hardest was seen in the drop to 7,700 divorces for the nine-year group.

Husbands obtained 49,591 of the divorces and wives 132,612. Cruelty was the predominating cause, with desertion next in line.

Ambridge Club Sees Living Pictures

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

An unusual and unusually fine program was given last night at the meeting of the Ambridge Woman's Club in the Alexander Laughlin Memorial Library. Under the painstaking direction of Mrs. Sara D. Caldwell, a program of living pictures was posed after the old masters and presented by the fine arts department.

Comment by Mrs. P. A. Daniells, chairman of the fine arts department, accompanied each picture, and music appropriate to each was furnished by Miss Mathilda Sokol, piano, and William Sokol, violin.

One of the most charming of the pictures was Whistler's famous "Mother," which was most realistically posed by Mrs. D. L. McNees. Miss Justine Simpson was the figure in "The Pot of Basil," and Carol Armington made a charming "Age of Innocence." "Madam La Brun and Her Daughter" were done by Miss Lucy McEwing and Marguerite Antonelli and Patty Ann Byrne was "The Strawberry Girl." Christine Slezak was a lovely Gainsborough "Blue Boy," and John Slezak's "Boy with the Rabbit" (after Sir Henry Raeburn) was another beautiful presentation. The gentle maiden in "The Broken Pitcher" was portrayed by Miss Meredith Rosensteel.

Former Federation President Urges 'Buy American'

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The 2,000,000 clubwomen, homemakers of America, representing the country's largest organized group of consumer buyers, Wednesday night were urged to buy only those products that measure up to the American standard.

The appeal was voiced by Mrs. John F. Sippel, of Baltimore, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in speaking before the board of directors, state presidents and club leaders from all over the nation at the mid-winter meeting here of the Federation's board.

Mrs. Sippel set forth the part that organized clubwomen can play in building up industry and economics and bringing about a better understanding between manufacturer, retailer and consumer.

She pleaded for widely accepted published standards of consumer merchandise, particularly those lines affecting the interests of homemakers. She explained the function and work of the National Standards Council, the presidency of which she recently accepted.

The council is an exclusively American organization. American manufacturers are the ones who get together and agree on what shall constitute the standard of their line of industry.

The accepted American standards are based on American-produced goods manufactured by American wage standard labor, so that products qualifying under these accepted standards necessarily must be American made.

Persons buying these certified standard products are "Buying American."

WRITER SEES SUCCESS FOR SOVIET

Both predicting Soviet Russia will be economically successful, but opposed in their views on the merits of the Soviet system, Sherwood Eddy, writer and lecturer who is opposed to Communism, and Boris E. Skvirsky, "Soviet ambassador without portfolio," were here today to present their views on Russia in a public symposium.

Eddy said Russia is facing its most serious economic crisis this year, but added nothing can stop the Soviet from being economically successful a decade hence.

AGAINST COMMUNISM

Despite the many good points he saw in the new Russia, he reasserted his opposition to Communism, and said that while there is no suppression of criticism in Russia on conditions existing there, the people may never criticize the Soviet system. Public officials, he said, may be attacked and are attacked in the press, even more than is the case in America. He continued:

"There is one overshadowing evil—the denial of liberty. There is a constant movement for complete control of all life. This also is true of Italy. I see for Russia, however, a great wave of democratic spirit that eventually will be built up as the people are educated."

MANY OBSTACLES

Skvirsky said Russia has not achieved the true communistic state due to the many obstacles it has had to overcome in its industrial and cultural development.

Both men are here to speak tonight at a symposium on Russia sponsored by the Pittsburgh branch of the Foreign Policy Association at the Hotel Schenley. A dinner will be held at 7 o'clock and the discussion is scheduled for 8:15 p. m.

Eddy also will address an assembly at the University of Pittsburgh in Memorial Hall this afternoon. He will speak on conditions in Europe in general.

TO INVITE STOKOWSKI

Skvirsky today had been instructed by the Philharmonic authorities in Moscow to invite Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, to visit Russia next winter as a guest conductor. He will be invited to a series of concerts in several cities, including Moscow and Leningrad.

SHOW ETCHINGS OF FRENCHMAN

By PENELOPE REDD

Carnegie Institute is exhibiting a group of etchings by the French artist, Charles Meryon. Although Meryon lived from 1821 to 1868, his work may truly be called classic because of its remoteness in theme and in expression from that of his contemporaries. Primarily, the etcher of "Old Paris," his singular vision and his mordant needle, isolate him with the few great ones in the graphic arts.

Miss Redd

While a student at the French Naval Academy at Brest, he journeyed as far as New Zealand. Always interested in art, he abandoned his naval career to become a professional artist. Color blindness prevented his success as a painter, so he turned to the graphic arts, which he mastered quickly.

Meryon's life, tragic in his failures to secure either recognition or a livelihood, eventually was ended by a mental illness and death. The exhibition will close on February 26.

African Hunter Here Explains His 'Dope' Bullet

CAPT. BARNETT HARRIS

Capt. Moore Blasts Rumor of Peril On Continent

You can travel 3,000 miles from Cape Town to Cairo and never see a single animal unless you hunt them, Capt. Barnett Harris, noted African game hunter, said here today. He declared:

"Most people think that 17 things are always ready to grab you in Africa. It's just the opposite. You have to go out and hunt the animals if you want to see or photograph them."

Capt. Harris has a novel device, of his own making, for capturing wild game. It is a four-inch metallic bullet with a hypodermic needle at the point. When the bullet hits, the needle injects a chemical into the animal that stuns it, giving the hunter a chance to capture it. Harris, who is on a lecture tour of the United States, pointed out:

"I bring them back alive without hurting them. You pick the animal you want out of the herd and get him. The natives depend on snares and pits and hope for what falls in. They often hurt the game."

Different animals need a different dose of the drug. In order to determine the amount needed to stun each one, Capt. Harris spent two years in Africa establishing the right doses for each one. He pointed out:

"Ninety per cent of the animals are never under photographic condition. With this bullet you can capture them for pictures without hurting them."

California Gets $281,372 R.F.C. Loan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—California today received a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan of $281,372 to assist it in maintaining labor camps for non-resident unemployed men.

CITY'S HEALTH DIRECTORSHIP STILL VACANT

There was little indication today that Mayor Charles H. Kline was taking steps toward selection of a Director of Public Health to succeed the late Dr. C. B. Maits.

The Mayor, through his secretary, said he had not given the choice "serious consideration."

City Hall observers know of few aspirants, but two physicians are mentioned. They are Dr. John S. Mackrell, of 3944 Liberty avenue, Eighth Ward, now on the staff of the city's Child Welfare Bureau, and Dr. William W. McFarland, of 1315 Murdoch street, Fourteenth Ward, a school physician. Dr. Mackrell is the brother of Joseph N. Mackrell, Register of Wills.

It is believed many physicians would seek the position, which pays $8,000 yearly, were it not that the present administration has only approximately the rest of the year to run.

Dr. S. H. Johnson, brother-in-law of Mayor Kline, and Civil Service Commissioner, is not considered as the future director by City Hall authorities.

The Allegheny County Medical Society, according to its secretary, Dr. Frederick M. Jacob, would name no candidates for the position, as it is not the society's policy to do so. It has, however, approved that appointment of past directors.

INVITE LEAGUE TO MEET HERE

Invitation to hold its next convention in Pittsburgh will be extended tomorrow to the presidents' conference of the International Walther League of the Lutheran Church in Chicago.

The invitation to bring 5,000 visitors to the city will be extended by Herbert Grau, of Dormont, president of the Pennsylvania conference. The conference presidents will select the city to be recommended to the convention in Chicago in July.

A local committee has prepared plans for submission with the invitation. The group includes, besides Grau, the Rev. Dr. Theodore D. Martens, the Rev. Charles Grahn, Walter J. Yeager, Miss Clara Bubenheimer, Miss Lisette Allendorf and Richard Melzner.

PRIEST AWAITS EXAMINATION

Father Cox still is a patient at Mercy Hospital. Results of the examination by Dr. Gilbert Meyer may be known late this afternoon. Father Cox, in the meantime, is under orders to receive no visitors nor telephone calls. He must remain absolutely quiet. And above all he wants no flowers. If any of his friends are inclined to express their interest in this way, as some already have, he prefers such money be donated to his activities among the poor.

The appeal in the Sun-Telegraph a few days ago brought 15 sewing machines for his volunteer workers to employ in making new and mending old garments.

In the meantime, the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph subscription drive is meeting with gratifying results. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page brings a liberal cash commission to his unemployment relief fund.

FLETCHER FOR FARM TAX CUT

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Tracing a way out of economic distress, Henry P. Fletcher, former United States ambassador to Italy, today declared that "hard times will not be cured by soft remedies."

He advocated drastic reductions in farm taxes, rigid governmental economy, retention of the 1930 tariff law and early cash settlement of the war debts, and then took a stern stand against inflation of the currency.

Fletcher, addressing the convention of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association which opened today, attacked the price-fixing plan in the Emergency Farm Relief bill and urged tax cuts as the only feasible method of farm relief.

To achieve this tax reduction, the speaker said, economies "must be enforced on our public bodies by an aroused public opinion," and he added that "that is where you editors and publishers come in. It is your job."

CHINESE FACES DEATH TRIAL

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 13.—A long legal battle by Westmoreland County against the powerful On Leong Tong, Chinese secret society, has been won with the announcement that the tong's fight against the extradition of Wong Wing Sum, 30, former New Kensington laundryman, has been dropped. The Chinese, arrested by Boston police in July, following an underworld tip, will be returned to Westmoreland County Saturday for trial in the murder of Charlie Lee, ex-officer of the Hip Sing Tong, of New Kensington, and a former chum of Wong Wing Sum.

Sum is alleged to have shot Lee fatally while he was sleeping in his laundry during the tong war in September, 1925. When Sum was located in Boston, On Leon Tong members engaged attorneys to fight extradition.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A fourth person fell victim to the homicidal mania of Arnold Comer, 21, who, as a lad of 14, killed three persons and wounded three others shortly after he had left his mountain home in Marion County to make his own way in the world. The victim was Millard Stanley, 27, Comer's roommate at the state hospital for nervous diseases, beaten to death yesterday with a window weight as he slept.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

2D MAN SLAIN IN RUM WAR

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 13.—The second murder in a month attended Youngstown's booze war today. Frank Scarpino, 30, was found strangled in a ravine on the outskirts of the city. The killers had trussed his body with rope, then beaten him in such a manner that each blow tightened the noose.

Scarpino was regarded as a close friend of "Peaceful Sam" La Pallina, wholesale dealer, who was slain three weeks ago.

N. Y. GASOLINE BLAST KILLS 1

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Terror thrilled through a section of midtown Manhattan today when a big gasoline station blew up with a roar, killing one man and injuring two.

The blast, followed by the crash of hundreds of window panes, spread fear through a populous area a few blocks north of the "Crossroads of the World"—the Times Square theatrical zone.

Gilman Osgood, 27, of Hempstead, father of two children, was killed when the wreckage of the station buried him in an oiling pit.

FOSTER MEMORIAL -:- Pittsburgh Composer Honored Here -:- ON AIR TONIGHT

WCAE Sends Nationwide Tribute

A special memorial program, broadcast tonight from the studios of WCAE over a coast-to-coast NBC-WEAF network, climaxes the observance of the sixty-ninth anniversary of the death of Stephen Collins Foster, held under the auspices of the community fine arts committee of the Civic Club of Allegheny County.

The broadcast, an exact reproduction of the old minstrel concerts popular during Foster's life through which most of the Pittsburgh composer's melodies became famous, is scheduled for 30 minutes beginning at 10:30 o'clock. In addition to the coast - to - coast network, 60 stations not affiliated with NBC networks but which have pledged their resources to join in the observance plan to carry the program, which consists of Foster folk songs with continuity written by Ed Harvey, WCAE program director. The musical portion of the presentation features a male octet, a male quartet, a band under the direction of David Levin, the Andrini Brothers; Paul Gannon, tenor; Tom Morris, Jr., baritone, and Raymond Griffin, basso.

Mr. Griffin

Other Foster programs scheduled today are: a presentation featuring a chorus of 50 voices from the sixth, seventh and eighth grade of the James E. Rogers School at 4:45 on WCAE; a musical dramatization depicting scenes in a New York song shop the day before Foster's death, with Foster as its central character, by the Foster Singers on KDKA at 3:15, and Foster folk songs by an instrumental trio and the Zion Male Quartet with Lewis Munnell, baritone, and Bertha Schmid, soprano, as soloists, on WJAS at 5.

Program Pointers

Jessica Dragonette sings "Oh Promise Me," from de Koven's "Robin Hood;" "A Kiss in the Dark," by Herbert; "Here in My Arms," from Rodgers' "Dearest Enemy," and Jerome Kern's "Kalua," with Rosario Bourdon's Orchestra and the Cavaliers on WCAE at 8 tonight . . . On the same station at 9:30, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt discusses "Children at School Age" as guest speaker with Leo Reisman . . . A "March of Kings" medley, including Italian, German, Hungarian and English national marches; selections from Herbert's "The Red Mill," and a group of gypsy melodies comprise Phil Spitalny's vocal-instrumental program on KDKA at 8.

Miss Dragonette

The fiery debate between Senators William E. Borah and Hiram Johnson on the war debt question, which attracted national attention this week, is re-enacted during "March of Time" on WJAS at 8:30 tonight. Other news scenes are devoted to a Soviet Russia situation inspired by the comic Moscow publication, the Crocodile; the stunning of the engineer of a New York-Chicago express train by an overhanging mail crane, and the salvaging of the S.S. Atlantique in the English Channel.

Tom Howard, who holds that Friday the thirteenth is just a "scrap of paper," and his partner, George Shelton, throw all caution aside for tonight's broadcast on WJAS at 9 o'clock.

With Ed Sprague giving the play-by-play report, WWSW broadcasts the Tech-W. and J. basketball game beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Marian Swan, Carnegie Tech pianist, appearing as the Sigma Alpha Iota soloist on KDKA at 4:15, offers "Ricordanza" and "Liebestraum No. 3," by Liszt.

'Held for Ransom' On WALR Today

"Held for Ransom," a dramatization of the experiences of Mrs. Muriel Pawley, who as a bride of 18 was held captive for seven weeks by Chinese bandits, with Mary Duncan, stage and film favorite, portraying the leading role, is scheduled on WALR, Zanesville, O., today at 5 p. m.

The presentation, prepared from an article by Mrs. Pawley, to appear in the January 15 issue of the American Weekly, is one of a series offered over more than 100 radio stations throughout the country by 17 Hearst newspapers, including the Sun-Telegraph.

Long's Sports Review WCAE Feature

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Sun-Telegraph, chats about news and personalities of the world of sport during his weekly broadcast on WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock.

Twin broadcasts of news by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are listed on WCAE and WJAS today at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m and 6:30 p. m. He also is heard on WCAE at 2:15 p. m.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Friday the thirteenth—Not so unlucky for Robert Dunlop, of Pleasant Unity. Today is his ninety-third birthday; on March 13 he and his wife celebrate their sixty-seventh anniversary.

* * *

Well it's unlucky for Mrs. J. L. Brown, of Hazelwood, whose son's best trousers were taken from the back yard clothes line. The taker is welcome to the coat and vest, too. Maybe if they don't fit they will be returned to the needy mother.

* * *

It's not going to bother Ruthie Vandergrift one whit. She is 13 this Friday the thirteenth and it's a happy birthday.

* * *

More light has been shed on the evolution of the revolving table and the revolution of eating. Mrs. Charles F. Raible tells us that Tennessee scooped Georgia by 35 years in twirling tidbits and whirling "wegetables." Aha! The tables are turned.

This invention was mothered by the gastronomic necessity of a famished family of untutored deaf-mutes.

* * *

"California, Here I Stay," is the way Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sample sing it. They are celebrating their fifty-first in the Pennsylvania town and not the "Golden Gated" slopes.

* * *

Mrs. Price—You lose your argument. Ex-President Harding died August 2, 1923, and his wife died the following year.

Mrs. Carnes—No, Graham McNamee does not sing in Ed Wynn's quartet.

* * *

Mrs. Laura C. Hickey sends in a treasured memento. It is a Pittsburgh Almanac for the year 1864. Glancing through it we find that even then the citizens were longing for the good old days when men were more chivalrous. "We miss the heart-born politeness that should characterize the conduct of a true gentleman . . ."

* * *

Others who have flown into Globe Trotting with red birds are Mrs. J. J. Clark, Brookline; Helen Taylor, Crafton, and H. E. Rhyddrick, Wilson.

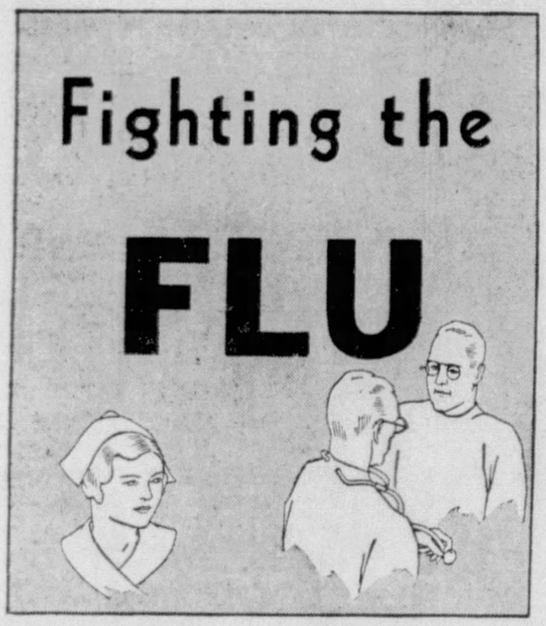
Fighting the FLU



Common Sense Suggestions to Readers of the Sun-Telegraph

Influenza is going its deadly rounds. Take every possible precaution to avoid coming down with the flu. These simple rules are based on sound medical opinion:

Get lots of sleep and eat wisely; it is usually the run-down man or woman who succumbs easiest to germs.

Keep the system alkaline; an acid condition invites colds and other weakening disorders.

Keep the bowels open so poisons will not accumulate and lower your resistance.

Get plenty of fresh air; breathe through the nose. Avoid any close contact with others; remember, flu is highly contagious.

Don't dose yourself with a lot of medicine. You can alkalinize your system against colds with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. If you should catch cold, take some Bayer Aspirin; if your throat feels at all sore, crush the tablets in water and gargle. But if you detect any sign of flu, or even suspect it, get to bed at once and call your physician.

Let It Help You Too

DO YOU ENVY OTHER WOMEN who can be active without regard to the calendar? Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a chance to help you. It comforts women's ailments . . . brings welcome relief from cramping pains . . . eases periodic headache and backache . . . soothes jangling nerves . . . makes "bad days" endurable.

Get a bottle today. Take it regularly according to directions. Let its tonic action help you, too. You will find the tablets convenient and pleasant to take.

Mrs. VIRGINIA NICOLETTE
Highland & Brown Sts.
N. Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania
"I am just twenty-one years old. I suffered pains and cramps at my periods. I was also very nervous. My cousin told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I saw the ads in the papers. It helped both my nerves and my pains. I recommend it absolutely. I advise any woman who is in the condition I was to try it."

MRS. S. E. KOHLER
88 Murry Avenue
Washington, Pennsylvania
"I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound every month and it is wonderful. I used to be in bed at least one day but now I can work straight through."

You can depend upon a medicine which is endorsed by half a million women.

MRS. BERT M. DORSEY
315 West 15th St.
Ada, Oklahoma
"I suffered with female trouble for four years before I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so run-down that I was in bed most of the time. UTILITIES FIRM RETIRES VETS

Lengthy meritorious service by seven employes of Philadelphia Company subsidiaries has brought them rewards in the form of retirement, it was announced yesterday at the offices of the company.

Michael P. Welsh, 104 Laclede street, headed the list with 41 years. At the time of retirement he was serving the Duquesne Light Company as a sub-station operator.

John C. Morgan, 518 Curtin avenue, followed with 39 years' service as motorman with the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Arthur Neeson, 255 Clearview street, was next, with 36 years as a motorman.

J. E. Ebrenz, 1661 Broadway, for 31 years an employe of the Philadelphia Company, during which time he served as secretary to the president, secretary to the railways receivers, reviewer and abstractor, was included in the list.

Others were T. M. Moorhouse, 7031 Idlewood street, 31 years as motorman; William D. Stewart, 104 Kirk avenue, 30 years with the railways company as foreman and material man, and James Wilson, 1900 Metropolitan street, 29 years as motorman.

3 DIE IN CHAIR AT SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Within 16 minutes, three youths were electrocuted at Sing Sing Prison last night, all convicted of murder. Those who paid the law's penalty with their lives were:

Peter Harris, 21, of Olean, N. Y., who fought a gun battle with Olean policemen and fatally wounded a bystander.

Thomas Carpenter and Charles Bates, both 19, Negroes, of The Bronx, convicted of slaying a grocer in a holdup.

Until just before their march to the death chamber, the three youths expected word from Albany that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman had commuted their sentence, as he had that of Cornelius Jamieson, of New York, who had been sentenced to die with them.

A similar triple execution is scheduled for Thursday night of next week for Alexander Nunes, of Yonkers; William Turner, of New York, and Vincent Garcia, of Niagara Falls.

WORK FOR MANY IN MOTOR ORDER

Rehabilitation of some of its plants by an important steel manufacturer was given as the reason for a $150,000 order for electric motors and control apparatus, awarded the Westinghouse Eelectric and Manufacturing Company. The motors, ranging from 250 to 1200 horsepower, will be used to drive steel mill rolls and auxiliary equipment.

Westinghouse officials in announcing the order, said the installations will give steady work to a large number of men, but that only old employes would be recalled by both the steel and electric companies.

Pittsburgh Firm Wins Patent Suit

The suit of the Cold Metal Process Company, of Youngstown, O., against the United Engineering and Foundry Company, of Pittsburgh, charging infringent of a patent for metal rolling and seeking an injunction, was dismissed by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar.

The court held that the defendant company had not infringed and the acts alleged were valid and proper under a license agreement of June 20, 1927.

Love of Dancing Leads to Arrest

LANCASTER, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Bernard Corcoran's lavish spending and nightly visits to dance halls although he has been jobless since June, police say, has led to his detention on charges of robbing three garages and a furniture store.

Officers say the 20-year-old Burlington (Vt.) youth, confessed last night that he broke into the places and stole about $800 from safes.

LIGHT DISPUTE DEADLOCKED

Duquesne Borough and the Duquesne Light Company remained at a deadlock today on the question of street lighting, following a meeting last night between representatives of Council and the light company.

The company had agreed to eliminate 164 of the 509 street lights, leaving 296 from 250 to 100 candlepower and 49 from 600 to 1,000 candlepower. Later Council notified the company it had voted to have 296 lights of 100 candlepower and 50 of 250 candlepower.

The company refused the proposition and Council replied by saying it would pay no more bills on the present lights. The company sent G. W. Ousler, general sales manager, and H. D. Megahan, attorney, to the meeting with three offers.

OAKMONT HEARS TAX CUT PLEA

Militant action by municipal taxpayers to bring governmental costs within reach of their ability to maintain them was urged upon 400 members of the Oakmont Home Owners' and Managers' Association at their initial meeting held last night in the Oakmont public school.

Attorney Samuel Wagner told members it was the civic duty of taxpayers to see that their tax money was spent as wisely as personal funds, and to demand that the rate of taxation be brought into line with present day finances.

Rex Newtown, Charles Sayer and R. L. Hutchinson, of the Wilkinsburg Taxpayers' Association also spoke, urging pressure upon heads of municipal governments to see the tax problem from the home and property owners' viewpoint. Fred Favo presided.

Lack Jury Funds, Curb N. J. Trials

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Only one jury trial will be held in Atlantic County Criminal Courts in the next four weeks according to announcement today from Prosecutor L. A. Repetto.

Lack of funds to pay jurors was given as the reason. No jury trials of civil suits have been held since June 30.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Glad I had that piece about Mrs. Coolidge on the air . . . How she was adored by the reporters and news photographers for her thoughtfulness, when they were in trouble . . . She called them "my boys" and always went to the bother to help them get a story or a photo . . . During all the years he was in Washington, President Hoover did not attend the theater, they say . . . When "Mourning Becomes Electra" opened there, the local management made a special effort to get Herbert to attend the premiere . . . In spurning the invitation, he said that he would be willing to go to the theater—when the theater had something worth while to offer . . . A bit of a George Jean Nathan, eh? . . . Of all the White House regimes, it seems, Mrs. Coolidge was the theater's most enthusiastic fan . . . Not only did she attend almost every legitimate production, but during the summer months she was a regular patron of the stock house there and always made it a point to be introduced to the cast's new members . . . Wonder who is responsible for the stupidity of the one jarring item in that radio hour? . . . It goes on about the time little children are having their supper, and a scary, spooky voice slowly intones the risk of using the wrong oil . . . I'll bet ours wasn't the only house where it was dialed out to prevent the baby from having nightmares.

Oop! They got me that time . . . I mean on my item that a great and beautiful song smash contained this "silly error," to-wit: "Roses are shining in Picardy" . . . Shining? I queried . . . Why not blooming? . . . So alert subscribers hasten to remind me that I'm the dunce, not the lyric writer of that delightful song . . . "Roses," I am reminded, "are shining in Picardy—in the hush of the silver dew" . . . Dew is water—so the roses are wet, and when anything is wet, it glistens or shines, so there!—I am barked at . . . Nice to know that the original Roxy theater has responded to Arnold Johnson's request that somebody help him encourage struggling artists and painters . . . That theater is turning over its immense foyer to exhibit their art—with the hope that witnesses will purchase . . . Very nice, very nice . . . The Pegasus Publishing Company rates a salute, too, for urging young writers to submit their manuscripts to Dr. Carlo Flumiani, the head of that firm . . . Those stories he considers good or important will be published . . . The raves on "Cavalcade," truly an inspiring moving picture, have aroused important movie locals, who argue that Winnie Sheehan also deserves some credit for its success. They testify that upon his return, Sheehan, who isn't mentioned at all, was responsible for most of it . . . I enjoyed Colman and Kay Francis so much in "Cynara" . . . "Silver Dollar" is windy.

Helen Menken is still unhappy from the whipping her first play in years received . . . Wonder how "Frisco Jenny," the Chatterton picture, will fare—now that most women's clubs on the coast complained to the L. A. Mayor about the "salacious" advertising wordage which abuses Biblical text . . . Six hundred protests went to the Hays office about it . . . Oh, the penalty of having mimics! . . . One who signs her complaint "Old Philadelphia Lady," groans about that Winchell Person . . . In her affidavit to the paper she says she was unfortunate enough to be on a train with "this Winchell," who insulted all the ladies in the car and said things unfit to repeat, etc. . . . I remember that incident—I heard about it nearly a year ago. A drunken lunatic on a train between New York and Boston went gay and was put off twice, but got on again. He said he was Walter Winchell—and I haven't been on a Boston-bound train since 1919. . . Naughty old Philadelphia lady! . . . Can't figure a guy like the Baron Suriani, of the Italian nobility, who received so much publicity last year. . . . After a Chicago attorney advertised through the personal columns for him, because a distant kin left him $200,000. . . Baron Suriani squandered the fortune in a year and now is here looking for a job that a really needy one ought to get.

Never remember Broadway so alive—by night . . . Guess it is because almost every electric sign is blazing again . . . Pretty sight—green, red, white, blue, amber, orange and lemon lamps lighting the liveliest lane in the land! . . . The only thing that doesn't seem to fit into the Broadway scheme of things is the effect of the new beer sign's chimes at 46th . . . Chimes? Broadway? . . . They are easier on the ears than the screeching syncopators, who blast madly in the dime-a-dance dens, at any rate . . . Easy to understand why Jolson, Cantor and other entertainers-who-matter, spurned all that wealth to open the Radio City temples. They realized wisely that they would suffer on the huge platforms, where, from the nearest seat actors appear to be apostrophes . . . And if they flopped before all the celebrities who came to the premiere — they would never live it down . . . Smart guys, smart guys . . . Smarter than the men who tried to ruin them while wrecking their own careers . . . Happy about Greta Stuckgold, who was one of the best canaries the Metropolitan Opera House ever had . . . Greta lost her voice completely several years ago and they dropped her . . . Recently at the Town Hall she made a glorious comeback, all the music oracles turning in sugary reports . . . She's a great cake-baker, too . . . Walda and I like cocoanut or chocolate layer best.

The Twentieth Century Club presented Florence Hardman, violinist, as the third in their artist series at the clubhouse yesterday afternoon. There was a feeling of well-being during the entire concert, which speaks well for the soloist; from the first notes one felt all would be well.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program was exacting enough yet ideal club music. Especially among the trifles which came after the intermission did we find dainties that, when they were arrangements, were as attractive as in their original forms.

Miss Hardman's style is not heroic, but it is deft and marked by profound musicianship rather than by any superficial cleverness. And therefore her ancient sonata of Leclair was finer than the Lalo Symphony, and "Lotus Land" with its exotic atmosphere, "Hills" with its lovely cantilena, "Maynight" with its sober northern took on the air of best classic playing.

Earl Mitchell never before played better accompaniments.

The Morning Musicale at Hotel Schenley yesterday brought out a pair of young musicians whom we should like to hear again, Freda Marcus, pianist, and Robert Topping, tenor. The audience was larger, and the increased interest in these affairs means that they can be made work for the good of music in our city.

Miss Marcus is a modest young player. Her tone is not large, but her approach to the music is right and in the calm "Moment Musicale" of Schubert, in the "Ye Sweet Retreat," an arrangement of Harold Bauer from old English melodies, and the last Chopin nocturne, almost never heard nor studied, and here given as encore, there was beautiful feminine feeling and delicate limpid quality that was most becoming.

Robert Topping has something more than a very good tenor voice. That voice was made for Wagnerian music for it has a heroic quality that tends towards baritone in depth. An excellent top and a middle range that still requires schooling. But more than the voice, this young man sings with an intelligence that makes us listen to more than his tones.

Hulda Lefridge played accompaniments. J. FRED LISSFELT.

'Great Magoo' Sold for Movie

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13.

Broadway may have spanked Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler, but Hollywood is eager for their wares.

Not only did Paramount buy the much panned "Great Magoo," but they have just laid a check on the line for a Hecht-Fowler original called "Catastrophe."

A domestic drama with a background of the theatrical, the publishing and advertising business, this story will be produced by B. P. Schulberg, with blonde Miriam Hopkins as the probable heroine.

Miss Hopkins

If the Hays office continues to remain obdurate about "Sanctuary," the picture is likely to be her next.

In the sale of their original, Messrs. Hecht and Fowler can find some solace for a costly error in judgment over the sale of "The Great Magoo" to the movies. Seven days before this ill-starred play opened the two authors refused an offer of $60,000 from Paramount. When the sale was finally made—they took $22,500.

Fowler manages to be quite philosophical about it. Wrapped in a blue bathrobe and sprawled in an easy chair, the author confessed to me the other day that the play deserved to fail.

"We had some good material," he said, "but we simply got too Smart-Alecky."

With latin impetuosity, Senor Jorge Bollini, Santa Maria, Fifi Dorsay's Argentine boy friend, leaves Hollywood to join the French star in New Orleans. He couldn't even wait two weeks for her to return. Now they're wondering whether the two will be married.

After vowing she and Jimmie Dunn were through, Maureen O'Sullivan was lunching with him again yesterday on the Fox lot. Maybe his illness converted her . . . Rumors of another splitup seem to have been premature—Eleanor Holm was out with Carl Laemmle, Jr., again Monday night.

Only the family and a few close friends will be present when Jack Pickford is buried beside his mother in Forest Lawn Cemetery. Due to a delay in the docking of the Europa, the actor's body will not arrive here until Monday morning. The service will take place that afternoon.

Screen Bills Change

"Frisco Jenny," with Ruth Chatterton becoming an underworld character as a result of the historic San Francisco earthquake and fire, began the new week in the Stanley today. The photoplay tale, in its finale, is that of a sacrificing mother.

* * *

The Penn screen feature, beginning today, is "No Man of Her Own," to continue for a week. It is a comedy drama with Clark Gable, Carole Lombard and Dorothy Mackaill in the leading roles of a tale about a sure-thing gambler who even consults "lady luck" about romance.

* * *

George Raft and Nancy Carroll have the leading roles in "The Under-Cover Man," new Warner film. It's a story that revolves on the theme of set a crook to catch a crook, with Raft as the gangster son of a gangster. Lew Cody is prominent in the cast.

"False Faces," showing on the Fulton screen, was written by Kubec Glamson, whose hit record includes "Smart Money" and "The Public Enemy."

"The Animal Kingdom," which closed in the Stanley Thursday, will move to the Sheridan Square screen Saturday. It features Leslie Howard, Ann Harding and Myrna Loy.

* * *

"Flesh," featuring Wallace Beery as a German waiter who comes to America to get into the wrestling game, will begin a three-day engagement in the Enright Saturday.

The new stage and screen bill in the Variety will open with a Sunday midnight show, the screen attraction to be "Evenings For Sale." Herbert Marshall and Sari Maritza are featured, with Mary Boland in a prominent role.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Lowell Sherman will win more admiration from picture fans through his interpretation of a scalawag medical man in "False Faces," photoplay that opened in the Fulton yesterday. His characterization is grand, but the character itself is one that is devoid of any sympathetic audience reaction except a possible wish that he might see the light, decide to "go straight" and make some good use of skill he possesses.

"False Faces," taking its title from the fact that plastic surgery is the basic element of the theme, skips more or less lightly through the larger part of the action, but veers into melodrama toward the end, and concludes with a tragic finish. Sherman, a philanderer in his romantic relationships, and equally devoid of conscience in his methods of extracting money from patients, is predominant throughout the picture, almost to the exclusion of his support, and succeeds in getting the audience to "feel" the qualities that make him personally attractive to both men and women—especially the latter.

That is particularly evident in the "punch" sequence of the picture, a court where he is on trial for malpractice—of which he is guilty—but he defends himself so convincingly as to make it appear he is being persecuted by jealous rivals, and is found not guilty. Nevertheless, he is punished, and, as a newspaper man in the scene remarks, to close the picture, "had it coming to him."

Lila Lee, as a nurse; Peggy Shannon, as his secretary; Berton Churchill, as his ally, and Nance O'Neill, as a duped patient, give principal support in a very good, if not altogether pleasant, story.

Movie Titles Changed

Fox Film Corporation announces that the picture scheduled for Sally Eilers and James Dunn as "Bad Boy" will henceforth be known as "Sailor's Luck." This is a sequel to the eminently successful "Bad Girl," the Vina Delmar story, in which the screen pair achieved screen stardom.

Also that "Road to Heaven" will be known as "I Am Guilty of Love." Boots Mallory, Alexander Kirkland, Irene Ware and Ralph Morgan are to be in the cast, which will be directed by John Francis Dillon.

Charles Bickford Cast For 'Legal Crime'

Charles Bickford is the first player to be signed by Charles R. Rogers for his next Paramount production, "Legal Crime." Willard Mack, Gene Towne and Graham Baker are working on the screen play, which deals with the dramatic effects which may take place throughout America upon modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Charles Laughton, who will be seen in the role of Nero in "The Sign of the Cross," coming Monday to the Nixon for two screen showings daily, was brought over from England especially for this part, and other members of the cast were selected, as Laughton was, that is for ability and what appeared to be typical resemblances to the characters. For the part of Poppaea, Nero's wife, historically recorded as a bad, bad woman, the requirement was a semblance of "wickedness clothed with beauty." Claudette Colbert decided she wanted to be "wicked" and she was successful in winning the part. Mercia, the Christian girl, needed other qualities, and they must have been quite difficult of registration, since it is said that 476 girls were tested before Elissa Landi was selected to play the role of a delectable tid-bit for Nero Laughton's hungry lions. Fredric March recently was awarded the acting palm of the screen last season for his portrayal in "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde." Of course, he was given his part in "The Sign of the Cross" long before that award was announced, nevertheless he got it because of his Jekyl-Hyde achievement.

* * *

Eddie Cantor and George Jessell are coming to Pittsburgh to spend a day in Syria Mosque as entertainers, the visit to be under the watchful eye and hovering wing of May Beegle. The comedians will head a company that will give matinee and evening performances Thursday, February 2, regardless of whether the groundhog sees his shadow or not. The entertainment will be in the nature of a revue.

* * *

Several new acts have consented to appear in the Sunday evening show in the Stanley, to be given under the auspices of the Variety Club for the benefit of its protege, Catherine Variety Sheridan. Among them are Gracie Barrie and Frank Richardson, the three Dancing Jacks, Dan Healy, Talent & Merit and Johnny Pastine & Co.

Broadways of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL GEORGE THE FIFTH, PARIS, FRANCE.—There is but one thing I dislike about my traveling companion and motion picture director, Mr. Ray Cozine, and that is the fact that the man is air-minded, as the saying goes.

Ever since I made my historic flight from Rome to Naples—that being the only time that Hellinger has ever flown—Mr. Cozine has been attempting to sell me another flight. I've never met such a persistent cuss in all my life. But I'm just as persistent in remaining on the ground as he is in trying to get me into the air.

When he is not in the bathtub, Mr. Cozine is always finding maps and things to prove all sorts of points. It's not at all unusual for him to dash into my room at 9 o'clock in the morning and awaken me by slapping me with a map. I don't mind being awakened by certain maps. But a piece of paper is most annoying.

"Look here, Mark," he will cry, "I've just discovered something. It says here that we can fly from Praha, in Ceskoslovenska, to Istanbul in Turkey, in less than a day.

"Do you realize what that means, boy?" he continues. "They tell me it takes almost three days on the train from Praha, in Ceskoslovenska, to Istanbul, in Turkey. And on one of these express planes, we're there before you know it. Why, then I—"

By this time, I have reached the conclusion that further sleep is out of the question. I sit up in bed and gaze at Mr. Cozine out of one eye.

"Listen, Ray," I murmur tiredly, "Let me alone, will you? I've told you a thousand times that in the future I'm flying only when I have to. I just don't like it, that's all."

This will discourage Mr. Cozine for an hour or two, but rarely more. By that time, he will have learned that it is possible to fly from Berlin to Vienna before you can finish a plate of liver dumplings and sauerkraut. Or that you can race from Budapest in a three-motored plane and arrive in Cairo before you're fairly settled in your seat.

If you listen to Mr. Cozine and finally grow to agree with him, you will believe that his airplanes can do anything. His enthusiasm for the air is astounding. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he awakened me one morning with the great news that a giant transport plane had just given birth to a tiny mail ship.

Mr. Cozine is not alone in his enthusiasm; I have met many people like him. They talk aviation by the month and no matter in which way the conversation drifts, it always returns to planes before very long. It doesn't matter whether they have been up once or 50 times. When a mug gets bitten by the aviation bug, he is bitten for fair.

All of these air-minded birds have figures galore at their finger tips. They will point out that 287 people were killed in motor cars in New York State during the 57 days that ended July 31, 1931, whereas only 286 people were killed in airplanes during the 56 days that ended July 10, 1932.

The only chance I get to retaliate in some small measure is when I find news of an aviation accident in the daily papers. Whereupon I shove it under Mr. Cozine's nose and ask him, how come?

His replies are classics. If the accident happens to a wealthy man, Mr. Cozine sniffs and complains about too many amateurs flying around. If the crash involves a transport plane, Mr. Cozine shrugs his shoulders and insists that the pilot had no business taking off in fog.

And so it goes. Regardless of the plane accident, my genial director has an explanation all ready. He actually glows as he offers you his version of the reason for the accident.

The other day—and this is what causes me to write this piece—I pounced upon an article in the Paris Tribune. It said that a mail pilot, an experienced aviator during the war, was killed with a passenger when his plane exploded in mid-air during the regular run. The ship had been thoroughly tested, the pilot was sober and highly competent, the run had been made any number of times—and the aviation authorities were unable to provide any solution for the fatal accident.

I hastened to show the report to Mr. Cozine, and I watched his face as he read. If he could explain this accident away I would never bother him again.

He finished the account and slapped the paper down.

"There you are!" he cried triumphantly. "That proves my point exactly. It shows you that flying is positively the safest thing in the world!"

I gulped.

"What are you talking about?" I cried. "Those two guys were killed."

He nodded.

"O course they were," he replied calmly. "That's just what I'm trying to explain. Flying, as a rule, is absolutely safe. There two men were killed while flying, which is an exception. And doesn't the exception always prove the rule?"

Well, it's what I've always said. Once a guy has been made a motion picture director, he can never return to normalcy . . .

I've been kidding a great deal in this column, of course, and by the time I return to New York, I'll probably be a confirmed plane addict. But I have a natural dislike for high places, and I'll have to conquer that uncomfortable feeling before I really grow to like the game. You must enjoy altitudes—and I'm a man who has grown round-shouldered from walking into cellars.

The whole thing reminds me of something that happened to Capt. Frank Hawks, the grand flier, a few years ago. Frank was scheduled to fly from Cleveland, O., to New York, one morning in a small open plane. At the request of mutual friends he agreed to take along a passenger who hadn't had much flying experience.

Before they stepped into the plane, both Hawks and his passenger donned their parachutes. When his device was adjusted, Frank put on a heavy fur coat that he was in the habit of wearing on chilly days. His slightly nervous passenger looked on with big eyes.

"That coat," he stammered. "Y-y-you put on a parachute first and then you put a big coat over it. W-w-what's the big idea?"

The noted flyer smiled easily.

"Nothing to worry about," he replied. "I sometimes get a bit chilly. And if anything happens, I always have plenty of time to remove my coat before I jump."

The passenger said nothing. He merely slumped into his seat in the rear and wet his lips nervously. A moment later they were off.

They hadn't gone more than 50 miles or so when Frank began to feel warm. He stood up, removed his fur coat and sat down again. And he didn't know until almost an hour later that his passenger—seeing Frank remove his coat—had leaped from the plane, opened his parachute, landed with nothing more than a few bumps and was more than a hundred miles behind! . . .

In Lead

Leslie Howard, who starred on the stage in "Animal Kingdom," has the same role in the screen version, moving Saturday to the Sheridan Square Theater.

Miss Landi Gets Role

Elissa Landi has been engaged by Jesse L. Lasky, independent producer for Fox, to play the leading feminine role in "Warrior's Husband." Miss Landi's new part was that originally played on the New York stage by Katherine Hepburn. Ernest Truex was announced previously for the male lead in the Julian Thompson play which Walter Lang directs.

"Warrior's Husband" is Miss Landi's second announced production for the coming season, having been cast in Alfred Savoir's comedy, "The Dressmaker from Luneville." A slight indisposition kept the star from the screen since appearing in "Sign of the Cross," an interlude she took advantage of by completing her third novel which is to be published next spring.

Lamb Growth Hits Film

Because a lamb wouldn't stop growing, a motion picture company has to spend many hundred additional dollars! The lamb, Marian Nixon's pet in "Face in the Sky," was photographed with her in some of the first sequences taken, and the original plans called for ensuing scenes of the two to be made toward the end of the production.

Harry Lachman, the director, discovered that the lamb, probably the healthiest in California, was growing an inch or two every day and, following the first week's work on the picture, decided he'd have to revise the shooting schedule in order to have the lamb appear on the screen the right size.

If the director hadn't done this, besides costing the company any number of dollars, the lamb would have carried Marian Nixon instead of the reverse.

Wrestler

Wallace Berry portrays a big grappler, evolved from a waiter, in "Flesh," opening Saturday on the Enright screen.

Frank Craven To Direct

Frank Craven, playwright, frequently seen on the stage and screen as an actor, will become a motion picture director when he directs a story, of which he is co-author, to be known as "Five Cents a Glass."

Mr. Craven is the author of "Too Many Cooks," "That's Gratitude," "The First Year" and a score of other stage successes. Since going to Fox Movietone City in June, 1932, he has written the dialogue for "Handle With Care" and assisted in preparing "State Fair," for which Henry King drafted him in a character role.

It is an easily recognized emblem that enables the ready identification of dependable quality as demonstrated by scientific study. After all the adjectives in the dictionary are laid end to end, you have—a lot of nice adjectives. So, more and more, you will see, in the Kaufmann advertising—a symbol bearing the legend, "evaluated and approved." The little circle with the microscope is a quick way of telling you that the merchandise in question was evaluated IN THE LABORATORY—not in somebody's showrooms. Its colorfastness—or lack of it—its resistance to shrinkage—or lack of it—its tensile and bursting strength—all these and many more factors affecting its service to YOU are known before we offer it to you. Not all the merchandise sold by Kaufmann's has been evaluated; but more and more, as time goes on, the Kaufmann Fellowship at Mellon Institute will extend its activities throughout the range of merchandise offered by this establishment.

Trouble Tale Behind Salus Resignation

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Behind the resignation of Senator Samuel Salus, of Philadelphia, from the Senate Utilities Committee lies a story of trouble on the Delaware beside which the bickering within our own county is as peaceful as a meeting of a church guild.

Mr. Shields

Senator Salus evidently has been edged out of the picture by some other Philadelphia leaders, all of whom are elbowing each other, and he went angrily home before the Senate adjourned this week. He was not the only Philadelphian to depart the Legislative halls in high dudgeon after committee chairmanship and memberships were announced, as there was considerable disturbance in the House.

Harrisburg has been full of Republican gentlemen from the East, each claiming to speak solely and authoritatively for William S. Vare. As things have sifted down it appears that Harry Davis of the Executive Committee of the Republican City Committee is the real Vare spokesman, reports to the leader, and gets instructions from him.

* * *

Each Jockeying For Advancement

The first week of the session Davis was accompanied by Recorder of Deeds James Hazlett, chairman of the Republican City Committee. He did not appear this week. Hazlett apparently represented Vare at the Chicago convention, and restrained the Philadelphians from a straight-cut wet declaration, though he was under definite instructions to that course from Vare.

John McGarvey, a Philadelphia contractor, who has been prominent in politics in Philadelphia, also had headquarters the first week, and there were reports that he would set up a rival business to Davis and Hazlett.

Sheriff Richard Weiglein, one of the most astute of the Philadelphia leaders, was in Harrisburg the first week about some legislation connected with the Sheriff's office, but it is understood his future visits will be few and far between.

There are also to be considered the Trainer brothers, Harry and Joseph, the latter a member of the Senate.

Now, all of these gentlemen, including Salus, profess a loyalty to Vare. But each is jockeying for a personal advancement and an opportunity to seize the standard of leadership should Mr. Vare lay down the reins. There is jealousy all over the lot, and the result during this session is apt to be manifest on more than one roll call.

* * *

Philadelphia No Longer Unit

Philadelphia has prided itself on being a unit in legislative affairs in the past. It has claimed an ability to vote its Republican House delegation as a unit, and has enjoyed practically the same unanimity in the Senate.

But no longer. Representative Morton Witkin, for example, was properly spanked in committee assignments. He has been one of the chief vocal exponents of Philadelphia and organization policy in the House, and is a forceful orator. His leader is John R. K. Scott, who probably will not be pleased.

Representative Philip Sterling, for several sessions chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, was not reappointed this year, the post going to one of his colleagues, Jacob Mathay. Representative Sterling is attached to the political banner of Joseph R. Grundy, and while Mr. Grundy is not now openly powerful in the Republican organization of the state—and can be thus affronted—it is worth recalling that when he was active the organization was in much better condition than it is today.

* * *

Salus Behind Real Inquiry

Salus wished one of two desires satisfied, either to be chairman of the special utility committee or of the Senate Judiciary General Committee. He was refused both, Senator Ealy, of Somerset, being named chairman of Judiciary General, and, while the utility chairman has not yet been named, it will be either Senator John J. McClure, of Delaware, or Senator James J. Coyne, of Pittsburgh.

Parenthetically, and paradoxically, Salus was one of the forces behind what for a time was a real investigation. He resisted pressure to pull punches, and with Coyne and former Senator William H. Earnest, of Harrisburg, compelled a real report and some sound recommendations on what was accomplished.

But with Salus eliminated, and Earnest no longer in the Senate, it is doubtful if much more will be heard of the utility investigation unless Gov. Pinchot forces it, as he did before. The Senate has a way of waiting until clubbed by the Governor to do the obviously intelligent thing.

No later than this week, Senator George Reed did not apologize for an insult to Mrs. Pinchot which shocked all of his colleagues, until after Mr. Pinchot demanded it.

Baldwin to Vote On Building School

The Baldwin Township school district will hold a special election February 14 for the appropriation of $195,000 for buying property, building and furnishing a 20-room high school. The proposed site of the school is near the South Hills Country Club.

CITIZENS BOOM WITHEROW FOR MAYORALTY

Independents Urge Kline-Coyne Ouster

Declaring that clean government can be better accomplished by the election of honest men to office, Councilman Robert Garland, addressing a group of civic leaders seeking election law reforms, last night proposed the name of William P. Witherow as the Independent Republican party's candidate for Mayor.

Witherow, prominent industrial leader, was chairman of Mayor Charles H. Kline's citizens' committee that submitted the "economy budget." Presiding at the gathering held last night in the Keystone Athletic Club, he was obviously perturbed at the turn of events and hastily waved the suggestion aside.

'WITHEROW FOR MAYOR'

Councilman Garland said:

"We can accomplish more in the interest of clean government, which is the aim of this meeting, by electing honest men to office than we can even by these election bills in Harrisburg. The honesty of the government is even more a matter of the men in office than the laws that put them there.

"There are five councilmen up for re-election this year, and, by a strange coincidence, every one of the men asking re-election is a Coyne-Kline man. The citizens of Pittsburgh could do no greater service in the interest of clean government than by ousting them all and putting another Mayor at the head of the city—and if the man chosen for that place was William P. Witherow, I think we'd all be satisfied."

COYNE DENOUNCED

Senator James J. Coyne, who voted in the legislative caucus at Harrisburg last week against Senator Frank J. Harris' proposals for support of election law reforms, was denounced by several of the speakers. Chairman Witherow said:

"Any representative or senator sitting in Harrisburg who votes against good election laws is a self-appointed apostle of crooked government."

The eventual ousting of "the political upstart from Oakland," predicted by Francis S. Guthrie, drew a burst of applause.

Senator Harris, who was kept from the chairmanship of the Senate Elections Committee by Coyne, said:

"The robbing of the electorate, through election frauds, of their right to vote is one of the most treacherous of crimes."

REFORM MOVEMENT

He described alleged irregularities in the last election and added:

"I don't think the Republican party is big enough or strong enough or ruthless enough to stop us from putting through legislation for clean government. I am certain public opinion will overwhelm it if it tries."

Other speakers included former State Representative D. Glenn Moore, of Washington County, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Judge Ralph H. Smith, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, R. Templeton Smith, Mrs. J. O. Miller, A. Leo Weil and Councilmen Charles Anderson and P. J. McArdle.

RATES ON STEEL PERIL MILLS OF DISTRICT

Traffic Men Protest Charges to Detroit; Removal Hinted

Immediate relocation of their plants to the Detroit area unless freight rate relief is granted today was threatened by Pittsburgh and Youngstown steel companies at a hearing of three freight associations in the Hotel William Penn.

The hearing was held for proposed rate changes on shipments from Pittsburgh and Youngstown to Detroit, Toledo and Cleveland. The complaints were heard by chairmen from the Central, Trunk Line and New England Freight Associations. Steel concern representatives also spoke for reductions from Bethlehem, Johnstown, Chicago and St. Louis.

REMOVAL THREATENED

Declaring that the rate of $5.70 a ton on steel into Detroit could not be permanently met, J. A. Coakley, general traffic manager of the United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries, said:

"I will say frankly, unless our demands for reductions to compete with water rates to the automobile districts are granted, we are prepared to move our factories. We have seen too steel concerns 'go west' because they did not meet existing conditions not to realize the danger to us."

H. D. Rhodehouse, of the Republic Steel Company, Youngstown, referring to truck competition, warned:

"The 600,000 tons of steel a day now handled by trucks can easily multiply itself and eventually ruin the carriers."

RATES DEMANDED

Bethlehem should be granted a revised rate only to the nearest lake port, Coakley said, in expressing approval to the inclusion of Johnstown in the reduction sought for Pittsburgh. Reduction demands ranged from 4 cents to as high as 15½ cents per hundred pounds.

Other executives heard included A. R. Kennedy, of Pittsburgh Steel Company; H. C. Crawford, Bethlehem Steel Company; H. D. Fenske, Great Lakes Steel Corporation, Detroit; W. J. Hammond, Inland Steel Company, Chicago; W. H. Welsh, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, and C. F. Donnelly, traffic counsel, Pittsburgh.

Police today continue search for two armed bandits who escaped with $60 in cash after slugging and binding Miss Edna Hall, 21, stenographer, in the office of the Acme Stamping and Manufacturing Company, 201 Corliss street, West End, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Hall, alone in the office, was threatened with revolvers and forced to open a safe. After binding her with tape, one of the thugs struck her on the head with his revolver. The girl was found on the floor by two male employes who returned from lunch. She was treated by a physician and taken to her home, 3872 Windgap road.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See where Arizona voted to do away with the "lame duck" Congress. If you don't know what a "lame duck" Congress is, it's the type of Congress they are holding now, where nobody is going to try to do anything till another Congress is called. Why this administration wants to stick there till the last dog is hung and take this punishment is hard to understand. It's like a troupe of actors getting hissed off the stage, but insisting on staying on there, because they had a two week's contract.

Pitt Football Captain To Wed East End Girl

Reider to Marry Brunet After Graduation

Let Southern California claim all football championships, Pitt continues to run far ahead on the matrimonial gridiron.

The latest convert is none other than Paul Reider, captain of the last year's Pitt team.

And the young lady is an especially attractive brunet of 19 years, Miss Ann Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Farrel, of 7223 Penn avenue.

Miss Farrell's wearing the ring now and they'll be married some time after Paul is graduated in June.

In his matrimonial stride Paul swept aside any and all opposition with the same sureness he brushed by opposing tacklers. He and Miss Farrell met each other last August.

Paul is the third Pitt football star to join the ranks in the last few months. A half-dozen other grid luminaries also have announced recently.

Warren Heller and Miss Irene Malindzak, a Pitt co-ed, were the first. A few days later the secret marriage of Miller Munjas, Pitt halfback, was announced.

CLOTHES AFIRE, WOMAN SAVED

Her clothes ignited as she stood before a stove in her home, Mrs. Jennie Diehl, 64, of 223 Seventh avenue, Braddock, fled to the street last night.

Mrs. Edward Myers, of 221 Seventh street, described the rescue of Mrs. Diehl. She said:

"Mother heard her screams and said someone was being robbed. Then I saw Mrs. Diehl in the street with her clothing afire, so I ran out and stripped off the clothes. Mrs. Fedore, another neighbor, brought out a rug and wrapped Mrs. Diehl in it while mother called an ambulance."

BOARDS FIGHT SCHOOL 'RIPPER'

The Allied Boards of Trade yesterday went on record as favoring retention of the appointive Board of Public Education for the Pittsburgh school district, condemning any movement to establish an elective board.

The action was in line with many protests being sent to Harrisburg against the proposed "ripper" legislation, making the boards elective.

Among those voicing protest were Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute; Mrs. W. T. Latimer, executive officer of the Allegheny County W. C. T. U.; the Rev. Dr. P. W. Snyder, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches; Mrs. Charles S. Miller, chairman of the educational department of the Congress of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the League of Women Voters.

Pair Caught Looting Stand, Police Charge

Detected looting a refreshment stand in West Park of cigars, cigarets and candy early today, police say, John McCue, 35, of 603 Sandusky street, and Martin Lawless, 26, of 527 Jackson street, were lodged in North Side Police Station on suspicious person charges. The two men are said to have implicated Lawless' brother, Robert, 27, who was also taken into custody.

Four Youths Rob Store Via Fire Escape

Four youths, who broke into the National store at 200 Smithfield street early today and escaped with hunting material valued at $50, were being sought by police. The quartet entered the building by climbing a fire escape to the second floor roof, where they were seen by an employe of the post-office, who notified police.

SQUIRREL HILL RESIDENCE DAMAGED

Two Women Routed as Flames Sweep From Cellar to Roof

Flames which spread from cellar to roof routed two women to the streets and alarmed 600 school children in Squirrel Hill today.

The fire was in a three-story brick house at 749 South Linden avenue, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Eric Graebert and Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Gerhardt.

Clouds of smoke caused a second alarm to be rung, and a few doors distant teachers in the Linden School planned a hurried exit in case of necessity.

However, firemen kept the flames under control and the children were able to continue their classes.

Mrs. Graebert and Mrs. Gerhardt hurried from the house after the flames were discovered by Mrs. Graebert.

Mrs. Graebert rushed to a neighbor's house and telephoned the alarm. The second alarm was sent in after the first engines arrived.

The fire was blamed on an overheated furnace. The flames spread to only a section of the roof.

The damage was estimated at more than $10,000.

TRUCK HITS 2 CITY WORKERS

An assistant supervisor and a foreman of the city Bureau of Water were in serious condition today in St. Francis Hospital with injuries suffered when struck by a truck while supervising a repair job on a broken water main at Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street last night.

Michael Larkin, 58, of 3835 Liberty avenue, the assistant supervisor and veteran city employe, and Frank Walters, 43, of 716 Tripoli street, the foreman, were struck by a truck that crashed through a barrier of red lights and hit a city-owned truck. Each suffered a fractured hip.

The truck, driven, police said, by Clarence Evans, 31, of 419 Zara street, missed by a few inches an excavation about 10 feet deep, in which four men were working. Evans was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Congress Probe Of Late War Is Only a Memorial

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Washington is investigating the late, unlamented Kreuger. As usual the committee has a currycomb but no hoss.

Kreuger was a local boy who made goofs in a big city.

He took Wall street on the old match box trick. And now the boys have discovered the only thing square about Ivar was the shape of his head.

He trotted in the old gray mare on the smart lads and made them like it. It's over now and salt won't improve the flavor.

Wall street went for Ivar like a bear for berries. He had a full set of burglar tools hanging on his watch chain and the boys thought he was a lodge member.

He shaved 'em and made 'em furnish the lather.

And this investigation won't get us anywhere we haven't been before.

FOSTER POVERTY SHOWN AS CITY MARKS ANNIVERSARY

FAMOUS SONGS SOLD CHEAPLY BY AUTHOR

While Pittsburgh honored Stephen Collins Foster today on the sixty-ninth anniversary of his death, an example of the improvidence of the man who wrote his haunting melodies during poverty-stricken days here and in New York came to light in Avalon.

In a collection of old songs owned by Mrs. W. E. Wolfe, of 928 Jackman avenue, Avalon, is a copy of "Old Folks at Home," one of Foster's masterpieces.

FAILED TO MAKE MONEY

But this copy does not bear the name of its composer. Instead, the name of E. P. Christy, famous minstrel of many years ago, is on the title page. This fact put Mrs. Wolfe in a quandary, but Dr. Josiah K. Lilly, of Indianapolis, an authority on Foster's music, explained:

"The original manuscript of 'Old Folks at Home,' written by Foster, is in my possession. The fact there is a copy bearing Christy's name is not unusual. Foster sold the song to him, as he sold others to other persons, and it appeared originally, credited to Christy. Later Foster obtained the rights and it was published under his name."

Foster never made a financial success of his art. Many stories are told of his lack of business acumen exemplified by his sale of songs to individuals for small sums. He died in New York in poverty at the age of 37.

HONORED ON WCAE

The composer was born in Lawrenceville in 1826. Today Pittsburgh honors him to a greater extent than ever before. The Community Fine Arts Committee of the Civic Club of Allegheny County arranged the program.

A Foster continuity will be broadcast from Radio Station WCAE over a nation-wide hookup. His melodies will be played on church chimes throughout the metropolitan district. Memorial services will be held at his grave in Allegheny Cemetery at 3:30 p. m. Dean N. R. High Moor, of Trinity Cathedral, will speak, and Foster melodies will be sung by a double quartet. Ernest Lunt, conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir, will place a wreath on the grave.

HOBOES PLAN FOSTER TABLET

Composer Typical 'Bo,' Declares Jeff Davis

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Claiming the late Stephen Collins Foster, famous song writer, as "one of their own," America's hoboes announced plans today to erect a memorial in his memory. Today was the sixty-ninth anniversary of Foster's death.

Jeff Davis, "king of hoboes" by virtue of his office as president of the International Itinerant Workers' Union, said:

"Foster was a typical 'bo.'"

The memorial, a bronze tablet, will be placed on the walls of the Bowery House in New York where Foster roomed and where he died in 1864.

Writer of many of the world's best-loved songs, Foster drifted from city to city—Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, New York — struggling against poverty and meanwhile writing "Old Dog Tray," "Old Folks at Home," "Nellie Gray" and other songs—125 or more. He was found dead in his room at the age of 38.

There will be three placques erected in all, Davis said. One to James Eads How, "millionaire hobo," will be placed on the levee at St. Louis, while the third, to "Bill" Seamore, once a member of the executive committee of the hobos' organization and once mayor of Tacoma, Wash., will be dedicated there.

Today, too, Davis and his associates here arranged a program of Foster's best-known songs for the wanderers who make the old Robinson's opera house in Cincinnati their port of call.

Davis said:

"Time showed there was good in Foster. Perhaps this will help show there's something good in these fellows down here, too."

McKeesport Man Ends Life by Gun

Frank Bolston, 50, Negro, was found dead in bed by his wife in their home at 1335 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, today, a bullet through the heart. The Coroner's office, which reported the death as suicide, said that Bolston had lost his job with National Tube Company recently.

HIGH OFFICIALS WITH 2 JOBS ESCAPE CUT

State Senator-County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield and Assistant County Solicitor-Representative James H. McClure are exempt under provisions of a resolution adopted by the County Commissioners which provides that no county employe shall receive his county salary while in Harrisburg as a state legislator.

The only person affected will be Representative Joseph A. Rectenwald, of the Twelfth Legislative District, who is employed in the County Assessor's office.

Commissioner C. M. Barr, who introduced the resolution, said McClure and Mansfield would be representing the county while in Harrisburg and for this reason would not be docked for the time off.

The resolution was introduced by Barr at the close of the budget session yesterday. It was seconded by Mansfield and passed with the approval of the three Commissioners.

Asked who the resolution would affect, Barr said:

"This concerns Mr. Rectenwald, who works in the assessor's office."

Asked whether it would affect Mansfield or McClure, he answered:

"The Commissioners have nothing to say regarding Mr. Mansfield's salary, which is fixed by an act of Assembly. Mr. McClure, our assistant solicitor, spends much of his time in Harrisburg on county business anyway.

"Both he and Mr. Mansfield are real representatives of the Commissioners and the county will benefit while they are in Harrisburg. In other years it was necessary to have someone in Harrisburg to look out for the county and we are fortunate in having them represent us."

Frank E. Hoffman, a representative in the Eleventh Legislative District, will draw no pay from the county during the entire term of the Legislature.

He is employed in the office of the Jury Commissioners. It was learned today that Judge James R. Macfarlane, president Judge of Common Pleas Court, had ordered Hoffman's name taken from the payroll during the Legislature's session.

The county pays Mansfield $1,000 a month and McClure $416.66 a month. Hoffman and Rectenwald are paid $175 a month each. Mansfield gives his salary as state senator to charity.

VANISHED GIRL, ON 'LAST FLING,' HUNTED HERE

Miss Celebrating on $10 'Safe in Pittsburgh,' Sister Informed

Search for Miss Carolyn Lake, 18, who left her home at Fairchance, Pa., several weeks ago after leaving a note saying she was going to have her "last fling at life on 10 bucks," turned to Pittsburgh today following a mysterious telephone call to Miss Stella Lake, of Uniontown, sister of the missing girl.

The phone call, purporting to have come from Miss Lake, said she was safe "somewhere in Pittsburgh," and that she would not communicate with her relatives again until she "got settled." Miss Lake called her sister, she said, to assure her that she had not ended her life.

Mystery surrounding the girl grew recently when it was reported clothing identified as that worn by her on the day of her disappearance had been found on a wire fence near a "haunted" house in the Charleroi district.

TEACHERS TAKE 10% CUT

A voluntary 10 per cent salary slash has been voted by North Braddock High School teachers, according to a letter from F. D. Zuerner, superintendent of schools, to the board. It read:

"This action is taken by the teachers in consideration of the generous attitude of the board in not asking a reduction at this time. We realize the burden that taxpayers are shouldering."

The cut will be effective with the beginning of the new semester. A similar cut was ordered by the school board for salaries of other employes.

SQUIRREL HILL SCENE OF RUM LOAD SEIZURE

A truck laden with 23 half-barrels of Canadian beer and 20 gallons of whisky was confiscated by prohibition agents last night in Ebdy street, Squirrel Hill.

"Special delivery" signs were painted on the sides of the truck and the cargo was in four large wooden packing cases. The driver, Dave Sirota, arrested, was believed to have brought the load from Canada, agents said.

A club on the second floor of a house in Middle street, North Side, was raided by Constable Sam Graham and prohibition agents late yesterday. One barrel of whisky, 40 pints of gin, 25 gallons of alcohol and a barrel of beer were confiscated. The proprietor escaped by sliding down a rope from a rear second-floor window. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

A 100-gallon still, 141 bottles of beer, 12 gallons of moonshine, 700 pounds of corn sugar, 21 barrels of mash and 25 pounds of yeast were reported found by prohibition agents in a Preble avenue dwelling.

Confiscation of several jugs of moonshine was reported by county detectives in a raid late yesterday on the confectionery and home of Otto C. Verdekal, 1423 Reedsdale street. Verdekal was held for court on a charge of violating the Snyder act by Alderman Thomas M. Geary.

CARNEGIE FIRE ROUTS THREE

Three persons were routed from their home last night by a blaze which caused $8,000 damage to the old Sterling mansion, Sixth and Chartiers avenue, Carnegie, a landmark.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miraglia and their son, Peter, who occupy the dwelling, fled to the street when the blaze broke out on the third floor of the three-story brick building. The Carnegie Fire Department, under Capt. George Ebner, battled the fire for more than three hours.

The mansion formerly belonged to Richard Sterling, pioneer Carnegie resident.

M'NEIL MISSES CARROTS

Last fall Warden John McNeil gave away 500 bushels of carrots. It was an excess production. Today he is wishing them back, but they've been eaten by the boys at Thorn Hill, McKeesport unemployed and other departments on emergency organizations.

He wishes his carrots back because the County Commissioners yesterday cut his budget request of $30,000 to $23,000. The jail is operating at present on a scale of 7½ cents daily for food per prisoner, approximately half of the 90-cents-a-week allowance granted by the Allegheny County Emergency Association for the maintenance of unemployed persons.

Mercer Raises Jail Doctor's Pay

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 13.—Jail Physician Paul Hope has had his salary raised from $500 to $1,000 by the County Commissioners. Out of the increase he must furnish his own drugs and supplies.

JUDGE PONDERS MERCY PLEA

Paul Bayard, 33, of Gibsonia, former draft clerk at the Colonial Trust Company, pleaded guilty before Judge Frank P. Patterson to embezzlement of $5,500 of the bank's funds in the last three years. He said he had lived beyond his means and used the money to keep up his home and social appearances. His attorney, George Campbell, asked that he be paroled to earn money to repay the bank. Judge Patterson replied:

"The court must protect the public which deposits its money in banks, and it is a serious question as to whether a parole would be justified."

He reserved decision until Monday.

War Office O. K.'s New W. Va. Bridge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The War Department approved plans of the West Virginia Road Commission for construction of a new bridge across Big Graves Creek, near Moundsville. It would replace the existing span.

Jobless Youth Faces Problem Concerning His Fiancee

Has a boy who is busted the right to love?

Or should a lad who has lost his job give up his girl, too, even though she says it will break her heart?

"Irish" says he hasn't—and he should. So he's all for leaving the town where he knows everybody and going to some place where he'll find a job or starve. He won't starve if he stays where he is. But if he takes help from his friends and The Girl, something worse than starvation may happen to his spirit—so he thinks.

It's one of those new tragedies that have come in with Hard Times. There's a boy like this in almost every block—and, thank God, there's also a girl as brave and sweet and loyal as little Rose. So maybe the Hard Times have brought us beauty, as well as bitterness.

IS ENGAGED

Dear Miss Robinson—

Having just finished my ironing, I got to thinking. It's funny how a fellow thinks when he's doing his ironing.

I've read your column for the last four years or so, without a yip out of me about my troubles, either. Now may I impose on your good nature and broad-mindedness to ask you something?

I'm engaged to Rose, the sweetest little girl on earth. We became engaged when I had a nice position and she was taking care of her mother.

Now she has a nice position and I haven't any. In fact, I'm down to bed rock, after making good as co-signer for a "friend's" note.

At present I am living with friends, but I can't impose on them much longer. I have been accepting carfare and lunch money, etc., from my fiancee, too, and I don't like that.

Now I want to sell my car and take my chances in another state—which one I don't care—and for us to forget each other for a year or so, or as long as it takes me to get on my feet. Why should I rob her of her savings? Don't you think I am a cad for accepting them thus far?

OPINIONS DIFFER

I've lived in this district all my life, and can do anything from punching a typewriter to punching a pan. Don't you think I'd stand a better chance if I had to get work or starve in a strange town, than I would going downtown every day "trying to find something?" I think so. I'm afraid I'll get soft sticking here, and maybe depending too much on other people.

But the lady friend says I would be a coward to leave her just because things are the way they are.

Don't you think I'm a bum to accept her help in a financial way, as I have been doing, even though we are engaged? I feel like one, but she seems to think I'll be a bum if I go.

IRISH.

You're a grand youngster, Irish! You've got what it takes to make a Regular Man. No wonder little Rose wants to stand by you. It's lads like you who make good, no matter how the times.

But as for the idea of leaving home—I wonder. Yes, I know it sounds very heroic, and you really mean it; and it's tough on your pride to be taking aid from a girl—

But have you thought of the girl's side?

Have you thought of the loneliness, the worry, the heart-aching dreariness that will be hers if you go?

ASSISTANCE NECESSARY

Many a time, son, the Grand Gesture isn't the really fine or brave gesture. Many a bit of spot-light heroics is actually about three-quarter selfishness and conceit. And so perhaps it might be really a more gallant thing to stay than go.

Also this I know. Hard times are everywhere. You'll have to accept a friendly hand wherever you go, so you might as well accept the one at home—

And then hustle your darndest to deserve it!

So park your pride for a bit, son, and your car, too, unless you can use it in business. Then get out and prove to the world that you're not too smart to take any chance that comes, even if it only means sifting cinders or shining up the kettles in the nearest soup kitchen.

And as for Rosie—she'll not mind sharing her last dime with you if she knows it's backing a man. No real woman would.

So that's my answer to Irish. And now, what's yours? If you, stranger, were in his shoes—what then? Would you take help from your girl, and give her the comfort of your presence, even though it hurt your pride? Or would you place your own pride first and go out to win—or starve?

Earhart and Johnson Queens of the Air, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Aviation fans were surprised and disappointed not to find Amy Johnson among the 35 women honored by King George on New Years Day.

Amy Johnson, of England, and our own Amelia Earhart are the two foremost airwomen of the world. When aviation fans get together there is often an argument as to which is the greater.

Some fans insist that flying the Atlantic and getting lost afterwards only marks Amelia Earhart a great flier. While always reaching her exact destination marks Amy Johnson a great aviator.

Amy Johnson fans insist that she could duplicate Amelia Earhart's flight, but that Amelia Earhart could not duplicate Amy Johnson's flights.

But when all is said, they are still wing to wing in the esteem of the fans.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—My wife has never met my brother and his wife, and I would like to know the correct method of making the introduction.

2—We were married very quietly and the only ones invited to attend were her mother and father, also her sister and a brother-in-law. We would like to know whether we should have my brother and his wife to our home first, or should we go to their home? My wife is a bit timid about meeting them.

CHUCK.

1—Such a close-relative introduction should be made in the most informal way, with the use of the first names only. Like this, "Mary, this is Jane," and "Mary, this is Jim."

2—Since your brother and his wife did not attend your wedding, it would be especially gracious for you and your wife to arrange at once to invite them to your home to dine with you. And the sooner, the better. And, if I were you, I wouldn't invite any other guests. This will make the getting acquainted much easier.

And generally, as a matter of fact, we are timid about meeting people only until we meet them! I am sure that this will be such a pleasant intimate-and-informal dinner that your bride will forget all about her timidness. And if you issue this invitation at once, it will carry greater importance and significance.

Man's Prerogative

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it permissible for a young man to ask a girl if he may call to see her at her home? Or must the girl extend this invitation?

Some maintain that it is perfectly proper for the man to ask, while others state this is too much like "inviting one's self."

Your decision will be appreciated. S.

Both groups are correct. It is charming for a girl to invite her friends to come to see her, and there is no distinction about offering this hospitality to both her girl friends and her men friends.

On the other hand, it is proper and gallant for a man to ask for a girl's permission to come to see her at her home, and he always has this prerogative.

Household Hints

To prevent a glass jam jar from cracking when pouring in jam, stand it over the steel of a knife.

An old stocking or a paper bag slipped over the hand when polishing a stove will protect the hands from the polish.

When cleaning tennis shoes that are wanted in a hurry moisten the pipe-clay or patent cleaner with methylated spirit. The shoes will dry in a few minutes.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Gets Aid of Mary and Noel

"Well, Mrs. Graham, you look comfortable," Samuel Brixton's voice raucous even when he was trying to keep it low, accosted me as he came opposite my door. I looked up, pretending to be startled.

"Oh!" I said. "Does Mrs. Brixton need me?"

"Not just now," he said, patently trying to frame some excuse for his appearance. "Ronald is with her, and we've persuaded her to lie down. I've just got to get out for a cigar and a little stroll before I turn in. I'm glad you're sitting up, I didn't like to disturb you or Lillian, but I would appreciate it if you'd sort of keep one eye on the room while I'm gone. I won't be over an hour at the latest."

An hour! I mentally repeated the words as I rushed for the telephone, after noiselessly closing my door as soon as Samuel Brixton's back went out of my sight. When the night clerk answered I spoke quickly, insistently.

"Please ask Miss Harrison to come upstairs immediately, but do not speak the message where anyone save Miss Harrison and Mr. Veritzen can hear it."

"All right," he said briefly, and propping my door ajar for a possible quick retreat, I sped out of the door and down the softly carpeted hall to the staircase up which I knew Mary would ascend. I met her as she was running lightly up, and put my lips to her ear.

YOUNG PEOPLE FOLLOW

"Brixton—just going out for a cigar and a stroll—for an hour, he says. Have Noel trail him."

I wheeled with the last word and rushed back upstairs, shutting my door and locking it, then going back to the telephone and asking for the number of Whitney Hall. When I was connected I asked for Dr. Barnes and spoke softly, quickly.

"Dr. Barnes. Please say to the others that our friend here has gone out for a cigar and a stroll, says he will be back in an hour at the latest. They will understand."

There was a low, insistent tap at my door by the time I had finished speaking. When I opened it Mary stood there, flushed, eager.

"Brixton asked to have his car brought around and Noel is going to get his out on that side street, so he can trail him. Will you need me here, or may I go with Noel? I might be able to help him."

"Of course, go with him; but remember, no recklessness!"

"I'll remember," she said, but as she turned away I knew that the admonition might as well have remained unspoken. Caution and Mary have no kinship, but I had not the heart to forbid the girl's going with her betrothed upon this adventurous errand.

BRIXTON SHOCKED

The next hour was a nightmare of suspense for me, although I chided myself for my melodramatic suspicions, arguing that Brixton might very well have been telling the truth about his reason for absenting himself from the hotel.

But when at last the man came back, there was a gray look on his face, a haunted gleam in his eyes. That the man had received a shock, anyone could see; but of course I ignored his appearance.

"Is it as pleasant out now as it was earlier in the evening?" I asked perfunctorily.

"Eh? What?" he stumbled. "Oh! Yes, fine night. I took the old boat out and had a little drive while I smoked. Always rests me, driving at night. Thanks for watching over the family. I think we can all turn in now."

He went heavily down the corridor, and I waited breathlessly for the closing and locking of his door, then dashed to the telephone.

"Tell Miss Harrison not to come up. I will come downstairs," I told the clerk.

"Miss Harrison and Mr. Veritzen have not yet returned," the night clerk replied. "Shall I give her the message and call you, as soon as she comes in?"

"Please," I said, feeling unable to get out another word. Then I waited for the next message from the telephone, sitting with my hand upon the receiver, so that I might snatch it off before there should be anything more than a tinkle from it.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A warm bath is soothing to tired muscles, has a tranquilizing effect upon nerves that are on the jump. The temperature of the warm bath should be about 95 degrees. If the water is warmer that that it may increase heart action, flush the skin, start up perspiration. The time for the warm bath is at night; the cold shower is best in the morning, makes the beauty seeker start the day right.

To many a woman, cosmetics are little jugs of hope. They make her imagine that youth hasn't departed. Rouge and lip stick are harmless stimulants when they are used, not abused. Then too, femmes live up to their make up. When faces are decorated, they're not likely to be down at the mouth. Perhaps the reason there aren't any bawling women any more is because one can't very well cry when eyelashes are darkened, have muddy tears running down the alabaster complexion. At any rate, in mid-Victorian times when pallor was au fait the girls were forever doing faints, bursting into tears, making ninnies of themselves. So we hear tell.

There's a lot of complaining this time of year about dry skins. Complexions that are on good behavior in the summer season get suicidal tendencies, begin to moult. All due to dryness of the air in steam-heated offices and homes. By placing water containers on radiators, making the air moist and agreeable, there will often be an end to the complexion ill. Of course, it's necessary to lubricate the complexion night and morning. And to select a powder that has an oily base. No astringents.

In those so-called good old days—maybe they're good because they are old—homeliness was respectable, beauty was under suspicion. Girls married at sixteen, were staid and settled at thirty, wore bonnets and shawls. If a woman were blessed with intelligence she had to pretend to be dumb so she wouldn't outshine the master of the home to whom she had sworn obedience. The painted lady was a social outcast. A lot of water had run under the beauty bridge since then; let the present generation be thankful for that. Good appearance peps up spirits, puts women on their toes.

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Myxedema a Baffling Affliction

It is only recently that our knowledge of the thyroid gland was anything but meager and unsatisfactory. Even now a great deal remains unsolved.

Dr. Copeland

You are familiar with "goiter" and know that it is really an enlargement of the thyroid gland, located in the front sides of the neck. But the gland may be diseased without being enlarged. When there is a deficiency in the activity of the thyroid, certain changes occur within the body. If this happens in infants, it produces a condition known as "cretinism." A similar deficiency occurring in adult life is known as "myxedema."

While no age is exempt from myxedema, about 90 per cent of the cases occur in women beyond 40 years of age. The exact cause of the disease has never been determined.

The symptoms observed are due to an actual shrinkage of the thyroid gland. The early signs of this disease are vague and rather indefinite. No matter how slight these symptoms may seem, they should be given immediate attention.

The afflicted person is always tired regardless of his number of hours of sleep and rest. The face becomes coarsened, having a mask-like appearance. The skin is dry and scaly and the hair falls out. The patient looks as if he had gained weight. But the appearance is due to a swelling of the skin of the face and legs, without any actual gain in weight.

A complete physical examination is necessary for the early determination and successful treatment of this disorder. In this examination, all abnormalities are noted and if possible they are corrected. It will be wise to have the "basal metabolism" test, of which I told you recently. This will confirm or disprove that the thyroid gland is really diseased.

When the thyroid gland is not working properly and signs of myxedema are present, it is because the natural secretions are absent. One method of treatment is to give extracts made from the thyroid glands of animals.

Such treatment should be given only under the personal supervision of a physician. I must warn you against the undirected used of glandular extracts. They stimulate the thyroid and other glands and may dangerously increase the work of the heart.

The myxedema patient should be confined to the house. Complete rest in bed is essential to the treatment and cure of this disease. As the basal metabolic rate increases and the symptoms disappear, more freedom may be permitted.

Myxedema is indeed a strange and baffling disease. Though we have the means of combating the ailment, further study is necessary to discover the exact cause. When this is known, adequate measures will be found to prevent the disease.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Stuff That Plays Are Made Of

The really fine plays at Contract Bridge—those that mark the expert player—generally resolve themselves into eliminations, squeezes and forced lead plays.

An elimination play requires the elimination of one or more—generally two—suits from the hands of both the Declarer and the Dummy, and then the throwing in of an opponent to compel him to make a favorable lead.

The principle of squeeze plays is quite well known, and is based upon the working of the factor of time. Thus there are actually more than 13 tricks that might be made in a hand at Bridge if all the good cards could be cashed, but there are only 13 leads, or time units, and thus some good tricks cannot ever be made.

The third type of expert play is the forced lead play, which requires that a chosen opponent be stripped of a suit or suits and then thrown in to make a favorable lead, calculated to give the Declarer an extra trick.

The hand below is an illustration of the second type of expert play discussed above, in which Mr. O. E. Emrich, of Cleveland, O., developed a very pretty triple squeeze.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 96 ♡ A K 9 5 3 ◇ A K 8 3 ♣ Q 4
♠ 10 7 3 ♡ Q 6 4 ◇ 10 5 2 ♣ A 10 9 8	North West East South	♠ J 8 5 2 ♡ J 10 7 ◇ 9 6 4 ♣ 7 3 2
	♠ A K Q 4 ♡ 8 2 ◇ Q J 7 ♣ K J 6 5

The eventual contract was six notrump, played by South, although a contract of six diamonds would have been easier to fulfill, but the game was Duplicate, scored on the match-point basis, and therefore the notrump contract appeared more desirable.

West opened the club Ten, which was won in the closed hand, and a club was returned at once. West won this trick with the Ace, and led a third round of Clubs, which Mr. Emrich won, leaving West with an established club. This was not as it might appear, a bad play, but part of the careful plan of making the hand. Four diamond tricks were now cashed, a small heart being discarded on the fourth round. Both opponents were forced to discard, East first feeling the effects of the squeeze. Should he part with a spade, it would establish the entire spade suit in the South hand. As South had opened with a spade bid, East decided it was safer to part with a heart. West dropped a small spade. A small spade was now led from Dummy, and South followed with three rounds, which applied the squeeze to the West hand.

The fact that South still held a club made any defense impossible on the last lead of spades, as to discard a heart established all Dummy's hearts, and the discard of a club was equally fatal. The result was that South made his contract. It could not have been made had he not realized the possibilities of the squeeze and the tremendous value of his "losing" club.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What is the correct Opening bid on the following hand?

♠ A K Q J 9 6 4 ♡ K 2 ◇ A J ♣ A 8

Answer—Two spades. The hand contains but 4½ honor-tricks. However, it contains more than enough playing-tricks to warrant forcing partner to keep the bidding open until a game contract is reached. Furthermore, if partner makes any positive response, a Slam is practically assured.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

IF PRECAUTIONS are followed in making ice creams in an automatic refrigerator, and the ice cream mixture is stirred every 30 minutes during the first part of the freezing, satisfactory results can be obtained, provided the freezing compartment maintains sufficiently low temperatures. It is easy to secure these low temperatures because practically all automatic refrigerators are now equipped with a temperature control, which can easily be adjusted by the user. Don't forget, however, to return the temperature control to a warmer setting after the dessert is frozen. Otherwise food may in time freeze in the food compartment. If your refrigerator is one that has a fast-freezing tray, this is where desserts should be frozen. As for the length of time required for freezing such desserts, the Institute has found that this depends upon the consistency and sweetness of the mixture, the temperature of the room, temperature of the mixture when put in the trays, the number of times the doors of the refrigerator are opened, the frequency with which the mixtures are stirred, and the setting of your refrigerator. This last is extremely important.

* * *

TOASTED COCOANUT BISQUE—2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups scalded bottled milk or 1 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup water, ½ cup sugar, 6 tablespoons light corn syrup, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg whites, 1 cup cream, whipped, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, 1 cup cocoanut, toasted and crumbled.

Add tapioca and salt to milk, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear and mixture thickened, stirring frequently. Add ½ cup sugar and syrup, and continue cooking and stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cool. Strain mixture by stirring (not rubbing) through fine sieve. Chill. Add 2 tablespoons sugar to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold into tapioca mixture. Fold in cream, vanilla, and cocoanut. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze as rapidly as possible—the time will vary. Or turn into container, cover tightly and pack in equal parts of ice and salt 2 to 3 hours. Makes 1 quart bisque.

ZUDER ZEE—1 package rusk (rolled fine), 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup melted butter.

Mix ingredients and take out a scant cupful and reserve for top. Line a well greased pan with remainder, bottom and sides.

3 COCKTAILS A DAY KEEP COLDS AWAY

DOCTORS RECOMMEND IT

HERE'S a grand new appetizer for breakfast, luncheon, dinner—here's a pleasant new way to avoid colds.

It's the 50-50 cocktail—half zestful Florida grapefruit juice—half delicious Florida orange juice. Your doctor will tell you that there's nothing better to keep your system alkaline—and that's the only "system" cold and influenza germs can't beat.

To escape colds, just drink a 50-50 three times a day. You'll find it more economical to make it with tree-ripened Florida oranges and grapefruit—they give so much more juice. Richer, better-flavored juice, too. You can always identify Florida citrus fruit by its thin, smooth skin.

TASTY, TANGY TANGERINES!

Florida tangerines are "kid-glove" oranges. The peel comes off as easily! One twist of the thumb—and the Florida tangerine releases its distinctive cover. The rich, red segments come apart like the petals of a rose. Eat them for flavor, for fun and for food-value! Children love them. So will you!

Turn those clouds Inside Out!

YOU can gain a fuller, richer enjoyment of life by keeping in tip-top health. For health and happiness go hand in hand.

A frequent cause of poor health is constipation. It clouds your waking hours, and dulls even the sunniest disposition. Yet it can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN also provides twice the blood-building iron of an equal amount by weight of beef liver. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that in leafy vegetables.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will prevent and relieve most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Think how much better it is to enjoy this food in place of taking patent medicines—so often harmful and habit-forming. Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"When you're healthy, you're happy"

"How you feel — and how well you look — depends largely upon the food you eat. Be sure your diet is balanced — with sufficient 'bulk' to promote regularity."

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Wrong Slant on Gibson. Red Sox Entirely New.
Rowing Loses High Spot. Brown Noted for Ends.
Yank Rivals Find Hope. Battaglia Holds Edge.

HURLER BUCS SEEK NOT BIG LEAGUER

WHEN GEORGE GIBSON recently made it known that he hoped soon to acquire another left-hand pitcher, the impression got abroad that he had in mind an established major leaguer. Critics around the big circuits jumped to the conclusion that an important deal was pending, and ever since they have been speculating as to the identity of the southpaw coming to the Pirates, naming almost every prominent fork-hander in the National League as a possible addition to the Buccaneer forces for 1933.

George Gibson

That's all misleading to the fans and unfair to Gibson in that it puts the Pirate manager in the light of having promised something which baseball men know cannot be delivered. It would be expecting entirely too much to look for the new pitcher to be a big leaguer. Gibson never intimated anything of the sort. First-class major league pitchers are not obtainable at present, as the Pirate bosses discovered when they tried hard for weeks, without success, to get one. Even a rich club like the Cubs, after vainly offering huge sums for a high-grade major league left-hander, had to give up and be satisfied with the purchase of Beryl Richmond from Baltimore instead. It's a safe guess that Gibson was not referring to a big league pitcher, and that the new southpaw whom he expects soon to land will come from the minors. That's the only place you can get them right now.

THE ANNUAL HIGH spot in college rowing is wiped out for 1933 by the decision, for economic reasons, not to hold the Poughkeepsie regatta. Since its inception in 1895 this is the first time the intercollegiate regatta has been interrupted except for the break in 1917-18-19, due to the war.

The fact that football receipts were below normal last season no doubt was a factor in leaving some of the colleges unable to stand the expense of regatta competition. Those who have opposed the so-called overemphasis in football may realize now that if it were not for the huge football receipts which they decry, other college sports could not carry on.

IN SINGING THE praises of Bob Brown, the Braves' young right-hand pitcher, Manager Bill McKechnie tells of a feat he pulled which does not appear in the records. Brown struck out 10 pinch-hitters during 1932, evidence of heart and ability under fire.

Bob's work in general was so encouraging that McKechnie plans to take five good minor league pitchers on the training trip and give them all a thorough trying out in the hope of finding another Brown.

OTHER AMERICAN LEAGUE clubs are pointing to last year's upsets in an attempt to show that the job of keeping the Yankees from repeating for the pennant may not be as hopeless as it looks on paper. They recall that the A's were picked by many for a fourth flag, that the Giants were hailed as the strongest club John McGraw had led in many years, and that the world champion Cardinals were hailed as certain contenders, at least. Yet the A's flopped, while the Giants and Cards did such a nosedive that they finished in a tie for sixth place. The Yanks, too, may collapse, it is held, with Ruth, Lazzeri, Combs and Sewell nearing the end of their careers. But it would seem that a club which won out by the wide margin of 13 games in 1932 could afford to do considerable slipping and still be good enough to finish ahead of the pack.

Barney Friberg

THE MOST COMPLETE job of making over a baseball club in the major leagues this winter has been done by the Boston Americans. The starting team of 1933 may not include a single player who was with the club at the beginning of the 1932 campaign.

The recent signing of Barney Friberg, after he had been released unconditionally by the Phillies, rounded out the new lineup. Without Friberg, either Manager Marty McManus or Urban Pickering, the only infielders holding over from last opening day, might have started again the coming spring, but Friberg takes over the only vacant position.

Of those nine, only McManus, Pickering and Oliver remain on the roster. This year, it is expected, the Hubites will go into their first game with Shea catching, Johnson pitching, Alexander at first base, Friberg at second, Hodapp at third, Mulleavy at shortstop, Stumpf in left field, Seeds in center and Winsett in right. No club can ever do more than tie that record for changes in one year.

SOME COLLEGES ARE noted for the way they continually surpass others at developing star performers in a particular sport or position. For instance, Yale has its pole vaulters, Michigan its football centers, Purdue its basketball guards, Chicago its gymnasts, and Northwestern its swimmers. Ralph Cannon thinks there should be added to the list Brown's tradition for fine ends. One of them turned in the unparalleled achievement of making Walter Camp's all-America teams in two instances 10 years apart.

THE MAN TO pull that feat was Spike Dennie, now athletic director and football coach at the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo. He was selected as an end on Camp's second team in 1908, and in 1928, when an officer at Camp Funston in Kansas, he was named again on Camp's third all-service eleven.

Kit Regnier was on Camp's first team in 1909; Busty Ashbaugh won an award on the third eleven in 1911 and was honored again in 1912, and Hal Broda, captain of the 1926 iron team, was selected by several of the all-America pickers in that year. Other great Brown ends were Josh Weeks and Furber Marshall in 1916 and 1917, Thurstown Towle in 1926 and Frank Meadow in 1932.

IN THE EYES of the New York Boxing Commission, the middleweight champion of the world will come out of tonight's 15-round battle at Madison Square Garden between Morris Jebaltowsky, otherwise Ben Jeby, and Frankie Battaglia.

Frankie Battaglia

Marcel Thil, of France, would appear to be entitled to some consideration before any titles are awarded in the 160-pound division, as besides being champion of Europe he beat Gorilla Jones when the latter was N. B. A. champion, and polished off another American of high rank at the time in the person of Vince Dundee.

THE MATTER PROBABLY will be straightened out later by a meeting of Thil and tonight's winner, and meanwhile the victor in the Battaglia-Jeby fight will be recognized as world champion by the New York powers. The bout has been described as a test between the hardest puncher and the busiest puncher in the middleweight division. Battaglia is the boy with the wallop. He has won 26 out of 30 bouts by knockouts. Jeby is the one with the incessant two-fisted attack. In Chicago last spring Battaglia knocked out this same Jeby in the very first minute. If Frankie is not weakened by the weight his socking power ought to win again for him.

TRADE PASSERS AND SCHENLEY IN BIG GAME

By JULIUS LEVIN

Connelly Trade School, coached by Johnny Dickson, and Perry High School, coached by Chester Smith, will have an opportunity to take undisputed possession of first place in their respective sections of the City League this afternoon when they meet worthy basketball rivals.

South High, coached by Grover C. Washabaugh and tied with Connelley in Section 1, is not scheduled for league action this afternoon, while Allegheny High, coached by Harry Springer and tied with Perry for the lead in Section II, likewise has a day of rest insofar as Section II games are concerned.

SCHENLEY REAL TEST

Connelley, having defeated Taylor Allderdice, 27-26, and Westinghouse, 26-25, faces its toughest test of the season this afternoon when it engages Schenley High, defending City League champion, on the Connelley court. Schenley started its campaign last Tuesday by defeating Peabody, 30-22. If the Dickson passers can pass the Schenley hurdle successfully it will have an excellent opportunity to win the Section I crown provided South can be removed.

Fifth Avenue and Allderdice tangle at Allderdice and Westinghouse and Peabody, both defeated twice so far, strive for their initial victories at Westinghouse in other Section I duels.

LANGLEY AT PERRY

Langley, coached by L. L. Russell, which lost to South Hills and won over Oliver in its first two league frays, will be the Perry opponent in the Section II headliner at Perry. The Smith passers have not been extended in Section II games to date, having swamped Carrick, 55-8, and Allegheny Vocational, 34-11. However, stiffer opposition is expected with Langley as its foe. Perry is seeking its third successive City League title, having won the football championship in a post-season game with Westinghouse last fall.

South Hills invades Allegheny Vocational and Carrick is at Oliver in other Section II contests.

SCOTT MEETS RANKIN

The feature contest in the W. P. I. A. L. tonight is the battle between Johnny Reed's Scott machine and Jock Rosenberg's Rankin quintet of Section VIII. Rankin is rated one of the strongest teams in this division. In nine games played so far this season, including a league affair with Wilkinsburg, Rankin has copped eight victories, the Tech B passers being the only team to defeat the Rosenbergers. On the other hand, Scott will be striving to make it 12 straight victories without a loss. The Reedmen boast two league triumphs and 10 non-league conquests, quite an enviable record.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE STATUE OF THE DOUGHNUT SELLER—This most remarkable marble statue on the Campo Santo (cemetery), of Genoa, Italy, was erected in the lifetime of its original, Signora Cattainin Campodonico, who for 52 years sold hazelnuts and Italian doughnuts (canestrelli) until she amassed about $5,000, which she spent on this statue of herself. The statue represents a Painsanna (La Paesana in the Genoese dialect) in the old Genoese costume, carrying a chain of hazelnuts and canestrelli, and its pedestal bears a quaint Genoese inscription in which the Doughnut Seller narrates the history of her statue and hopes to have immortalized her memory for future ages.

By JESS CARVER

It may be Friday, the thirteenth, to the superstitious but it's just another day to a couple of college basketball teams, which will put themselves on the spot in games here tonight.

Duquesne University's Dukes, Durable Dukes once again after being defeated last week by Westminster, put their city court title on the block as they battle Pitt's Golden Panthers at the Stadium Pavilion in the first game of the three-cornered city title series. The Dukes, favorites to take the crippled Pitt team, have won two decisive victories since bowing to the Titans.

TECH PLAYS W.-J.

Meanwhile, Carnegie Tech's unbeaten Tartans entertain Wash-Jeff's Presidents in the Tartan gym. The Skibos will be seeking their third victory in as many starts against Wash-Jeff, while the Prexies have lost three games and won one to date.

The Dukes, with every man of last year's championship array back, and with some very high-class sophomore stock added to the roster, would rank as the choices over the Panthers tonight even if Pitt could be at full strength. With one regular definitely out, and another on the extremely doubtful list, the Golden Cats appear in for a thumping. Duquesne beat Pitt in the only game played between the teams last year, 28 to 21.

Coach Doc Carlson has had to shift his lineup for the all-important tussle due to an ankle injury suffered in the Temple game last Saturday by Claire Cribbs, langy center, and an elbow hurt picked up by young Skippy Hughes, sophomore forward, who was the sensation of the team in the first four games. Russ Ochsenhirt, who played center last year and was placed at a guard this, has been moved back to the pivot spot. Slim Wainio, former New Castle High star has been inserted into Hughes' forward position and Charley Hughes, brother of young Skip, played at Ochsenhirt's guard post. Capt. Don Smith will play the other forward and Don McCamant pair off with Hughes at guard.

DUKES' LINEUP SET

The Dukes will adhere to the same starting lineup that Coach Chick Davies decided upon after the Westminster defeat. Art Feldman and Paul Birch will go at the forwards, with Len Brenner in at center and Marty Reiter and Dudey Moore at the guards. Big Jim MacDougal, who'll see service just as soon as the Dukes start to go bad, if they do, and Captain Bunk McGeever, who lost his center job to Brenner, are set for replacement duty.

Pitt's forces have shown uncanny ability to sink the ball from long range so far this season, and with the regular combination broken up, it is very likely that the Panthers will do a lot of banging away from out in front. If they hit half as well as they did against Temple and Purdue, the Dukes will be in for a busy evening. The fact that the Panthers are the underdogs just about assured the Red and Blue such a time anyway.

Regardless of its outcome, the struggle is certain to be a lallapalooser, and the old-timers, who are wont to sneer at the modern game, hardly will perch on the sidelines and moan:

"Oh, Mr. Naismith, if only you could see your game now!"

In a preliminary game the freshmen teams of the rivals will clash.

C., knocked out Sam Zebeth, Grindstone A. C., second round.

160-pound class—Steve Stefek, Sands A. C., knocked out Oliver Cheatham, Point Breeze A. C., first round.

CUP DRAW TONIGHT

The draw for the junior and senior soccer benefit games will be made tonight at a meeting of the West Penn Cup committee. The entry list for this year's competition is light.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The next football coach at Geneva College will be a Carnegie Tech man . . . You can kick that around . . . Buttonholed on the proposition of his successor as head mentor of the Covenanters, now that he has taken over the reins at his alma mater, Tech, Howard Harpster today admitted the Geneva situation has been narrowed down to the matter of naming a former Tech player, for the very good reason that it is felt by the Geneva athletic authorities that its average size player fits in better with the diversified Carnegie system of play than with any other that has been tried . . . Harpster encountered fine success during the three years he was at Geneva.

Speaking of leaving Geneva, Harpster said he did so with regret, and would have hesitated a long time about making the move if it had not been for the fact that he was being called to his alma mater. . . . He said his relations with Dr. M. M. Pearce, the president of Geneva, and with Dr. Clark, assistant to Dr. Pearce, as well as with A. C. Edgecombe, the athletic director, were all that any coach could ask at all times.

Herb McGee, the demon bicyclist, probably will be interested to know that they are staging a six-day race in the Cleveland Public Auditorium beginning one week from tonight . . . Technocracy is not a new system of play at Carnegie Tech, but it may be when Coach Max Hannum gets some of his basketball puzzlers working at top speed.

Joe Skladany, the Pitt end, is a "ringer" for Jack Sell, Post-Gazette sports writer, believe it or not, but so far Jack hasn't taken credit for making those tackles in the Rose Bowl . . . Take your time going to the Stadium Pavilion tonight . . . Not much doing there . . . Only a basketball game between P. and Duquesne, and, of course, there's not much interest in that.—Harry Keck.

BIG TEN CUTS NOT DRASTIC

By MAJ. JOHN L. GRIFFITH

Big Ten Athletic Commissioner

(Written Expressly for, and Copyright, 1933, by International News Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—There is little possibility that any of the universities comprising the Big Ten Conference will follow Cornell's example in reducing its athletic program to two sports.

Of course, schools in the Middle West have had to limit their programs during the depression—especially in the matter of non-productive competitions—but none has gone so far as Cornell.

Big Ten athletic budgets have been curtailed, but the universities are carrying on as best they can. Such revenue-yielding sports as football and basketball are going as strong as ever.

In "flush times" most of the conference schools maintained 14 competitive sports, including such non-productive ones as swimming, boxing, wrestling, golf, tennis and fencing. To meet changing conditions, the number of dual competitions has been cut down. We have not, however, given up any of the great Conference meets in these various sports.

FORMER GRIDDER DEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Ernest C. Duncan, captain and quarterback of the 1898 Notre Dame football team, is dead at his home here. He died yesterday. He was a director in the Northern California Golf Association.

MANGRUM SETS 'CALIENTE PACE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The youngsters, who take their chances for birdies in disdain of par, continued to lead the field in the Agua Caliente 72-hole, $7,500 open golf tournament today.

It was Ray Mangrum, 22-year-old sharpshooter of Waco, Tex., who refused to crack under the strain of the contest and the stubborn course to stand alone in first place. His par 72 yesterday on top of the dazzling 69 Wednesday increased his lead to two strokes with a 141.

Paul Runyon, White Plains, N. Y., 24 years old and a bit more experienced in tournament play than Mangrum, moved along in second position as the field of 108 remaining players put the halfway mark behind. He had to break the course record with a 32 on the out nine, however, to move up in the standings, for he finished with a 37 for a 69 and 143 strokes total.

Archie Hambrick, young Zanesville, O., pro, who left the accountant's desk for the golf course, also refused to fold up as the race gained momentum. He shot a 74, a bit less certain than his 70 of the first round, for third place at 144.

The nearest veterans to this trio of youngsters were Leo Diegel, home pro and former National P. G. A. champion; Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., leading money winner of the western jaunt, and Tony Manero, Greenwich, Conn. Each had 146.

Mack to Take Small Squad South

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Only 28 players, the smallest number in years, will comprise the Philadelphia Athletics' squad to go to the team's training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., this year.

Tech Seeks Third

Coach Max Hannum, of Tech, has warned his Tartans to keep their weather eyes peeled for this fellow Leiber, of Wash-Jeff. Leiber scored himself some 24 points as the Presidents lost to Bethany, and last year was consistent as a high scorer.

The Tech lineup, with Rigg, sophomore guard star, still on the hospital list, will be the same as faced Temple Tuesday, save that George Silverman will start at guard instead of Jerry Seigal. Bobby Smith and Lou Jagnow are forward fixtures, Ed Stentz will jump at center and Red Fergus will handle the other guard job.

If Jagnow's trick knee shows any signs of weakening, Art Carlson, sturdy little footballer, will get the call.

Jim Leonard's Plebes have a date with the Kappa Sigma fraternity team in the preliminary.

'MY FIRST BLOW WON PHILADELPHIA FIGHT'—TUNNEY

HEAVY RIGHT CONQUERS DEMPSEY

SYNOPSIS

"The Day" (September 23, 1926), has arrived for Tunney! Early that afternoon he flew from his Stroudsburg training camp to Philadelphia, was airsick all the way, was "white as a sheet" at weighing-in, but went calmly to sleep afterward, which nap was interrupted by a visit from Billy Gibson, Boo Boo Hoff and a lawyer. This led to an unpleasant scene late that afternoon, but Gene regained his composure and . . .

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

I arrived at the arena at the time appointed by Tex Rickard. I got myself in readiness for the ring. While sitting in the dressingroom, we had a visit from Chairman Weiner and Tommy Reilly, the referee.

Gene Tunney

Reilly said:

In order to save time in the ring, I've come to tell you that we are going to box according to the rules of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission. You have read them, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, then you understand what they are."

"I understand that the rabbit and kidney blows are barred. Am I right?"

"Yes, they are."

"How many times are you going to warn the man who uses either of these foul blows before you disqualify him?"

With a quick, belligerent glance and in a raised voice, Reilly said:

"This ain't gonna be no pink tea. This is gonna be a fight for the heavyweight championship of the world."

"So I have read in the papers. But since you've come in to discuss the rules, I would like to know all about them, and just what you consider a foul or fair blow. It makes no difference to me if we go in there without gloves, just so I know beforehand."

OUT-TALKS REFEREE

In increasing anger and restrained voice, pointing his finger at me he said:

"Lissen, I want you to understand that I don't want squawks from the loser when this fight is over."

"Go over and tell that to Dempsey. He will be more interested in what the loser has to say than I."

Reilly, followed by the Commissioner, left the room in a huff. As they went, both Bronson and Fink broke into a laugh.

I would like to say that, though Reilly had absorbed the atmosphere of Philadelphia and believed that I would be knocked out quickly, he was impartial at all times during the fight. No arbiter of any sporting event ever officiated more honestly or conscientiously than Reilly.

Though Dempsey used the rabbit punch all through the contest, it was not because of absence of warning from Reilly. Dempsey simply ignored repeated warnings in the early rounds. Seeing they were doing no apparent damage, Reilly did not notice them in the later rounds. It is hard to stop a contest for the world heavyweight championship because of so slight an infraction. Dempsey realized this.

Jack kept me waiting in the ring. Not purposely, however. He had got to the arena rather late.

Rickard, upon meeting him at the gate, said:

"Jack, for God's sake, hurry up. It is going to rain any minute and here we have all these people in. What're we ever goin' to do?"

TOYS WITH BANDAGES

Dempsey, rushing to his dressing room, said:

"Don't worry about that rain, Tex. This guy ain't goin' over two rounds, anyway."

As Dempsey entered the ring, I got up from the stool and met him as he climbed through the ropes. I said:

"Hello, Champion!"

He answered:

"Hello, Gene."

"May the better man win."

"Yeh—Yeh," he muttered, as he went to his corner.

It had been provided by the Boxing Commission that the bandages which they were to furnish were to be put on in the ring. This was done to avoid any talk of loaded bandages. Jack hurriedly wound his bandages on his hands and waited for me to finish with mine. I deliberately delayed the bandaging as long as possible, sometimes rewinding several strands. I kidded with his seconds. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Gus Wilson, who were watching my bandaging.

"Too bad, Jack," I said, "that you are seconding a loser tonight."

"Yeah?" replied O'Brien, not quite comprehending.

Dempsey had kept me waiting. I did not mind. But I knew that he would resent this waiting. He seemed to.

FIGHT UNDER WAY

The bell rang! The fight was on!

Dempsey cautiously advanced to meet me in the center of the ring, and, after a little fiddling, he started a left hook, which I leaned outside of. We clinched and were broken by the referee. Again Dempsey led a left hook, this time a little wilder than the first. Again I slipped it by leaning outside. We clinched again. There was little infighting. Dempsey was warming now to the business of defending his championship. I was cautiously awaiting the chance in accordance with my plan.

After some more fiddling and a feint by me, Dempsey responded with another left hook, which was a little wider and longer than the last. This time I stepped outside.

In the front row sat Mike Trant, of the Chicago Police Department, Dempsey's bodyguard. Mike did not like me—he had read in the newspapers that much of my spare time had been given to books. That, in Mike's opinion, was a proof of weakness. He bellowed:

"Come on, Jack, knock the big sissy into my lap."

Strong words. But, alas, Mike was immediately ejected from the stadium by a small tenor-voiced usher.

With my back to the ropes, I slipped and blocked five or six blows Dempsey threw in my direction as he followed me. Neither of us had yet landed a clean blow. Both had landed several light blows in the clinches. The referee was between us now. I circled around the referee to the center of the ring, and Dempsey, following on his toes, leaned slightly forward as though teetering off balance. I sensed he was thinking that he would have to lengthen his left hook in order to nail me as I stepped back when he led it.

My object in stepping outside and backing up was to make the champion believe I was nervous and afraid. This was different from the brazenness of my statements before the fight. A new psychology altogether. I hoped by making him think I was scared of him, he would get a little anxious to hit me and finish the job. I wanted him to become a little over-confident.

We were out in the center of the ring now. The moment had arrived for me to come out of my shell and attempt to win the fight. I felt comfortable as I dug my right heel into the canvas for a firm foothold. I feinted him once, he blinked. I feinted him again. Thinking that I was again going to step outside of his lead, he took an extra hitch to give it more length as he started his left hook.

RIGHT SAGS CHAMPION

As it came, I stepped in, instead of out, and, with everything I had in my right hand, hit Jack on the cheek bone. Shucks, too high for a knockout! His knees sagged, and, in the short exchange that followed, he was very unsteady and dazed. He later said that if I had followed up this advantage I would have won the fight in the first round.

I did follow up my advantage, but Jack had not been 10 years in the ring for nothing. He covered.

That first blow won the fight for me. Jack was very ineffective after that. He hit me but one hard blow during the whole contest; it was a terrific left hook in the sixth round, landing on my "Adam's apple." The cartilage was pushed into my throat and lacerated by the mucous membrane on one side. I coughed blood and was hoarse for several days.

In a truly remarkable chapter, Tunney will chronicle next his visit to Dempsey's hotel quarters the day after the Sesqui ring classic and how "practically" over night I became the most unpopular of all the heavyweight champions."

DR. H. C. CARLSON

CHARLES (CHICK) DAVIES

Rival coaches of the Pitt and Duquesne University basketball squads, which clash on the Pitt Stadium Pavilion floor tonight in the first game of the triangular series involving also Carnegie Tech for the city championship. Both mentors are colorful and the game is as much a personal, although friendly, rivalry between them as it is a test between their proteges.

The Pitt-Duquesne and Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff games here in the city just about top tonight's floor card, but the first contest of the annual home-and-home series between Grove City and Westminster figures to pack away a capacity crowd in the Grovers' gymnasium.

Westminster, with a victory to its credit over Duquesne, rules a strong favorite to defeat the Grovers, who, nevertheless, may be counted upon to give a good account of themselves.

Pitt's varsity swimming team, with 14 consecutive victories to its credit, takes on Yale's crack tank team at New Haven tonight. The Elis have won 57 dual engagements in a row. Tomorrow night, the Panthers engage Harvard at Cambridge.

Wash-Jeff grapplers meet Waynesburg in a dual meet this evening at Washington, Pa. Eleven bouts are on the program. Dickerhoff, former Penn State star, will serve as referee.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Allegheny College's inaugural basketball game of the season was spoiled by the long range shooting of a substitute guard.

Last night the 'Gators lost to Buffalo, 30 to 28, when Finneman, a sub, dropped in a long shot from mid-coirt in the dying moments of the game. The teams were tied at 11-all at half-time and the Allegheny passers made a game uphill battle to cut down a lead taken by the Bisons as the second half opened. The lineup:

Monongahela Valley amateur tournament, Brownsville.

Ben Jeby vs. Frankie Battaglia (for world middleweight title as recognized by New York State Athletic Commission), 15 rounds, Madison Square Garden, New York.

Tommy Paul vs. Freddie Miller (for N. B. A. featherweight title), and Martin Levandowski vs. Jimmy Braddock, 10 rounds each, and Varias Milling vs. Johnny Pena and Paul Dazzo vs. Johnny Mitchell, 8 rounds each, Stadium, Chicago.

Babe Marino vs. Babe Anderson, 10 rounds, San Francisco.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Pee Wee Jarrell, latest addition to the local fistic colony, tries his line of chatter on Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight puncher, of Elizabeth, in the 10-round main bout at the Arena, on the North Side, tonight. The bout marks the return of Randall to the ring following a considerable layoff. As for Jarrell, he is a substitute for Jack King, of Little Rock, Ark., who called off the bout because of an attack of influenza.

Jarrell will have to watch himself against Randall, a tricky ringman and a dangerous right hand puncher, who has a long list of knockout victories to his credit. He'll have to talk and step at his fastest to keep up his winning streak here.

Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight, meets Al Gatchell, of Cleveland, in the eight-round semi-final. Harry Lennox, of Cumberland, boxes Al Farone, of the West End, in the second bout, and Tony Di Piero, former Duquesne University light-heavyweight, is in with Chuck Mullins, of Lawrenceville, in the opener, at 8:30 o'clock.

Between Rounds

Ben Jeby is a 6-5 favorite with the fans to defeat Frankie Battaglia in their 15-round middleweight title fight in New York's Madison Square Garden tonight, although Battaglia holds a one-round knockout victory over him. Tommy Paul is quoted a 7-5 favorite over Freddie Miller in their battle for Paul's N. B. A. featherweight crown in the Chicago Stadium.

Frankie Goosby plans to leave here soon for Boston. Motor Square Garden was figuring on using him in the main bout next Monday night in a substitute match for the canceled Battling Gizzy-Harry Dublinsky affair, but Matchmaker Jules Beck had put in Frankie Bojarski, of Erie, with Dublinsky. Gizzy called off his bout yesterday with the Chicagoan because of a touch of the flu.

Pee Wee Jarrell finished up his training for tonight's fight with Tiger Joe Randall by working out with Manuel Quintero, who still is around here hoping to redeem himself for his poor fight against Billy Holt.

Jack McDonald, of New Kensington, complains that his Johnny Dunn and U. S. Carpentier can't get a tumble in the way of matches.

Johnny Cataline, the bantamweight boxer from West Virginia, who was around here for a time, now is in Akron and may continue on to Detroit in search of bouts.

COACH TO WAR ON DOPING OF SWIMMERS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Matt Mann, coach of University of Michigan's national collegiate championship swimming team, today announced a war against doping of amateur swimmers, such as, he said, was done by the Japanese in the 1932 Olympic games.

Mann said it is established that "oxygen or some stimulant" was administered to Japanese swimmers within 10 minutes of the time they entered the water for finals of the races at Los Angeles last summer. Japanese men won five of the six races. Their victories generally were credited to a new Nipponese stroke for the free style, but Mann pointed out that they also won the backstroke and breaststroke events, and that their times were considerably better than in trials for places on Japan's team.

Robert Kiphuth, of Yale, coach of the United States Olympic swimming team, and Coach Mann are acting as a sub-committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association swimming committee to report on alleged "doping" at the committee's next meeting, March 24 and 25, at New Haven.

JAPS EXPLAIN ACTION

TOKIO, Jan. 13. — (AP.) — Ryuzo Nichimoto, a member of the directorate of the Japan Aquatic Association, commenting on charges from the United States that Japanese Olympic swimmers were "doped" with oxygen, said liquid oxygen sometimes was administered at Los Angeles to assist recovery from exhaustion, but denied it influenced the Japanese victories.

Nichimoto said the oxygen was administered on the advice of a group of Japanese physicians, who were consulted before the departure of the team for Los Angeles.

NO CRITICISM—KIPHUTH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Robert Kiphuth, coach of the last United States Olympic swimming team, said today he had "absolutely no criticism" to make of the training methods used by the Japanese in the 1932 Olympic games.

FERRIS SILENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Daniel Ferris, secretary of the National A. A. U. and member of the 1932 Olympic administrative committee, today refused to make any comment on Coach Matt Mann's charge that Japanese swimmers were "doped with oxygen" before their races at the Los Angeles games. He said:

"I know nothing about those charges."

HERRERA LOSES TO RAMEY

GRAND RAPIDS, Jan. 13.—Tony Herrera's invasion of Grand Rapids was not as successful as the Chicago lightweight might have wished.

Wesley Ramey, local lightweight, staged a heavy attack in the late rounds here last night to gain the referee's decision over Herrera in a 10-round battle. The bout was close all the way.

Walker, Golden Victims of Upset

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Herman Rama, of the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Long Island, N. Y., and Walter Bourne, of Princeton, N. J., upset pretournament predictions and defeated Cyril Walker, of New York, and John Golden, of Noroton, Conn., 5 and 4, yesterday, in the annual Professional team tournament of the Miami Country Club.

Walker, former National Open champion, and Golden, a money golfer of note, were the favorites to win the title.

Sport Shorts

NEW YORK—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, Texas girl athlete, will make her debut as a pro in Brooklyn tonight when she will lead the Brooklyn Yankee girls' basketball team against the Long Island Ducklings.

BERKELEY, Cal.—April 8 has been selected as the date for the California-Washington regatta on the Oakland estuary. The triangular regatta at Long Beach, involving eights from California, Washington and U. C. L. A., will be staged April 15.

CHICAGO—The White Sox today exchanged Pitcher Lester Tietje and cash for Pitcher George Murray, who last year won 23 and lost 15 games for the Dallas club of the Texas League.

PHILADELPHIA—Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, today took exception to Pitcher George Earnshaw's statement that the Yanks would make a runaway of the 1933 American League race. Connie figures the Senators, Indians and A's will give the Yanks plenty of trouble.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—Lon Stiner, track coach and assistant football coach, is slated to succeed Paul Schissler as head football coach at Oregon State College, it was reported today. It was understood that his salary would be $5,000, rather than the $8,000 paid Schissler.

COLUMBUS, O.—A reduction of 21 per cent in salaries of all members of the Ohio State University athletic department has been recommended by the finance committee of the university's athletic board. A 30 per cent curtailment of operating expenses, and the dropping of Wayne Wright as baseball coach also are advised.

GAME CANCELED

FRANKLIN, Jan. 13.—Because of the prevalence of flu, and the fact that 10 members of the regular squad of the Franklin High School basketball team have been adjudged affected with it, the scheduled basketball game with Oil City this evening has been canceled.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

With the current weather unseasonable for the anglers to give thought to having some sport with the trout, bass and other game fish next spring and summer, nevertheless all of them will be interested in the propagation and planting program of the State Fish Commission, which is being directed along practical lines by O. M. Diebler, chairman of the commission.

The patrons of the trout fishing sport, those anglers who prefer the bass and muskalonge and those thousands of men and women who know nothing about fly or bait casting, but are patrons of the long pole, line and hook, having for their objective perch and blue gills, all are to be provided for in the schedule of Commissioner Diebler. His plans for restoring the bass fishing waters in the state are extensive and in a reasonably short period it will not be necessary to journey into nearby states for bass fishing.

Bass breeding ponds have been constructed and are being operated at a capacity which will produce bass of nearly legal size in enormous numbers. The trout hatching plants in the state have been established for years and have a producing capacity which always will assure liberal planting assuring plenty of trust in all of the recognized streams.

It must be remembered that in 1930 the progress which had been made with the Keystone State trout streams was jolted hard by the summer drought. Not in years had the anglers enjoyed such April fishing. The trout season of last year was fair, and the system drafted by Commissioner Diebler will provide again many good seasons. What a wonderful bass fishing water will be made of the Pymatuning swamp when it finally is flooded! Also for blue gills and perch and crappies. Thousands will enjoy the fishing there.

M'MUNN QUITS AT HURST

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 13.—Roy H. McMunn, of Irwin, director of athletics at Hurst High School since the fall of 1931, has tendered his resignation.

McMunn has produced some crack teams at Hurst since taking over the coaching reins.

When the Irwin man went to Hurst, the Mt. Pleasant Township High School was classified in class B of the W. P. I. A. L. both in football and basketball. For the past two seasons on the gridiron, Hurst has made such an admirable showing that it is now a member of class A circles.

After graduating from W. & J. in 1929, McMunn was appointed athletic director of the Carnegie High School. While at W. & J., McMunn held down a regular end position on the varsity football eleven for two seasons and a regular guard post on the basketball team for three seasons.

Touring Hockey Teams in Fight

LONDON, England, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Members of the touring hockey teams from Canada and the United States, the Edmonton Superiors and the Boston Olympics, engaged in a free-for-all fight in the second period of an international match at the Streatham ice rink last night. The game ended in a 1-1 draw.

The fight developed during an attack on the Boston goal when a Canadian player aimed a blow at Jerry Cosby, American goalkeeper. All the players pitched in, exchanging blows with their hockey sticks and fists.

WESTINGHOUSE AT I. K. S.

The I. K. S. basketball team goes after its sixteenth victory of the season tonight when it meets the Westinghouse Club at the I. K. S. In last night's important independent games, the Y. M. H. A. defeated the Duquesne Lafayettes, 32-25, and the Goldenson Vanities vanquished Eddie Klein's Duquesne All-Stars, 29-12.

OAKLAND GETS RUETHER

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Walter (Dutch) Ruether, veteran baseball pitcher whose years on the mound include service with the New York Yankees, Washington Senators and Cincinnati Reds, has been signed by the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League.

BOUT POSTPONED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The 10-round bout between Vince Dundee, Newark, N. J., middleweight, and Jimmy Smith, Philadelphia, scheduled for the Arena for next Monday night, has been postponed until January 30 because of an injury suffered by Dundee.

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA OFF FOR 1933

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—After surviving all but a wartime emergency over a period of 38 years, the classic Poughkeepsie regatta, championship fixture of the college rowing world, has yielded to economic pressure and passed out of the sports picture for 1933.

Despite the most eloquent efforts of their chairman, Maxwell Stevenson, of Columbia, to save the regatta, even if it had to be sharply curtailed, the stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association decided yesterday it was too expensive an athletic luxury to sustain this year, with gate receipts for the profit-making sports dwindling and budgets unbalanced.

STEVENSON GIVES IN

Stevenson finally joined the representatives of Cornell, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and the Naval Academy in a unanimous decision not to hold the 1933 regatta, but won their agreement to a resolution to resume the rowing championships in 1934, without qualification.

After a session lasting all afternoon, during which every possible chance to continue the regatta was canvassed, the stewards issued this statement:

"At the annual meeting of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, it was decided unanimously not to hold the annual regatta in 1933 owing to the necessity for economy on the part of the athletic administrations of member institutions during the present academic year.

"A resolution was passed to the effect that the annual regatta, at the usual distances, be resumed in 1934."

The decision marks the first break in the championship since the war years of 1917-18-19. Otherwise, neither business conditions nor the elements have prevented the races from being held annually since Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia rowed the first regatta at Poughkeepsie in 1895.

CORNELL HEADS MOVE

Cornell, long the dominant power on the Hudson and winner of 14 varsity blue ribbons, was understood to have led the fight for a year's "moratorium."

Cornell's athletic authorities earlier this week decided to abandon intercollegiate rowing for the year. They are expected to be joined in this move by their upstate rival, Syracuse, a member of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association since 1901.

Gourley to Coach Lafayette's Linemen

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Jan. 13.—Cullen (Fats) Gourley, a star guard of the Pitt football team in 1919, 1920 and 1921, will return to Lafayette College next fall as line coach and assistant to Herb McCracken.

Gourley coached the line at Lafayette from 1924 to 1929 and gave McCracken valuable assistance in turning out some first class teams at Lafayette.

STOCKS DRIFT IN QUIET TRADING

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The stock market today idly teeter-tottered through a dull session in which prices generally ranged either fractionally below or above their previous closing quotations.

Considerable attention was paid passage by the House of Representatives of the farm allotment bill, but here, as in many other matters of financial interest, judgment was largely withheld.

The farm bill still faces the test of Senate action and, if passed there, the decision of the President. In view of this necessary delay before enactment can be made, there was no great rush on the part of Wall street to jump at conclusions. Farm equipment shares were fairly steady, while gold mining stocks, which theoretically would lose much of their present charm if commodity prices should advance, were lowered.

Some long pull buying of motor shares was reported on the assumption that stronger units in the industry, with production costs cut substantially below a year ago, might make a moderate profit even on reduced volume of business. Short covering also helped the tobacco shares, apparently induced by the recent favorable earning statement of Reynolds Tobacco. Copper stocks were neglected, trade advices reporting some easing in foreign metal prices to 5.10 cents a pound, while domestic business was light at the 5-cent level.

Dun's Review found indications that business "is offering more resistance to adverse influences than was the case a year ago." Bradstreet's Weekly said the customary barometers were somewhat opaque, because of holiday interferences, but noted that merchandising tactics were becoming more aggressive. The 1933 aim, it explained, is to make prospective customers "obsolescence conscious," and it cited the automobile industry as an example. The industry, it explained, is seeking in its drive to sell new cars to "make owners more conscious of a new possession and by the same taken their appearance will at once impose upon the older models the strong taint of obsolescence."

TRADE RESISTS DOWN TREND

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The difficulty of comparisons with the December holiday period tends to becloud the current business trend, but further indications are seen that trade is showing a better resistance to adverse influences than a year ago, the weekly mercantile reviews said today.

Bradstreet's pointed to improvement in the bond market as a reflection of "the slow revival of capital courage," but said the increase in commercial failures last week contributed a jarring note to the symphony of convalescence. Dun's says:

"Even though the outlook is obscured by some uncertainties of congressional programs and international debt adjustments, trade recovery during the first quarter, at least, is expected to be characterized by fewer irregularities and less frequent interruptions than marked its course during 1932.

"Accompanied by a strong upswing in commodity prices, advancing security markets, and a wide but somewhat uneven expansion in general industry, wholesale buying assumed a quicker pace, with orders for spring merchandise reaching good levels during the week."

WHEAT PRICES AGAIN FALL

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. — Fresh downturns in wheat values took place early today. Traders' attention focused on problematic effects of agricultural allotment legislation. Opening unchanged to ⅜ lower, wheat afterward declined all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ higher and subsequently sagged.

Fractional setbacks in wheat prices were followed by rallies that brought the market up at times to above yesterday's finish. Corn and oats fluctuated with wheat. Provisions were responsive to hog market downturns.

TRADE POSITION FAVORABLE FOR GAIN

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Business, with its growing resistance to further declining tendencies, is seemingly in condition to respond to favorable stimuli.

Accordingly, it seems appropriate to formulate some of the developments which would hearten the discouraged venturesome classes — the managers and risk takers of business.

Mr. Rukeyser

For three and a quarter years, these sensitive people, on whose mood business activity and employment partially at least depend under our present economic organization of society, have been confronted with a series of shocks and disappointments.

BEER IMPORTANT

They now need the psychological lift from constructive developments. Vast psychological importance—doubtless beyond its authentic statistical significance—would result from immediate modification of the Volstead act, legalizing beer, or preferably wines as well as beer. Economically, it would create a new industry with a product for which there is public demand. It would thus tend to reverse the vicious cycle of continuing deflation, perhaps inaugurating a spiral of recovery. This observation is made on the assumption that the economic setting is ready for such a stimulus. Every competent appraiser of the economic situation recognizes the importance of new industries in generating a recovery. Usually the development of new products depends on accidental and unpredictable factors in comparatively unknown laboratories.

The second cause at worry of the business executive lies in the fact that the price level makes such business as is obtainable—broadly speaking — profitless. Prevailing prices tend to pauperize workers and to render business concerns something less than strong.

If the government would during the emergency put a moratorium on the anti-trust law enforcement of the policeman's club type, and instead take the leadership in authorizing competitors to sit down together and put at least a temporary end to cut-throat and ruinous competition, the impulse toward recovery would be electric.

SALES TAX URGED

Even apart from the immediate emergency, the time has come to consider modernization of the anti-trust laws, which were conceived for an economy of scarcity of goods and which are no longer adapted to the changed economy of surpluses. The legal shackles to economic planning and co-ordination should be lifted. Perhaps the best technique would be for the Federal Trade Commission to appoint an expert representative to sit down with the leading industries, and discuss with them policies in relation to price and output which would quicken the escape from the prevailing anarchy in business. In natural resource industries, literal enforcement of the existing anti-trust laws would be anti-social in that it would sanction wastage of natural resources which should be conserved.

Other stimulants would include passage of a general manufacturers' sales tax, acceleration of job-creating public and semi-public works, crystalization of American policies on tariff, debts, etc.

RAILROADS WIN ON STATE RATES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Railroads serving Pennsylvania have won their long battle to invalidate the long and short haul provision in the state's constitution.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered carriers to establish intrastate class rates not lower for corresponding distances than interstate rates.

After citing numerous instances of rate depression caused by the constitutional provision, Commissioner Eastman, who wrote the decision, said:

"We find that this preference and prejudice and discrimination should be removed by the establishment of intrastate rates in Pennsylvania which would not be lower for corresponding distances than the interstate class rates prescribed for application between points in Pennsylvania on the one hand and points in adjoining states and other points in trunk line territory, on the other hand, in the eastern class rate investigation."

N. Y. Reserve Bank's Discount Unchanged

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The third annual Pittsburgh Golf Club invitation indoor doubles tourney slips into its third day of action late this afternoon. With an even dozen teams remaining in the competition, the bill holds forth promise of considerable speedy second round and quarter-final play.

Yesterday's session beheld survival of favorites with one striking exception, the well-balanced P. G. C. dark-horse combine of Ray Harrison and George Love eliminating John Brown and Eddie Alcorn. Mt. Lebanon entries and fifth seeded outfit, 6-2, 7-5.

EDGEWOOD STARS LOSE

Another tussle that savored of upset beheld the Shannopinders, Irvin Goodman and Ben Bloom, seventh on the select list, account for the Edgewood-Stanton coalition of Frank Smith and Bill Spindler, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1. Aggressive barrier work, fortified by strong service and adequate returns of enemy delivery, registered for the victors over the stubborn defense of the losing array.

Meanwhile such seeded contenders as Dr. Dave and Billy O'Loughlin, Dr. Billy McElroy and Collie Burgwin, Charley Lockhart and McCook Reed and Dr. John O'Loughlin and Jack Beatty battled through with varying degrees of difficulty. The all-O'Loughlin duo downed the father-and-son pair, Harry and McCook Miller, 6-1, 6-3, and Lockhart and Reed, home club hopes, slashed to rather impressive triumph over the not too sturdy opposition of Alf Hamilton and Graham McCargo, 6-2, 6-2.

O'LOUGHLIN, BEATTY WIN

John O'Loughlin and Beatty were likewise pushed to take over the redoubtable Howard Burgwin and Bill Scott, cagy Golf Club crew, 6-3, 8-6. Burgwin and Scott stepped away to 2-0 advantage in the initial set and were out in front at 5-3 in the second canto. O'Loughlin's steadiness and Beatty's reliable service and heavy smashing swayed the balance. In a spirited all-Golf Club extra-setter, Harvey Childs and Robert McClintic out-lasted Barney Wolfe and Walter Heron, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4. The Schenley-Mt. Lebanon scholastic combination of Bod Madden and Ralph Bald continued pretty driving to trim the Sewickleyites, Charley Woods and Chuck Ramsburg, 6-1, 6-3, while the Nimick brothers disposed of William Frew and George Lockhard, 6-3, 6-3.

The summary:

FIRST ROUND

Upper half—Dr. David L. O'Loughlin and William L. O'Loughlin defeated H. J. Miller and McCook Miller, 6-1, 6-3; Dr. John O'Laughlin and John D. Beatty defeated Howard Burgwin and W. R. Scott, 6-3, 8-6.

Lower half—Charles Lockhart and McCook Reed won from L. W. Bughman and F. G. Blackburn, by default; Ray Harrison and George Love defeated John R. Brown and Edgar Alcorn, 6-2, 7-5; Harvey Childs, III, and Robert McClintic defeated W. B. Wolfe and Walter Heron, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4; Irvin Goodman and Ben Bloom defeated Frank S. Smith and William R. Spindler, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1.

SECOND ROUND

Upper half—F. B. Nimick and T. Howe Nimick defeated William Frew and George D. Lockhart, 6-3, 6-3; Ralph Bald and Robert Madden defeated Charles Ramsburg and Charles A. Woods, Jr., 6-1, 6-3.

Lower half—Dr. William S. McElroy and G. C. Burgwin, Jr., defeated Thomas A. Robinson and Howard R. McClintic, 6-4, 9-7; Charles Lockhart and McCook Reed defeated Alf Hamilton and Graham McCargo, 6-2, 6-2.

England Rallies In Cricket Match

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—England rallied after a weak start today in their third test cricket match with Australia and had scored 236 runs for seven wickets at close of play for the day.

After four wickets had fallen for 37 runs, Maurice Leyland and R. E. S. Wyatt staged a rally, the former getting 83 runs before being bowled by O'Reilly, and Wyatt knocking out 78 before Richardson caught him.

The top of the English batting order, Capt. D. R. Jardine, Herbert Sutcliffe, Wally Hammond and Leslie Ames, was no match for the fine Australian bowling, all four losing their wickets for the meager total of 17 runs.

U. S. Netters Take Lead Over Anzacs

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The United States won three matches today in the tennis series with Australia, to take a lead of 5-3, with one more day to play. Wilmer Allison, suffering from an attack of influenza, conceded his match to Jack Crawford.

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., United States and Wimbledon champion, defeated Australia's No. 2 star, H. O. Hopman, 6-3, 6-3; Keith Gledhill won from A. Quist, 6-4, 7-5, and Allison and John Van Ryn, Davis Cup doubles pair, defeated Quist and Vivian McGrath, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Jones to Open New Course Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The Augusta National Golf Club course will be opened today by its president and co-designer, Bobby Jones, and upward of 100 eastern sportsmen, including several officials of the United States Golf Association, will be here for the event.

Each hole on the course was fashioned after some famous hole which Jones has played in his golfing travels around the world.

SQUASH STARS PLAY TODAY

Frank McClintock, veteran P. A. A.-Keystone ace, meets Dave Gilmore, brilliant Allegheny Country Club southpaw and runner-up to McCook Reed for the 1932 city singles title, in semi-final contest of the first annual Pittsburgh Golf Club invitation squash racquets tournament at 5:15 o'clock today.

McClintock, second upon a seeded list that has come through almost to perfection thus far in the event, reigns slight favorite over the gritty Sewickley portsider, rated number five. Decisive straight-game victories over Livingston and Flinn, Golf Club entrants, and Dr. Whitey Stegeman, Winged Head contender, would indicate that McClintock is at or close to the peak of his excellent game, whereas Gilmore, with comparatively little squash under his belt this winter, was carried to five games by Chip Kennedy, City "B" champion, in round one and to four even more bitter games by Bill Bickel, rangy Keystone luminary, in stanza three.

The survivor of this afternoon's fray garners right to encounter McCook Reed in the final. The wind-up engagement has been tentatively set for Sunday, but this is entirely contingent upon the showing of Reed and his partner, Charley Lockhart, in the Golf Club doubles tennis tourney now in progress on the P. G. C. covered courts.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 13.—Edward Lawton, of New Kensington, and Lee Crytzer, of Arnold, have been elected directors of Tarentum Sportsman's Club. Other members of the board are T. O. Jones, C. W. Laden, John Hoffman, Fred Beck, Ned H. Painter, J. H. Person, Thomas Coyle, Ed W. Bradley, Lyle Hunter, Dale Bittenger, Richard Allenberg, Joseph Gretz and J. C. Metzger.

MARY FAITH

Story of a Girl With Husband Who Wouldn't Grow Up

By BEATRICE BURTON

Kim Sick When He Returns From Distant Tavern, Puzzles Mary Faith

CHAPTER XXX.

Mary Faith left her there with Kim and hurried in to put clean towels in the bathroom before Dr. Thatcher arrived. It was 10 o'clock and the house was still in its Saturday morning disorder. Aunt Ella, who was a late riser, was still sitting at the dining room table, drinking endless cups of coffee and making a crunching sound with her teeth as she ate her toast. She had on her purple-and-white bathrobe and she spoke to Mary Faith without lifting her eyes from the morning newspaper:

"I could just shake Amelia Farrell!—The way she fusses up every time that old doctor is coming to the house is just plain silly!—I shall sit right here where I am and in this bathrobe until he gets here. My goodness, he ain't the King of England!"

But nevertheless when the doctor's ring came at the front door she got up and scuttled into the room she shared with Mrs. Farrell, leaving the floor under her chair covered with toast crumbs and the table littered with newspapers.

Five minutes later she came walking into Kim's bedroom, looking as neat as wax in her gray linen house dress with its white collars and cuffs.

"Just a little sore throat—ain't that all?" she asked.

CALLS HIS OFFICE

Dr. Thatcher shook his iron-gray head.

"No, that's not all. He has bronchitis, too, Mrs. Goad," he said. "I've just been telling these good ladies"—he nodded in the direction of Mary Faith and Mrs. Farrell—"that we'll have to keep him in bed for a few days and give him a very light diet. Soups and fruit juices, mainly."

He was much better by the following Tuesday. On Wednesday he got up and after lunch he dressed himself and said he was going to the office.

Late in the afternoon it began to rain and at 5 o'clock Mary Faith decided to call him up and beg him to come home in a taxicab instead of his open roadster.

"Mr. Farrell is not here this week," the voice of the telephone operator in McIntrae and Westover's office informed her. "Is there anyone else you'd like to speak to?"

"Yes," answered Mary Faith. "Please let me talk to Mr. Maldon.

She would ask Jack to give Kim her message. There must be some mistake. Surely Kim was at the office.

"Hello," Jack's voice came to her over the wire. "Hello."

"Jack?—This is Mary Faith. Is Kim around the office?"

"Sandy? No. Did you think he was here?"

AWAY ALL EVENING

Mary Faith hesitated. "He left the house this afternoon in his car," she said. "I thought he might be down there. He must have gone somewhere else. Thanks, Jack."

At eight o'clock he had not come home. The three women sat down to a dinner of dried-up lamb chops and stewed corn that had cooked so long that it was light brown instead of smooth pale yellow. The salad had wilted in its bowl and the coffee was bitter from standing on the back of the stove for two hours.

At ten o'clock the "sisters Kimberley" went to bed, and Mary Faith settled herself in her chair in the sitting room to wait for Kim.

A year and a half before she would have been frantic with worry over him. She would have pictured him in a dozen accidents—under the wheels of his car lying in a ditch by the side of a road or in a narrow white hospital bed.

But now she had learned that when he did not turn up at nightfall it was because he wanted to stay away from home—and her only anxiety was for his health. The rain was sluicing down outside and he had taken no overcoat with him. He never should have gone out today at all. She blamed herself for letting him go.

At 12 o'clock she went back to her bedroom and lay down on the bed, fully dressed.

"I won't go to sleep," she thought, drowsily, and dropped off.

RETURNS SICK

The next thing she knew she was wide awake, her heart beating like a drum and one side of her face damp and warm where it had been pressed into the pillow.

She heard the front door of the flat close. Then she heard slow, uncertain steps along the narrow hall that led to the bedroom.

The room was filled with sudden light and Kim stood in the doorway with his hand on the electric light switch. His gray suit was dark with rain and the bottoms of his trousers were yellow with mud. Rain glistened on his face and darkened the gold of his close-clipped hair.

"Where in the world have you been, Kim?" she asked, her eyes sweeping him from head to foot. "Out in all this downpour—as sick as you've been—"

"I'm sick this minute," he said sullenly. "so keep all your heckling until tomorrow morning—will you, please?"

She could see that he was sick. He was shaking all over with a chill as he took off his sodden clothes and got into bed.

He closed his eyes and went to sleep almost instantly. She stood looking at him with anxious shadowy eyes for a minute. Then she bent over and began to pick up the clothes that he had left in a heap on the floor beside the bed.

As she hung the damp wrinkled coat over the back of the chair by the window a little pad of safety matches fell to the floor from one of the pockets. On the cover was printed in red and gold letters:

THE GOLDEN PHEASANT TAVERN

The Golden Pheasant Tavern. Why that was the place where she and Kim had stopped for coffee and a club sandwich on their way to Garrettsville the day they were married. It was 25 miles from town at the very least. It came flashing into her mind like a picture on a silver-screen—a little white house set far back from the road, with nothing to give it its name but a gilded bird set on its roof as a weather vane. Who had been there with him? she wondered.

She turned and looked at him, his straight fine features looking finer than ever in his sleep, his hair brushed back from a broad high forehead—that is said to belong always to people of strong intellect and spendid character.

"And yet he behaves just like a bad little boy," she thought. "He tells me lies and sneaks away from me just the way he used to do with his mother—"

Well, in the morning she would have all this out with him. She would tell him that she didn't want to be his mother, his guardian, but his partner—and that he would have to play fair with her—or else—

Her brain stopped at that point. She knew that no matter what he did or how he treated her she would go right on as she was going with him. She knew that she loved him too much ever to lay down any ultimatum to him—

Synopsis

Mary Faith, secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy businessman, gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blonde secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Heartbroken, Mary Faith decides not to tell him of her approaching motherhood. She gets a temporary job as a stenographer. Kim returns after a son is born. Months of happiness follow. Claire warns Mary Faith about keeping Kim at home too much.

That Home Brew Was Terrific

As this is being written while congressional beer efforts are evaporating in transit we don't know whether the bill will be a law or just another home brew recipe.

Not that we are rapping home brew. We held out on the stuff for 12 years and would still be a domicile outlaw if we hadn't got a better offer.

We were among the first to purchase one of those beer machines packed in dry ice and guaranteed to work. But it went bad like a girl in a big city.

All our machine would make was foam. We went surf bathing right in the cellar.

We got plenty of recipes from fiendish neighbors who were hoping to profit by our mistakes. But, in a dozen years of concentrated efforts we never got enough beer to float a potato chip.

We realized we were flouting the law of the land. But so were our neighbors. In our district crime was quite stylish and evasion was a fad.

But, if it makes the drys feel any better to know the truth, there wasn't a home brewer in America who could drink his own malted atrocities without gagging like a snake swallowing a porcupine.

It was awful. It looked like a frog pond in the autumn and tasted like the wool lining in a lumberjack's boots.

It was flatter than a tiled floor. And its bouquet was that of a memorial wreath. One glass was enough to give your stomach a rough, stucco finish. Two glasses made your house and lot a hospital zone. Three glasses put you to sleep for a week and brought back your asthma.

That's the kind of stuff we were lying about for 12 years. Every man claimed to make the best brew. If Congress makes real beer legal this confession stands.

But, if Congress fails to pass the bill we repudiate this clean breast and go back to making the homey stuff again. We can be just as stubborn as anybody else.

If the worst comes to the bat we are willing to compromise. Why not allow us to smuggle the real stuff in under federal supervision?

A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are compounded of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

In 99 out of 100 cases Lavinsky has been able to prove that the defendant was suffering from St. Vitus dance and thus accidentally placed decimal points between the wrong figures on his tax returns.

Calvin Coolidge Pointed Way to Real Pan-Americanism and Prosperity

THE WORDS of Calvin Coolidge are sure of an enduring place in the history of American thought and policy.

Succeeding generations will perceive his swift seizure of vital facts, his just appraisal of their significance, the unfailing sense of their broad and permanent implications.

His writings and utterances will be consulted in times of public emergency. They will be read with reference to the nation's duty in every variety of situation.

They will be conned and quoted and cited by young and old, by student and statesman, and particularly by every historian seeking to trace and exhibit authentic illustrations of the true spirit of America.

FOR COOLIDGE WAS, AND ALWAYS WILL BE, A TYPICAL AMERICAN.

* * *

LET us see what he had to say on the subject of Pan-Americanism,—the duties which he said this country owed to the sister Republics to the south, and the advantages which would accrue to them and to us, from the enlightened development of our mutual trade and the promotion of friendly relations.

On the opening of the Pan-American Commercial Conference in Washington in 1927, President Coolidge made an address of welcome to the delegates.

Reminding them that the United States had become the chief market for the raw materials of the southern Republics, he said:

"The Pan-American movement rests on the principle of mutual helpfulness.

"There is scarcely any nation that is sufficient unto itself. The convenience and necessity of one people inevitably are served by the natural resources, climatic conditions, skill and creative powers of other peoples. This is the sound basis of international trade."

He called attention to a fact not generally realized, that in the exchange of commodities with the Latin American nations, this country has purchased far more from them, than they from us; that we have been in fact the chief foreign purchaser of their products.

* * *

ADMITTING that America is not the chief market for South American bread-stuffs and animal products, he asserted that:

"It is and must be the chief market for industrial raw material, tropical and semi-tropical foods, hides, wool, oil, cane sugar and coffee. Such articles as mineral oils, molasses, chicle, nitrate, bananas, coffee and refined copper, find almost one hundred per cent of their market in the United States, while sugar and lead products come close to eighty-five per cent."

Continuing, in the lofty key of true statesmanship, Mr. Coolidge concluded:

"Our sister Republics have resources of enormous value, and a constantly increasing dependence of the whole world upon the products of their natural resources assures them of a continually enlarging commercial horizon.

"While our own country is desirous of participating in this trade, it does not wish to do so at the expense of any other people, but upon a basis which is mutually just and equitable. Commerce has no other permanent foundation.

"We expect other countries to produce commodities which we can use for our benefit, and we expect to produce commodities which they can use for their benefit. The result is a more abundant life for all concerned.

"It is this mutual inter-dependence which justifies the whole Pan-American movement.

"Our associates in the Pan-American Union all stand on an absolute equality with us. It is the often-declared and established policy of this government to use its resources not to burden them but to assist them; not to control them but to co-operate with them."

HERE, IN ESSENCE AND ENTIRETY, IS A SOUND POLICY FOR THE AMERICAS OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE.

* * *

WE and our sister Republics are happily remote from the mysterious hates and racial enmities of Asia, and the complicated and inveterate frictions of Europe.

With a great domain embracing two continents, of immeasurable richness, much of it new and unexplored, the nations of the Western Hemisphere can build themselves out of the present depression, and with their self-contained and self-developed power help the world to its feet.

Let us not waste precious time on such sterilities as treaties for the "protection of trade marks," "publicity of customs papers," and "uniformity of commercial nomenclature." It is topics like these which have occupied the attention of Pan-American conferences in the past, while the great and true objectives of Pan-Americanism have gone begging.

Let us have no more futile and irritating dialectics about the Monroe Doctrine—whether it is "uni-lateral" or "bi-lateral" or "multi-lateral"—a "regional understanding" or some other kind of an understanding.

Here is a great hemisphere of limitless natural wealth, peopled by enlightened democracies of kindred aims, with a potential good-will and a power of co-operation that need only the slightest initiative for organization into a mighty force for world regeneration.

* * *

THE greatest of opportunities is spread before us,—not before us alone, but equally before every nation of this western world.

If we but approach it together, in the spirt of good-will and mutual helpfulness,—if we all lend a hand to TRANSLATE the IDEAL OF PAN-AMERICANISM into a COMPLETE REALIZATION—THE RESULTS WILL STAGGER THE IMAGINATION.

The Disbarment Cases

Ambulance-Chasing Is Not Justified by the Questionable Practices of Liability Companies.

Ambulance-chasing, of which several Pittsburgh lawyers are accused in disbarment proceedings brought by the Allegheny County Bar Association, is defended in a communication to the Sun-Telegraph as a method by which the rights of the poor and ignorant can be protected.

The argument is that a person is no sooner injured by a street car or taxicab than the company's adjuster arrives, and that if the ambulance-chaser did not arrive first the injured person would run the risk of being wheedled into accepting a ridiculously inadequate sum of money in payment of damages and into signing a paper releasing the company from all liability.

It may be that the public service companies and insurance liability companies do take advantage of uninformed, inexperienced people in this way, but considerable evidence has been adduced that ambulance-chasers also victimize their clients. At any rate two wrongs do not make a right.

The charge that the disbarment proceedings were instigated by the public utility and insurance liability companies is not substantiated, and trustworthy members of the Bar Association declare it is without foundation.

From an abstract philosophical point of view the solicitation of business by lawyers may be defended; but it has been found by centuries of experience that evils attend the practice. The legal profession is not a commercial business like buying and selling commodities, and when it is pursued as if it were justice suffers.

After many years of discussion the American Bar Association, following the example of the English courts, adopted in 1909 a code of ethics forbidding the solicitation of business. Lawyers who violate the code know that they are courting disbarment.

School Consolidations

They Offer a Plan by Which Economies Can Be Effected In the Cost of Public Education.

The joint legislative committee appointed to confer with Attorney General William A. Schnader on revisions of the school code proposes reduction in the number of school districts as an economy measure.

School consolidations, resulting in the elimination of many of the one-room rural schools, have been effected in many districts, with resultant reduction in the cost of public education and also in improvement in the quality of the teaching.

Fifty-nine consolidated schools were established in Pennsylvania during the last school year, with an enrollment of 13,632 elementary and 1,553 high school pupils. Two hundred and fifty-two schools were closed as a result of the consolidations.

One proposal before the legislative committee is that there shall be no school district with a population of less than 10,000 inhabitants. This is probably going too far, as there are several counties with less than 10,000 inhabitants.

The principle of the proposals is good, and the committee is doing well in trying to put it into practice.

The Foster Anniversary

The Fame of Pittsburgh's Song Writer Increases as the Years Roll On.

Under the auspices of the Civic Club of Allegheny County the sixty-ninth anniversary of the death of Stephen Collins Foster is being observed today in Pittsburgh.

Not only in this city, his birthplace, is Foster being remembered today. Thanks to the radio, tributes to his memory are being broadcast throughout the country.

The composer of "Suwanee River," "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Old Black Joe" has conferred honor on Pittsburgh. His fame grows with the passing of the years. His songs become more precious.

At the Crossroads

Upon the left the breadline stands,
Distress on every face,
While pauper hands in alien lands
Control the market place.
The jobless wait in chill despair
While heedless folks BUY ANYWHERE.

Turn to the right where mill wheels hum
And busy engines roar
A sign of better days to come
When hunger stalks no more.
It aids the jobless workingman
When goods are BOUGHT AMERICAN.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

You get what you EXPECT.
You are what you IMAGINE.

Simple statements; but they'd change the whole course of your life, if you could digest them.

"But how about luck?" you say.

There's no such thing. Chance? Yes. But no such thing as steady luck. Consistently "lucky people" MAKE their own good fortune. It doesn't just swoop down on them. They make it by their own attitude; by the things they expect and imagine.

Some people go through life EXPECTING prosperity. Not just wishing for it, but honestly expecting it in every department of their unconscious selves. Expecting prosperity as naturally as they expect air and rain and sunrise. And such people get prosperity. It comes to them as surely as iron filings come to a magnet.

Other people go through life expecting bad fortune. They may deny this. They may loudly affirm their desire for good luck, and relate their efforts to attain the same. But in their secret hearts they are not seeing or feeling or expecting good luck. They are feeling fear. They are seeing misfortune. They expect grief to happen to them. And it happens!

Nor is there anything very mysterious about all this. THE WORLD IS WHAT WE MAKE IT. It is a projection of the patterns we form inside ourselves. Everything man makes happens first in his own mind. That chair you are sitting on, happened first inside a mind. It was created first in THOUGHT before it was ever copied in wood.

Everything man MAKES happens first in his mind.

Everything man IS happens first in his mind.

You can make CONDITIONS as well as OBJECTS.

Just as you can make house patterns and automobile patterns inside your mind, so you can make SICKNESS PATTERNS AND HEALTH PATTERNS, patterns of GOOD and EVIL.

AND THE PATTERN YOU MAKE IN YOUR MIND, WILL EXPRESS ITSELF IN YOUR LIFE.

"But no matter how well we think," you protest, "things are bound to happen to us—outside things, over which we have no control; accidents; death."

That's true. But if you're healthy INSIDE, outside unhappiness or unhealthiness won't destroy your ability to build yourself some more good luck. It's the disaster you expect and accept in your own mind—the surrender you make in your own mind—that really wrecks your life.

In his youth, men put shackles on Epictetus and called him a slave. But Epictetus never called himself a slave in his own mind; never shackled himself, in his own thought. And so the old philosopher Epictetus stands forever free in the memory of men.

You are as free, as wise, as healthy, as happy, as rich as you, in the secret laboratory of your own mind, will yourself to be. You are as bound and unhappy as you expect to be.

"KEEP THY HEART WITH ALL DILIGENCE," cried Solomon, "FOR OUT OF IT ARE THE ISSUES OF LIFE. AS A MAN THINKETH SO IS HE."

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Tips for Ladies

A sick man would often get well far more quickly if he were not "mothered" to death by so many sympathetic women.

* * *

All a woman need know in order to keep up a fluent conversation with the average man is enough to ask a few appropriate questions at the start, and to give a sincere ring to the applause at the finish.

* * *

Why does it require half a dozen dresses, with shoes and hats to match, for a woman to keep looking fit to go about with a man who owns one dinner coat?

* * *

When a modern marriage fails, it is usually because an ideal playmate turns out to be a flop as a helpmate.

Most men prefer a roast beef sandwich, which is solid, simple and satisfying, to a fluffy salad all dolled up with a lot of fancy dressing, which is sure to disagree with them. But, when it comes to a choice among women, they seldom show the same sensible taste.

* * *

Don't conclude that your husband's love is dead, merely because he slams the door and rushes out in the middle of a lover's quarrel—wait until he goes to sleep in the middle of one.

* * *

The old-fashioned girl spent so much time trying to live up to the role of "angel" and "guiding star," that the modern girl sweetly but firmly refuses to wear a "halo" on the grounds that it would cramp her brain.

The best after-dinner speaker, like the most "interesting" woman, is not the one who knows how to talk the most brilliantly, but the one who knows when to STOP talking.

* * *

Marriage doesn't actually change a man's nature; it merely removes the star-dust from a woman's eyes, so that she can see him as he really IS.

Isn't It So?

We promise according to our hopes, and perform according to our fears.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when you had to slip a hotel clerk a bill to clinch a reservation? Phil Plant looks a bit peaked. Add similies: "As hard as the seat of a tea room chair." One word description of Dr. Leo Michel—smiley. Vicki Baum suggests something to rub on the chest.

Nobody has quinsy any more. They whisper, Jimmy Walker bucked at the last moment but the gang-plank had lifted. That happy-go-lucky international wanderer, Tippy Gray, in town again. One of my favorite people, Grace Allen. They're calling Sutton Place, "Pixey Promenade." Look it up!

Mary Garden and Floyd Gibbons having a big laugh in front of Pierre's. Devereaux Milburn and Tommy Hitchcock, the polo-ists, look alike. And Dr. Nathaniel Lief and Sam Shipman bear a resemblance. John Anderson, a Pensacola, Fla., boy, who made good in the city.

Spring garden sets in the five-and-ten, tra, la. Don Clarke, the mug, is beginning to look like one of those pontifical British authors. What changes at the old Knickerbocker Hotel corner! Nobody can look so innocently demure as Lili Damiti.

Mrs. John Chapman could double for the Elsie Ferguson of 20 years ago. George Jessel sticks out his head like a turtle. Always see Sulka, the tony haberdasher, strolling up the avenue at dusk. And how many miss Capt. Jim Churchill's saunter up Broadway at the same hour? What became of flavored toothpicks?

Bob Brinkerhoff was in a taxidermist's shop in the West 50's when a hillbilly entered to have his corns trimmed. Told they did not do that kind of work, he sneered: "And you call yourself a taxidermist?"

I dropped out of the Central Park South promenade into the New York branch of the Parisian Rumplemayer's today. The original stand, hard by Hotel Meurice, is the most popular British-American tearoom in Europe. The tables are filled from noon until sundown. But the New York version seems a pale carbon. There was the zestful confectionery dazzle, huge ribboned boxes, in bright bifurcation, a cheerful fountain, yet, somehow, it had not mastered the humerous ingenuities and gush of spluttering cordiality that makes Rumple-may-yows of Paree!

It was heartening, a recent wintry night, to see the reddish brown mansion of Cornelius Vanderbilt, at fifty-second and Fifth avenue, a monstrous javelin of light in surrounding gloom. A canopy, arched to the curb, roofed a strip of plush carpet. Proud motors debouched a glittering cascade. But one could not help notice the shivering curious, clotted on either side the runway. And what seemed an ominous murmur spreading through the moulting watchers may have been imagination. At any rate, a crossing cop told me it was a charity heigh-ho.

Ethel Barrymore took her chunk of Hollywood movie money, received for acting with the other Barrymores, and invested it in an ill-starred legitimate vehicle, which died aborning in New Haven. Misfortune has pursued the queen of the Royal Family relentlessly the past two years. Despite vicissitudes, she has an immense following which hopes for a gallant come-back.

Three talented actors on the American stage have "flat wheels"—pronounced limps. Yet, so superbly are they camouflaged, only intimates know. I refer to A. E. Matthews, Lionel Barrymore and Herbert Marshall. Barrymore has a rheumatic twist; Matthews, a slightly shortened limb from a war wound, and Marshall, worst handicapped of all, suffered an amputation as result of gallantry in Flanders. John Drew, incidentally, successfully concealed a myopic bulge from matinee idols.
